Purpose of the Grant

Quality Counts emphasizes the opening, expansion, or replication of high-quality charter schools to ensure all students, particularly those from underserved populations, have the opportunity to meet Indiana's challenging academic standards. The funding shall be used to provide financial assistance for planning, program design, initial implementation, expansion, or replication of high-quality public charter schools. The federal funding will be utilized to evaluate the impact of charter schools on student achievement, including the use of state-level and local-level funding. Activities will facilitate the sharing of best practices between traditional public schools and charter schools. The IDOE will support these efforts through extensive technical assistance opportunities, including the strengthening of the charter school authorizing process.

Eligible Applicants

Indiana state law governs charter schools and charter school authorizers. According to IC 20-24-2-1, a charter school may be established to provide innovative and autonomous programs that serve the different learning styles and needs of public school students, offer appropriate and innovative choices, provide varied opportunities for educators, allow for freedom and flexibility in exchange for exceptional levels of accountability, and provide the community with an expanded opportunity for involvement in the public school system.

Proposals may be submitted to enable applicants to open a new school, expand an existing school, or replicate a high-quality public charter school. Prospective applicants shall utilize the definitions below to determine whether the entity is eligible to apply:

High-Quality:* Quality Counts emphasizes high-quality charter schools, which are demonstrated by

New schools wishing to open

1) Based upon the submitted plan
    a. A new school applicant will be deemed high quality upon IDOE receipt of their peer reviewer score, which will be compared against the range of scores in that cohort and a threshold score requirement for applicants.
    b. If a federal accountability rating is available for a school applicant, it will be considered in evaluation of the application regardless of the length of time the school has been open, and will be used to determine high-quality.

Existing schools wishing to expand or replicate will be considered a high-quality applicant by meeting the below requirements and based upon the submitted plan which will be compared against the range of scores in that cohort and a threshold score requirement for applicants.

1) Accountability federal rating of "Meets" or "Exceeds": Evidence of strong academic results, including strong student academic growth and performance on ISTEP (i.e. above state averages). If a federal rating is available for a school, it will be considered in evaluation of the application regardless of the length of time the school has been open. A school's federal rating may be found here.
2) No significant issues in the areas of student safety, school finance, and operational management, or statutory or regulatory compliance (e.g. least restrictive environment, English learner services); Compliance with this standard will require no open corrective action plans with the IDOE.
    a. Student Safety
    b. School Finance
    c. Operational Management
    d. Statutory or Regulatory Compliance

3) Meeting subgroups needs through success in significantly increasing student academic achievement, including graduation rates for all students served by the charter school and for each of the subgroups of students defined by section 1111(c)(2) of the ESEA (economically disadvantaged, major racial and ethnic groups, students with disabilities, and students with limited English proficiency); Compliance with this standard will require the school to not be considered under targeted support & improvement, as defined by Indiana's ESSA plan

Open and Prepare for the Operation of a New, High-Quality Charter School:* A developer for a new charter school must have opened within the past three years (Fall 2017) or submitted a complete charter application and plan to open within 18 months. Evidence of a new school being developed should be in the form of authorizer meeting minutes documenting receipt or approval of a charter, a school corporation number issued by the IDOE, or documentation of an existing charter modification. Other evidence may be accepted per the discretion of the IDOE. A completed charter application must have been already submitted and be under review by an approved Indiana authorizer.

Replication of a High-Quality Charter School:* Replicate means to open a new campus of a high-quality charter school, based on the educational model of an existing high-quality charter school under an additional charter. An applicant applying as a replication must meet the requirements listed under one, two and three above.

Expansion of a High-Quality Charter School:* Expand means the applying school has experienced a significant increase in enrollment (20% or more student population growth) or has added one or more grades to a high quality charter school beyond the original charter in the previous school year. Anticipated or planned growth does not qualify as an expansion application. The significant increase in enrollment must have taken place in the previous academic year.

Early Childhood Programs:* According to the CSP Guidance on the Use of Funds to Support Preschool Education (December 2014), CSP funds may only be used to support Indiana preschools in charter schools that also provide at least one elementary or secondary grade during the grant period. Charter schools that serve only preschool students may not be supported by CSP funds because preschool is not part of elementary education under Indiana law. Only pre-school programs that are included in the school's charter may be included in the grant application's budget.

Early childhood education programs shall be considered high-quality, to be satisfied by participating in Indiana's Paths to Quality (PTQ) and achieving a level 3 or 4 on the childcare quality rating and improvement system. Research shows that high-quality early childhood programs prepare children for future success through a high-quality educational environment. The PTQ system assesses and works to improve the quality of care and education.

In order to meet the definition of a charter school under section 310(1) of the ESEA, the preschool or any other charter school shall not charge tuition for any students within the school for any part of the day. The school may charge reasonable curricular fees. If the school charges curricular fees, there must also be a process for students who qualify as free and reduced lunch students to be given tuition assistance for these curricular fees.

Early Childhood programs must be a site that will offer pre-school or pre-kindergarten directly through the charter school, and include at least one grade in Kindergarten through 3rd grade. (Early Learning is defined as birth through age 8).

The pre-school, and all grades and staff that are supported through charter school program grant funds must be included in the school's charter agreement with the authorizer.

Postsecondary: Refers to* secondary charter schools (e.g. high schools) that promote a focus on college and career readiness programs for their secondary students, such as dual credit, international baccalaureate, advanced placement, or career and technical education are eligible to apply, if the school meets the above definition of a high-quality charter school program. Post-Secondary education is considered to be grades 9 through 12.

Rural: The charter school must be located in a rural local code, as defined by the U.S. Department of Education. If you are a new charter school and do not yet have a rural designation by the U.S Department of Education or the Indiana State Department of Education, we will use the local education agency in which the charter school is located.

Availability of Funds

The maximum award to a subgrantee shall be a total of $900,000 for no more than two years, of which no more than 18 months shall be for post-charter planning (prior to the school opening). Additional time may be added to the grant (but not additional funds). Pending federal guidance, but is not a certainty. The planning period ends at the end of the business day before the first day of school. Thus, the grant recipient's first day of school (for students) will be considered the first day of year one implementation funds. The planning period budget may not exceed $300,000 and the planning period timeline may not exceed 18 months. For grant applicants that plan to take a planning year, the grant life duration, a total of two years, would include the planning period and year 1 implementation year only.

There is no restriction on the amount of funding allocated in each implementation year. The funds must be provided within a proposed budget and be considered reasonable and necessary in light of the goals and objectives of the proposed project. Any funds not considered reasonable and necessary will be removed from the final approved budget and the department shall work with the grantee to modify the budget OR reduce the total award accordingly.

Spending is done at the applicant's own risk until the budget is formally approved by the IDOE and an executed contract between the grantee and the Indiana Department of Education is completed.

The IDOE expects to award between 10 to 15 subgrantees each year. An eligible applicant may use not more than 18 months for planning and program design and may not receive more than one subgrant under this federal grant award program.

A charter school that previously received CSP funds for the opening or replication of a high-quality charter school is not eligible to receive funds from this grant for the same or a substantially similar purpose. However, a charter school may be eligible to receive funds to expand beyond its original grades if the school is a high-quality charter school. A charter school may not have more than one Quality Counts subgrant at a time, but does not affect their eligibility for additional technical assistance opportunities offered through the Quality Counts grant.

The project period for each subgrantee shall be no more than two years. After the conclusion of each year within the approved project period, the subgrantee shall submit all required documentation, including the annual performance report and financial expenditure report. Satisfactory progress toward meeting the goals and objectives stipulated within the grant will be required in order to renew the grant after each fiscal year.

Actual award amounts are contingent upon the receipt of federal funding, availability of current funding levels, and the quality of the submitted grant, and the costs that are budgeted being reasonable, allowable, and allocable.

Use of Funds

Allowable activities that may be supported by CSP funds shall include one or more of the following:

1) Preparing teachers, school leaders, and specialized instructional support personnel, including through paying costs associated with
    a. Providing professional development; and
    b. Hiring and compensating, ONLY during the eligible applicant's planning period (no more than 18 months) specified in the application for funds for one or more of the following
        i. Teachers
        ii. School leaders
        iii. Specialized instructional support personnel, such as special education or English learner teachers
2) Acquiring supplies, training equipment including technology, and educational materials (including development of materials)
3) Carrying out necessary renovations to ensure that a new school building complies with applicable statutes and regulations, and minor facilities repairs (excluding construction). Minor repairs and renovations must not increase the value of the property and may only qualify if they help the building meet structure codes and regulations as dictated by state or federal law. Renovations must be approved in writing by the IDOE and can only date back to the approval date of the application.

4) Providing one-time, startup costs associated with providing transportation to students to and from the charter school

5) Further guidance regarding the use of funds can be found in the CSP Nonregulatory Guidance, specifically in sections D-2 through D-5 and the US Department of Education's ESSA Flexibility Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) from December 2017.

In accordance with 2 CRF 200, all funds must be provided within a proposed budget and be considered reasonable and necessary in light of the goals and objectives of the proposed project. Justification of all costs provided within the budget narrative will serve in making all reasonable, allowable, and allocable decisions.

Monitoring

The department will utilize a risk assessment tool to determine the depth and breadth of monitoring required for subgrantees (CSP grant recipients). Subgrantees are expected to participate in all technical assistance, monitoring, and reporting elements as a condition of receiving the funds. Dependent upon the results of the risk assessment, subgrantees may participate in:

Desktop Review:* Subgrantees shall submit documentation of progress toward meeting specific goals and objectives listed within the grant through the annual performance report. Additionally, personnel reports of staff funded through the grant and an annual financial expenditure report shall be submitted.

Onsite Visit:* IDOE staff shall conduct an onsite visit to identify progress toward meeting specific goals and objectives listed within the grant and the annual performance report. IDOE staff will review educational programming through classroom observations, interviews with staff, and a review of policies and procedures. Additionally, IDOE staff shall audit financial records to ensure appropriate evidence of expenditures and record keeping.

Subgrantees that do not receive satisfactory reports and fail to address corrective actions shall be considered for non-renewal of further awards and may be subject to further sanctions including re-payment of CSP grant funds.

Requirements

Participating charter schools shall agree to comply with the same federal and state audit requirements as other elementary and secondary schools in the state. Schools shall meet all applicable federal, state, and local health and safety requirements while operating in accordance with Indiana state law. Each school shall have a written performance contract with the charter school authorizer that includes a description of how student performance will be measured on state assessments.

Each charter school project leader and board president shall sign further assurances stipulated within the grant in order to participate in the CSP project.

Enrollment Policy: Participating schools shall admit students on the basis of a lottery if more students apply for admission than can be accommodated. Schools may also satisfy this requirement by participating in Enroll Indy. Children who are enrolled in the immediate prior grade shall be automatically enrolled in the following grade level. In addition to preference for students already enrolled in a charter school, Indiana Code 20-24-5-5 provides that a charter school may give enrollment preference to children of the charter school's founders, governing body members, school employees, and preschool students who attended at least a Level 3 or 4 Paths to Quality preschool in the same charter school. In accordance with Indiana code IC 20-24-5-5, students who qualify for free and reduced lunch may also be given preference in school admission if the preference is specifically provided for in the charter application and approved by the charter school's authorizer. In order to meet the federal definition of a charter school, the preference must be slight, as determined and approved by the IDOE for federal grant purposes, and must be clearly defined in the charter application and school enrollment policy. No additional preferences may be provided for children outside of the descriptions above. In order to receive Quality Counts CSP funds, the preference in weighted criteria given to children of founders or employees must be limited to 10% of the charter school's total student population.

Tuition and Fees: Students shall be admitted at no-cost, including those enrolled in early childhood education or postsecondary education programs. Schools may charge reasonable curricular materials if the school participates in the textbook assistance program to ensure no barriers exist to enroll low-income children.

Under no circumstances may a family's ability to pay for curricular materials impact a student's enrollment or attendance in a charter school. Under Indiana Code 20-33-5-11, a charter school may not withhold curricular materials and supplies, require any special services from a child or deny the child any benefit or privilege because the parent fails to pay required fees.

Technical Assistance

The important dates listed within the application are provided to ensure all potential applicants receive adequate technical assistance to submit a high-quality proposal. Management Organization Information

Will the school work with a charter or educational management organization?

Yes XNo

If no, skip to the next page.

If yes, name the management organization:

Employer Identification Number (EIN):

Is the management organization: For Profit Not for Profit

Employees of the school will be: Employed by the school

Employed by the management organization

Note about management organizations:

Charter School Program (CSP) grants are made to charter schools, not any other entity. Regardless of the charter school's relationship with a management organization, the charter school and board retain responsibility for the all aspects of the grant including, but not limited to application submission, budget decisions, and repayment of any misspent funds. Items purchased by the school with CSP funds are and remain the property of the school, not the management organization. Grant applications and budgets may not include any management fees that the school incurs as part of the management contract but may pay for allowable activities carried out by the school or the management organization.

If applicable, the full contract or agreement with the charter management organization (CMO) or educational management organization (EMO) must be included with this application to ensure it meets the definition of arm's length requirements. In order to be considered eligible, the school must demonstrate that the CMO or EMO has no involvement with the administration of the subgrant. The following factors will be considered:

a) Whether the charter school's governing board is selected by, or includes members who are employees of the CMO or EMO;
b) Whether the charter school has an independent attorney, accountant, and audit firm that works for the charter school and not for the CMO or EMO;
c) Whether the contract between the charter school and the CMO or EMO was negotiated at "arms-length," clearly describes each party's rights and responsibilities, and specifics reasonable and feasible terms under which either party may terminate the contract (e.g., the charter does not lose the right to use the facilities)
d) Whether the fee paid by the charter school to the CMO or EMO is reasonable for the type of management services provided; and
e) Whether any other agreements (e.g., loans, leases, etc.) between the charter school and the CMO or EMO are fair and reasonable, documented appropriately, align with market rates, and include terms that will not change if the management contract is terminated.

As a general matter, subgrantees must avoid apparent and actual conflicts of interest when administering grants. For additional information on conflicts of interest, please see Section G of the federal CSP Nonregulatory Guidance.

Optional Elements: Competitive Preference Priorities (up to 3 additional points)

Applications that address early childhood programs, postsecondary education, or rural area locations will receive preference points when applications are scored. Please see above instructions for guidance on qualifying for one of these three competitive preference points.

Applicants may use adapted or direct content from their charter application submitted to an Indiana authorizer; however, all answer content must be included in the response area for this question. Applicants may not reference pages in their charter application or other appendices as a substitute for responses provided below. Appendices may be referred to for additional context to the applicant's answer for each question as appropriate. Appendices will not inform the rubric score on the below questions.

Clearly label your responses by section and question number for scoring purposes.

CPP1: Provide an overview of the early childhood, postsecondary, or rural area model, the expected targets and outcomes, and how the expected targets and outcomes, supported by qualitative or quantitative data or specific measurable and accessible goals, will impact one or more of the unique populations targeted in this section. Post-secondary Planning

College and Career Readiness Focus
Students participate in a College and Career readiness curriculum for three days a week, during a designated class period. This class utilizes the Academic Innovations curriculum. This is supplemented with several activities throughout the semester including; college recruiters, panel discussions with speakers from various trades, and campus visits.

Career and Technical Education (CTE) Focus
Hope Academy has on staff a teacher who is licensed to teach CTE courses. The master schedule includes beginning level courses for students wanting to follow a CTE track, including Adult Roles and Responsibilities, with a goal of increasing the number and level of courses as students engage in these opportunities.

Dual Credit Focus
We will strive for every student to attain at minimum a Core 40 diploma. The Guidance Director meets with students upon enrollment to plan out their diploma requirements and Graduation Pathway. This plan is revisited and if necessary, revised, at least three times throughout the school year. One time at the beginning of each semester and during our end of the school year transition meetings where we plan for summer school and the following fall classes. Hope will offer dual credit classes, as appropriate for eligible students. These classes will be facilitated by Hope staff who are eligible for accreditation through Ivy Tech and/or University of Indianapolis. As we continue to develop our partnership with the University of Indianapolis, our goal is for seniors to take college level classes on their campus.

Mission and Vision
Hope Academy (Hope) is Indiana's only nationally accredited and tuition-free, Indiana public charter high school for teens in recovery from substance-use issues. Hope provides an environment where high school students can begin and/or continue their recovery away from the traditional high school pressures and temptations. The mission of Hope Academy is to provide a safe, sober, and challenging school experience for students who share a commitment to educational achievement and personal growth. Hope Academy acts as a first-line intervention against drug-use. To graduate from Hope Academy, a student not only has to complete Indiana's Graduation Pathway requirements, but also our own recovery requirements, which include accountability interventions leading to a life of living free from drug and/or alcohol use.

Hope Academy exists to ensure that students with substance use challenges graduate from high school to earn a livable wage and become a contributing member of our evolving society–either through pursuing and completing a college degree or earning the necessary career credentials through postsecondary training. We expect to achieve the targets and outcomes listed below.

Goals

- Juniors, based on their sophomore PSAT predictive scores, will increase their score by at least 10% on their SAT exams during their junior year
- Students will receive a grade of "C" or higher in at least 10 out of 14 credits attempted to reach a goal of 40 for their high school Core 40 diploma
- Students will receive a grade of "C" or better in their College and Career Readiness class each semester
- Seniors will successfully complete a Capstone Project which is required for graduation

Serving Students with Substance Abuse Challenges

As Indiana faces one of the most devastating substance abuse crises in its history, Hope's educational experience is more important to our future than ever before. Hope has developed, tested, and proven that a comprehensive educational program is a critical piece to ensuring that adolescents and teens recover from substance usage. Ensuring that students across Indianapolis have access to a high-quality experience, that is steeped in both education and sobriety, has always been our goal. The way we monitor this is through our recovery requirements of extended sobriety, working with a sponsor and attending support meetings. We believe over the last 14 years we have created a dual platform of academics and recovery that is critical to ensuring student success during this time of opioid crisis.

Indiana is not alone in this crisis. Approximately 1.3 million young people, ages 12-17, are affected by substance use disorders nationwide and 7.9% of adolescents in the U.S. meet the criteria for alcohol or other substance use disorders. Of students in the 8th through 12th grades, 47% admitted to using illicit drugs in the past 30 days. One-third reported consuming alcohol within the same time span. Furthermore, research indicates that substance use also has a significant impact on society and the economy. The last available estimate of the economic cost of substance abuse in the U.S. was $193 billion[1]. The majority of this cost, $120 billion, was tied to lost productivity. It is crucial that we intervene with youth at an early age, so they are able to finish school and be prepared to be productive members of society later in life

Substance use disorders (SUDs) in the U.S. affected more than 1.3 million young people between the ages of 12 and 17 in 2014; however, little more than 120,000 of these young people received treatment [1]. Four years prior, an estimated 4% of all young people in Indiana were in need of treatment for substance use [1]. For young people in recovery the school environment is often the single greatest hazard to their success in maintaining sobriety [1], which is illustrated by the fact that nearly 80% of all young people in recovery return to drug use within a year after returning to traditional high school [1].

Required Elements

In order to streamline the application process and to ensure that the application does not duplicate efforts from the charter application to the charter school authorizer, applicants may use adapted or direct content from their charter application submitted to an Indiana authorizer, however, all answer content must be included in the answer to the question. Applicants may not reference to pages in their charter application or other appendices as a substitute for answers. Appendices may be referred to for additional context as appropriate.

Thirty page limit for required element responses. Page limit does not include appendices or budget.

Clearly label your responses by section and question number for scoring purposes.

1. Provide an overview of the project, including the vision of the charter school and expected outcomes aided by the CSP funds.

1a) Describe the vision of the charter school.

The vision of Hope Academy is to provide a safe, sober, restorative and challenging school experience for high school students recovering from alcoholism and/or drug addiction who have made a commitment to personal recovery, have a desire to learn, want to attain a high school diploma and are willing to be an active part of a school community of like-minded students and faculty.

To assure that the daily operations of Hope Academy are in line with its mission and will fulfill its founders' vision, the school will operate within the parameters of ten guiding educational principles. These guiding principles reflect factors found in the empirical and professional literature associated with bolstering the recovery and academic success of addicted students. These ten guiding principles will serve as the philosophic scaffolding to inform the school's foundation and operation:

Principle I: Provide a recovery culture appropriate to high school-age students of diverse backgrounds.

The disease of chemical dependency does not discriminate. The demographics are clear; young people across diverse populations are affected by substance use disorder. Meeting the educational needs of these students demands that in every aspect of its operation, Hope Academy provides a safe, sober, and challenging high school experience, informed and driven by recovery values and processes that have been shown to motivate and support the sobriety and health of students, as well as to promote their educational success.

Principle II: Establish a school with recovery supports, rather than a recovery center with educational supports.

Learning from its past, Hope Academy will place its primary focus on being a school while offering recovering support. Teachers' primary responsibility will be classroom instruction while staying informed and sensitive to individual student needs.

Principle III: Establish a code of conduct and discipline procedures based on restorative principles.

Due to the unique behavioral needs of many recovering students, student behavior problems require attention through a responsive and restorative system, that is, a system that reinforces recovery values, enables the practice of recovery skills, develops a student's capacity to self-regulate, and helps the student engage self and others in civil and productive ways. Hope Academy will address inappropriate student behavior in an equitable and timely fashion through defined protocols, in a manner that meets state guidelines for due process and legal sanction. A variety of recovery tools will be developed and used to assist this process.

Principle IV: Provide students a state standards-based curriculum that balances critical content and relevant learning processes for the purpose of reading each student for post-high school life and further educational goals.

We will implement a curriculum that meets both state standards and the educational needs of each student. Hope Academy is committed to providing instruction that will help students retain essential information and construct knowledge in personally relevant forms, so they can attain a level of success that will enable them to seek the form of post-high school education or a vocation that best fits their personal goals. A school experience that challenges late adolescent substance abusers to consider the meaning and direction of their personal lives significantly limits their later substance use/abuse as young adults.

Principle V—Develop instructional delivery systems of various approaches to strategically promote active student engagement and diverse modes of learning.

An array of learning deficits has been associated with substance-impacted student status. Many abusing students show soft signs of varied cognitive impairments, insufficient for diagnosis but significant enough to challenge their school success. Hope Academy will apply a variety of strategies and techniques to mitigate its students' propensity for manifestation of these associated weaknesses, e.g. Differentiated instruction, integrated thematic instruction, and hands-on-learning. Proactive classroom management, interactive teaching, cooperative learning, and student social and emotional skill development can offset high-risk factors and increase academic achievement in populations prone to substance abuse.

Principle VI: Provide both external (standardized) and internal (non-standardized) means to assess student achievement and to advance personalized learning.

Hope Academy is committed to use an array of assessments to help teachers, students, and their families assess student progress. The strategic and integrated use of external (standardized) assessments with internal (non-standardized) assessments will be incorporated to gauge, from various perspectives, the academic, developmental, and recovery progress of each student. The school recognizes the necessity to use non-standardized measures to maximize personalized learning, some of which may include projects, portfolios, résumés, presentations, etc. Non-standardized assessments will focus on the students' application of their knowledge and will be evaluated in precise ways according to given standards. Students will be given critical feedback and adjustment loops for guided growth in a context of personalized learning.

Principle VII: Provide students a variety of recovery supports and recovery requirements.

Hope Academy will make recovery part of its academic curriculum, in addition to providing various recovery supports. Hope Academy will hire a recovery staff consisting of recovery coaches, school counselors, peer specialists, and a part time school nurse. We will have a required recovery education curriculum that all students participate in. Students will be required to join the outside recovery community, participating in community recovery meetings and partnering with a recovery sponsor. We will provide a separate school environment (STARR – Supportive, Therapeutic, Action-Focused Recovery Room) for students who need additional education and recovery support.

Principle VIII: Personalize each student's education by focusing on individual post-high school education and career plans.

Hope Academy will work with students so that they can be successful after high school. The school will counsel students in applying for college, exploring trade schools, enlisting in the military, and exploring other job areas. We will partner to provide students with college credit opportunities, internship opportunities, and job-shadowing opportunities.

Principle IX: Build an active professional development culture that demands constant professional reflection.

Hope Academy will build and maintain a professional development culture marked by collegiality, open faculty and staff exchange, information feedback systems, problem solving, and continuous professional education.

Principle X: Actively pursue alumni and adjunct community support to help the school fulfill its mission.

The recruitment and establishment of a wide range of community and individual collaborations will be sought to support student recovery, to broaden and enrich each student's academic experience, and to extend student service learning into the community.

1b) Describe the particular need for the school within the specific community, and the communication plan to the community about the charter school.

Need

The rate of substance use for our young people is climbing at alarming speed. According to research conducted by the Indiana University Richard M. Fairbanks School of Public Health's Center for Health Policy:

- Here in Indiana, over half (51.5%) of young people, ages 12 and older, drank alcohol in the past month and one-fifth (21.8%) engaged in binge drinking.
- In the same age range, 7.5% of Hoosier young people reported using marijuana and 12.9% used in the previous year.
- Young adults ages 18-25 had the highest rates of alcohol use in Indiana (61.8%, with 39.5% reporting binge drinking).
- The percentage of Indiana youth younger than 18 years old abusing heroin saw a sharp increase from 1.1% in 2010 to 11.5% in 2012 but saw a decrease to 1.8% in 2013.

This table is completed based on the IDOE Compass Website School-specific data. This data can be found on each school's APR.

The chart above lists the majority of the local schools who refer students to Hope Academy. Each school year, Hope serves students from over 30 different school districts in and around the Indianapolis area. Based on national and state and local data listed in this chart, Hope recognizes the need to grow their enrollment to include more students. Statistically, more students in and around Indianapolis are in need of Hope's academic and recovery curriculum. As the only Recovery High School in the state of Indiana and in the Midwest area, Hope serves as the experts in working with students with substance use issues.

Promising evidence (including historical data from Hope Academy, and compiled by the Association of Recovery Schools) is emerging that shows, compared to students in non-recovery high schools who have received substance use treatment, students in recovery high schools:

(a) have higher graduation rates;
(b) report significantly lower absenteeism;
(c) are more likely to abstain from using substances; and
(d) have significantly fewer days using marijuana and other drugs.

A recent study from Finch, Tanner-Smith, Hennessy, & Moberg (2017)[2] demonstrated the effectiveness of Recovery High School (RHS) attendance in improving student outcomes. Results from this provide strong evidence of a positive effect of RHSs for adolescents who have received treatment for SUDs.

Communication Plan

Families and community partners have been involved from the very beginning of the development of the new charter and relocation of Hope Academy. Through surveys and small focus groups with families, students, staff, and community partners, we were able to establish a strategic vision for the future of Hope Academy. Using the 14 years of history of Hope Academy, we will expand our reach through targeted communication efforts, which we know will lead to improved student learning, stronger families and healthier communities. We will focus our efforts on 5 categories of stakeholders: Web/New Families, Treatment Providers, Returning Students and families, School Administration, Probation/Department of Child Services.
Hope Academy has strong ties to community stakeholders and will continue to communicate and engage the current stakeholders as well as work with new stakeholders as we will be in a new location. Our current community stakeholders: University of Indianapolis, Division of Mental Health and Addiction, Indiana Addictions Coalition, Mental Health of America, Multiple treatment providers, all school districts in the 9 donut counties, the 24 Group as well as other Community Partners

1c) Describe the curriculum framework to be used in the school, including the key evidence-based instructional practices and the research base that guides curriculum development.

Curriculum Framework

Students at Hope Academy will attend a school that focuses on delivering a high-quality education, while also providing recovery support and recovery education. Students will attend seven class periods per day, with classes being traditional teacher-taught classes. Courses that are not available in the traditional class period will be available online with teacher support, during one or more of their class periods. Each content teacher has developed a curriculum map and pacing guide that identifies specific state standards that students must master, a timeline for when those standards will be taught, and a plan for re-teaching as needed. These curriculum maps are submitted for approval by administration and have been approved by the Association of Recovery Schools. Most instruction is delivered through direct instruction, with special emphasis between content teachers to develop cross-curriculum learning activities and opportunities.

Students entering Hope Academy are typically behind in their Core 40 credits and have academic gaps in their learning due to their substance use. The Hope staff employs specific strategies and interventions to overcome the deficits in these gaps. At the beginning of the school year, we provide intensive staff development to include evidenced based strategies to address these achievement gaps.(listed below) Additionally, Hope Academy accepts students who have been expelled from their local schools, due to drug and/or alcohol related offenses. We have intentionally planned our grade periods to allow for students moving in at various times during the semester. For these reasons, a more traditional instructional setting is important for student success.

Academically, our goal is to help each student achieve, at minimum, an Indiana Core 40 diploma. Recognizing Indiana's changing graduation requirements, we will adjust our curriculum as necessary to meet the needs of our students. During Student Resource Time (SRT) three days a week, we will implement the Academic Innovations curriculum that focuses on College, Career and Vocation exploration and readiness skills. Graduating seniors at Hope Academy will complete a Senior Capstone Project, where they will partner with a community organization to further their personal recovery education and commitment to community service.

Recovery support and recovery education will be an important area of focus at our school. Students will participate in a school-wide recovery circle every Monday and Friday during Basic Skills where students and staff will share personal reflections on daily readings, goals and accomplishments, etc. Students will receive recovery education three days per week during Basic Skills. Students will have access to a recovery coach and peer specialists to discuss recovery plans and sobriety. Each student will also be screened for potential new substance use at least twice per month. Students who enter our school with little or no previous recovery education will be placed in STARR (Supportive, Therapeutic, Action-focused Recovery Room), a program that pulls students out of the regular community and gives them individualized academic time with each teacher, as well as a dedicated recovery education time with the recovery team.

Evidence-Based Instructional Practices

Staff members at Hope Academy will be trained in the area of adolescent substance use disorder, including brain function and trauma. Some of the strategies our teachers will use in teaching adolescents with addiction issues include the following research and evidence-based instructional practices:

- Teaching lessons in small chunks (Marzano, 2009)
- Spiraling curriculum (Johnston, 2012)
- Applying learning to students lives (Daggett, 2004)
- Balancing homework & recovery requirements
- Clearly posting the rules/expectations (Marzano, 2003)
- Creating horizontal lists instead of vertical lists
- Providing students with a physical location, the Serenity Room, to enable them to re-center themselves

While it is the primary purpose of teachers to teach their classes, they will also be trained in identifying barriers and in funneling students to the appropriate supports. Furthermore, our school's guidance counselor will counsel students in issues separate from, but likely intertwined with, their addictions. We will also employ a school nurse who will perform drug screens, help assess and meet student health needs, and any medical emergencies. A recovery coach is on staff to support students and their recovery needs.

For Hoosier high school students and their families who have faced their addiction, Hope Academy offers hope—a unique school experience that is intentionally designed in every aspect of its operation to support a student's personal recovery and to address the learning and academic challenges that he or she must surmount. Empirical studies suggest that high school students with substance use disorder have histories of diminished educational success, higher rates of school failure, and are at an elevated risk for dropping out of school. Furthermore, empirical investigation has revealed that students prone to substance abuse have weak relationships with school faculty and staff, find little personal relevance in the curriculum, and feel alienated from the life of the school (e.g., Hawkins et al., 2001).

Hope Academy will work from the Rigor, Relevance and Relationship framework originally known as the Rigor/Relevance framework of Dr. Bill Daggett, founder of the International Center for Leadership in Education (ICLE). Dr. Daggett's work showed the importance of making learning experiences relevant to students (Daggett, 2004). He reminded teachers that they needed to put the "'me' back in me-aning" by making learning personally relevant for their students. In addition, his work states that teaching staff should provide a challenging curriculum which increases each student's levels of thinking, rather than simply increasing the amount of homework. This framework was then modified by the work of Raymond McNulty and Russell J. Quaglia, who added the importance of a strong rapport between students and teachers (McNulty and Quaglia, 2007).

In more recent work by Daggett, he identified five things that are present in the "Nations most rapidly improving schools". Three of those were 1) putting students first, 2) using rigorous, relevant instruction and 3) looking at student growth rather than proficiency. (Daggett, 2019)

Hope Academy will serve as a small charter school that will engage students in mastering a state standards-based curriculum. Faculty who understand student recovery and academic needs will teach the students. A Recovery School must be a personal place; a community of close-bonded relationships to adults and peers; and a place where students are challenged, yet, at the same time are provided multiple layers of behavioral and educational support. School must be a place where what is taught is connected to the life and world of the learner.

1d) Describe the specific strategies that will be used to support all students in meeting or exceeding Indiana Academic standards. Include how the educational program will be innovative, unique, and enable all students, including students with disabilities and English learners, to meet or exceed Indiana's challenging academic standards.

Hope Academy's model limits the number of students in any class to a maximum of 15 students. This small classroom model lends itself to an inclusive learning environment for our students which then allows the teacher to better meet the needs of all students on an individual basis. The teaching staff will use formative and summative assessments at a student's entry point, and through progress monitoring during the semester, to ensure progress toward individual student and school wide goals. The below tables show the types of assessments we give, how we look at the data, and how we report the data school wide to the students and families.

Exceeding Indiana Academic Standards through Assessments

Assessment	Who does it Measure?	What does it Measure?	When is it given?	Alignment Description
Pre, PSAT, PSAT	Whole school, Subjects, Individual students	Growth and progress in Math, Reading, writing and Language Arts	October of Junior year	Provides baseline data for teachers to use as they develop targeted lessons to address achievement gaps.
NWEA	Whole School on Reading, Language Arts, and Math	Growth and progress from each assessment	Given in September, January, and May	Provides baseline data for teachers to use as they develop targeted lessons to address achievement gaps, which are then measured for mastery in January and May.
ISTEP	Juniors and seniors will do retesting until they pass or complete an alternate pathway to graduation	English/Language Arts and Mathematics Proficiency	November and February each year	ISTEP+ statewide assessment is used to measure student achievement in areas of English/Language Arts and Mathematics
ASVAB	Students in grades 10, 11 and 12	Used to determine qualification for enlistment in the United States Armed Forces. It is often offered to U.S. high school students, also used an alternative graduation pathway exam	We give the ASVAB in February at the school, and again in May for seniors who need it	Skills based exam used to measure mastery, as an alternative graduation pathway

Assessment Data Review

Assessment review at Hope Academy will use the following systems to disaggregate to analyze, maintain and share Assessment Data.

Weekly staff meetings	These meetings, led by the principal, will help teachers to share instructional strategies and plan for cross-curricular lessons
Early Release Days (1 per month)	Dedicate first hour to discuss individual student assessment progress

Assessment Data Reporting

PowerSchool	Families and staff may access student grades in real-time through student information system
IEP Case Conferences	During move-in meetings or case conferences, student assessment data will be discussed as we set goals with the student for the coming school year
Progress Reports	Progress reports are sent home every 3 weeks
Transition Planning	During each semester the student and family are met with to discuss current student data and assessments to plan for the upcoming semester

Students with Disabilities

It is our commitment to all students and parents who attend Hope to ensure that no student will be denied an education because of family background, income, race, religion, gender, health or disabilities. It is our understanding that, as a public high school, our school will comply with all rules and regulations as prescribed by the Individuals with Disabilities Act (IDEIA 04) and Article 7 (511 IAC 7-17 through 7-31).

As described in our ten guiding principles, it is the philosophy of the Hope to provide students an "instructional delivery system of various approaches to strategically bolster active student engagement and diverse modes of learning". Thus, it will be our goal to always provide students with disabilities services that will take place in the general education setting with non- disabled students to the maximum extent possible.

Hope has several team members who hold a special education certification, including a classroom teacher and Compliance Specialist. These staff will continue to serve as the Teacher of Record and Teacher of Services and will oversee and deliver services to the students who need special education support.

Identification

Students attending Hope will be identified for special needs in the following ways:

- At the time of enrollment students will be asked to submit IEP's
- If the student is a drop out, he/she will be reassessed and IEPs updated
- If, during the first month of school, a student without IEP's exhibits signs of having a disability, we will use a third-party contractor to complete all necessary testing of the student.

Referral

If a referral is necessary, the referral will contain the following:

- Reason for referral
- Any testing, records or reports to validate referral
- Thorough explanation of all remediation attempts
- Description of parental involvement prior to referral.

Gifted and Talented

As described throughout this text, all students who attend Hope will have a Graduation Plan. For our gifted and talented students who desire a high academic curriculum, their Plan will reflect opportunities for them to achieve their highest potential. It is our intent to provide a basic Core 40 education for all students. For those who wish to exceed those expectations, we will partner with educational institutions that can provide higher level courses. For students who are high achievers, goals in forming partnerships will be:

- Ability to enroll in A.P. classes at a local high schools & online at Hope
- Ability to attend college classes and receive dual credit from a college or university
- Ability to take foreign language at a local high school, college or university.

Other educational opportunities for gifted and talented students will be through internships, student exhibitions and demonstrations. Our school budget reflects our understanding of the costs associated with providing a high-quality education to all students.

English Language Learners

We anticipate that some of the students may have a native language other than English. Hope Academy works to provide support to ELL students and families. Within 30 days, Hope will administer the WIDA ACCESS screening assessment to properly identify ELL Students and the level of support they require. Hope is committed to seeking outside assistance to provide services for these students on a contractual basis. This outside consultant will help translate documents, enrollment materials, academic materials and also provide translation services to students and families, as needed. Teachers and Hope Academy support staff will be provided with ongoing PD around ELL evidence-based practices to be used within the instructional framework of each academic day.

1e) Describe how the school will develop 21st century skills or prepare students to be college and career ready in future postsecondary and workplace environments.

Staff Development
Hope academy will use the P21 Partnership approach. This curriculum aims to develop the skills and knowledge students need to succeed in work, life and citizenship such as collaboration, digital literacy, critical thinking, and problem-solving. These 21st century skills can be applied in all subject areas, and in all educational, career, and civic settings throughout a student's life. While many of these skills are already a part of the school's basic skills program, we will work to include these practices throughout the program by providing professional development to all faculty and staff. Teachers will be able to identify where the skills naturally occur in their curriculum and work to spiral the 4 C's (critical thinking, communication, collaboration, and creativity) in lessons throughout the school year.

In addition, Hope Academy understands the importance and impact on highly qualified staff. Hope Academy employs a master's level school counselor who assists with college and career transitions based on individual student needs. As part of her master's program, she received training in career and post-secondary advice. In addition, the special education teacher provides transition planning as required and aligned with each student's IEPs.

College and Career Preparation and Planning
All students are assigned to our Basic Skills course, which includes a Career and College Readiness segment three days a week as a designated class period. This includes skills students need for life and career, and for recovery. Students participate in a variety of activities including career exploration, testing prep, visiting college presentations and financial aid. Students who participate in the summer activities the school provides at no cost to the students, includes several college visits to explore postsecondary options.

College Test Preparation
The administration reports that about 30-40% of students take the ACT/SAT while enrolled at HOPE. Juniors and seniors are encouraged to take the ACT and/or SAT prep course through our online platform, Plato. Due to the small size of classes, students could also receive assistance for these tests in regular course work.

Individual Postsecondary Planning
Additionally, each graduating senior will work with the school counselor and administration to prepare a postsecondary transition plan. The plan will include what steps the student will be taking as they move from life as a high school student to life as a young adult working toward the education and/or career of their choice.

College Readiness Activities
Many of Hope's students proceed to a community college after graduation, while others will seek to obtain entrance into a four-year college. In addition, a small portion of students pursue the United States Military career. Regardless of the path that a student chooses to take, Hope Academy intentionally provides several college nights for students throughout the school year to help students become more informed and ready to make this important next step.

The school counselor works with students to assist with preparation of the FAFSA and college applications after the College Nights have taken place and throughout the academic school year to ensure they are on-track for obtaining the goals of the next steps they would like to take after high school graduation.

Technology Preparation
Students at Hope Academy regularly use technology as a part of their coursework. All students will complete courses on Edmentum as a part of their regular instruction. Students use iPads in all classes for various instructional opportunities including research, word processing, presentations, and utilizing apps and websites to enhance instruction in core classes.

Hope Academy's curriculum is unique in that it is a combination of Core 40 classes based on both Indiana standards and recovery education. Our philosophy is that we are first a school and second a recovery support system. Students at Hope Academy will work toward completing not only the requirements for an Indiana Core 40 diploma, but also recovery requirements set forth by the school.

One of the unique challenges our school will face based on our past experience is the transience of many of our students. We will accept new students throughout the school year and will add an average of 1-2 students per week. Furthermore, a portion of our students will not stay at Hope Academy through graduation, either choosing to return to their home schools to graduate with their peers or leaving Hope Academy due to their inability to adhere to our recovery requirements which may require treatment.

Therefore, it is important that our Core 40 courses align well with Indiana standards and follow traditional year-long outlines that are most likely to align with other area schools. We frequently have new students joining our classes throughout the year and we integrate them into our classroom curriculum as seamlessly as possible.

Our curriculum will be based on the experience our school has gained over the last several years and an effort to promote cross-curricular lessons. Our teachers will work together to align lessons across several subjects several times per year. During the 2020-2021 school year we will map out cross-curricular opportunities for upcoming school years. All current staff will work on planning these cross-curricular opportunities.

To ensure that Operational Management, School Safety, Finance, and Regulation Compliance are addressed and monitored, Hope Academy has created a committee structure that provides oversight for all management and regulations, policies and procedures. The Finance Committee has oversight of all financial and operational functions. The board has adopted the Finance and Operations Manual that outlines all regulations, policies and procedures for the day to day operation of Hope Academy and addresses any compliance issues in their committee meetings that then gets reported up to the full board at the board meeting. The Academic and Recovery Committee has oversight for all School Safety and Academic regulations and compliance for Hope Academy. The board has adopted the School Safety manual and Academic Dashboard for Hope Academy and addresses any compliance issues in their committee meetings that then gets reported up to the full board at the board meeting. We also have quarterly governance, financial and academic meetings with OEI as our charter authorizer that then gets reported to committees and then to the full board.

3. Provide an overview of the charter school goals.

3a) Describe 3-5 specific, measurable goals to address the academic outcomes of all students that specifically related to activities within the Quality Counts CSP grant and the methods for which the goals will be measured. Hope recognizes the importance of strong transitions. Hope believes that strong transitions into secondary educational settings, and the larger community, are critical for students navigating substance use. Below are Hope's CSP goals:

Goal #1: 80% of Hope Academy Students will receive a grade of "C" or higher in at least 10 out of 14 credit attempted during the 2020-2021 school year, 11 out of 14 during the 2021-2022 school year, and 12 out of 14 during the 2022-2023 school year.

Goal #5: Every year, 80% of Hope Academy teachers will receive a rating of Effective or Highly Effective on the Indiana Department of Education approved modified Rise evaluation system calculated in the spring of each school year.

3b) Describe how the school will ensure all stakeholders, including staff, students, and community are aware of the school's goals.

Understanding that parental and community involvement is one of the most critical factors that lead to student academic and recovery success, Hope Academy will employ several strategies to communicate our CSP goals and progress/attainment of our goals

Staff

During the all Hope Academy Staff professional development at the beginning of each year, we will review our CSP goals, measurements and timeline for all Hope Academy staff. We host Student Lead Conference days, Parent Nights, Open Houses, Board Meetings, Principal communications, Guidance Counselor We will continue to review these goals and current data at our weekly staff meetings and monthly early release professional development days. communications, and end of the year Parent Satisfaction Surveys, as well as communications from our Director of Development.

Students
The teachers and guidance counselor meet with individual students after each assessment to discuss the student's performance and to put in place a plan to address any deficiencies, as related to our goals. This plan could include before/after school tutoring, spiraling state standards throughout classroom lessons, online practice utilizing Plato (standards based online curriculum), or targeted instruction during Student Resource Time.

Parents/Families
We have scheduled two Parent Nights each semester, and will share our goals and current data during these events to our families. Additionally, each semester we hold a Student Led Conference day after the first grade period, so that parents, students and teachers can have conversations about the individual student's academic and recovery progress. During this conference, the teachers will review and explain our school goals and measurements.

The Hope Academy principal sends out weekly communications to parents. Part of this communication will be the sharing of data results, as is available, along with suggestions for how to support their student's academic and recovery achievement. Additionally, the Hope Academy guidance counselor sends out a bi-weekly communication to students and parents with information regarding resources available to support academic and recovery.

At the end of each school year, Hope Academy sends out a Parent Satisfaction Survey to solicit information from our parents regarding outcomes for their student and staff support in achieving those outcomes. We will include questions regarding our school goals and their knowledge of them and our data.

Community
Hope Academy employs a Director of Development who communicates regularly with our community partners and school funders. During these communications, she reports our current data with regards to graduation, sobriety, credit attainment, etc. Additionally, she reports this data for grant purposes in both requesting grant funds, as well as end of grant reporting. Often, this data is then shared with other stakeholders in those organizations who are issuing the funding.

Hope Academy will offer Open Houses throughout the school year. At the beginning of the year we will host events to highlight our new charter and new facility, as well as our academic and recovery data. Throughout the year, we will host Open Houses that offer professional development for various groups (school guidance counselors and administrators, probation officers, and other referral sources). At this time, we will share our goals and progress towards goals, as a way to talk about what works in our school setting.

Our school board meets bi-monthly and will have a dedicated time to discuss our data dashboard. This dashboard will outline our CSP and OEI academic and non-academic goals and progress towards or completion of these goals. We will discuss current strategies and resources being employed to support these goals. As a Mayor of Indianapolis charter school, we have quarterly meetings with their staff to discuss progress on all of the school data regarding academics, financials and governance.

4. Provide an overview of how the charter school expects to accomplish the goals stated in section 3 with the use of the CSP funding.

4a) Provide a budget narrative to address each year's anticipated spending plan and provide an explanation for how each year's budget plan is aligned with the outcomes proposed in the grant and the school's program model. 4b) Describe the school's sustainability plan after the grant expires.

Hope Academy is strictly using CSP funds for start-up needs and to supplement as enrollment grows over the course of three years. In addition, Hope Academy will pro-actively work to create and manage a budget based on five-year projections. Hope Academy's budget process involves the Executive Director, Director of Operations, Board of Directors, Finance Committee and a third party Financial Consultant, CIES. Given the strong experience from Hope Academy's Team and Partners, we will strive to always maintain a budget surplus each fiscal year. While Hope Academy receives CSP Revenue, this figure will be calculated within the grant revenue streams. The school will ensure that any positions that are supported through CSP will be properly funded through state and federal grants past the life cycle of the CSP Grant.

Furthermore, the majority of the costs associated with the CSP Quality Counts grant are one-time startup costs. These expenditures are not expected to be ongoing each year, rather just the first two years of the school's opening. If there are any expenses that Hope Academy expects to be ongoing past the CSP Grant lifecycle, the school's Executive Director, School Principals and Director of Operations, in conjunction with the Board of Directors and CIES, will ensure those costs are able to be covered with federal and state dollars. Hope Academy will use the Basic per pupil funding, Alternative Education Funding, Title II, III, IV, Part B and any available grant opportunity to help sustain any costs after the CSP Grant has expired. Any necessary upkeep of technology will come from the $500 per student of capital projects funding. Any ongoing professional development will come from Title II funds. Additionally, Hope Academy intentionally focused money toward salary within the first year and decreased positions in year two to plan for sustainability after the life cycle of the grant.

4c) In the budget worksheet, please itemize costs within each category by year and include enough details for the peer reviewer to make a RAN (reasonable, allocable, and necessary) determination.

Please see Budget Worksheet for itemized costs by year and category. Hope Academy ensured all costs are RAN (reasonable, allocable, and necessary) for this grant.

Board on Track provides expertise, training and web-based tools to help with the board's management, assessment, and growth. Hope Academy is participating in Enroll Indy's OneMatch application process. Prospective Hope Academy students can apply through Enroll Indy and select Hope Academy as their first choice. We have created a recruitment team that includes the Executive Director, Director of Development, Principal, a teacher and the Director of Guidance. The recruitment team will focus recruitment and enrollment efforts through a detailed Enrollment and Communication plan created and monitored by the board's Marketing Committee. This direct marketing plan includes booths at specific conferences, school tours, media campaigns (Social Media, PR and media relationships), working with IPS expulsion and alternative programming teams, open houses, and direct and email contacting to key referrals. Key referrals include treatment providers, school guidance counselors/administrators, probation departments, Department of Child and Family Services, Community Partners, current/former parents and students.

The school's admissions practices will comply with State law and applicable Federal laws, including Part B of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act and Federal civil rights laws, including but not limited to: Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964; Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973; and Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990.

Enrollment in the school will be open to all high school students. As a public charter school, admission will not be limited on the basis of intellectual ability, athletic ability, disability, race, creed, national origin, religion, ancestry, or any other criteria that would be unlawful. As per IC 20-24-5-5, the school will enroll any eligible student who submits a timely enrollment application except when the number of applications for a grade level exceeds capacity.

Any interested student or his/her family will be invited to submit an enrollment application to the school at any time. Once a student is enrolled in the school, the student will be allowed to attend the school in successive years without having to re-apply.

Hope Academy is a no-cost tuition public charter school which provides textbook assistance and free/reduced meals for qualified low-income families.

For a designated period, Hope Academy will hold an "open enrollment term." In order to accommodate the diversity and needs of families within the community being served, Hope Academy's open enrollment term will include designated evening and weekend times. If the school receives a greater number of applications than there are spaces for students, each timely applicant will be given an equal chance of admission via a random lottery process, facilitated by Enroll Indy. Applicants may be exempt from the lottery process if at the time of the lottery, the school at which a student is enrolled is converted into a public charter school.

In addition, Hope uses the Enroll Indy unified enrollment system. This system ensures a public lottery process that allows for fair and equitable assignment of seats to student applicants.

Hope Academy may give enrollment preference to charter school's founders, governing body members, and school employees. Hope Academy will limit this enrollment preference to less than 10% of its total student population, if applicable.

It is our understanding that, as a public high school, our school will comply with all rules and regulations as prescribed by the Individuals with Disabilities Act (IDEIA 04) and Article 7 (511 IAC 7-17 through 7-31) and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act.

Because of the customized learning mechanisms already built, all students will be monitored, and progress checked on a regular basis by individual teachers and as a staff during our weekly staff meetings. However, for students who have been identified with special needs, Hope will have an Individual Education Plan that will specify goals, level of placement, ancillary services and least restrictive placement. In addition, Hope Academy will use RTI to identify students who qualify for special education.

As described in our ten guiding principles, it is the philosophy of the Hope to provide students an "instructional delivery system of various approaches to strategically bolster active student engagement and diverse modes of learning". Thus, it will be our goal to always provide students with disabilities services that will take place in the general education setting with non- disabled students to the maximum extent possible. Removal of students with disabilities from the general education environment will only occur when the required special education and/or related services dictate provision in a more restrictive environment.

Hope has several team members who hold a special education certification. These staff will continue to serve as the Teacher of Record and will oversee the students who need special services and ensure those services are provided with each student in an effective and efficient manner. The special education staff will discuss the needs and progress of the special education students with all staff at our weekly staff meetings.

Until students are enrolled and Individual Education Plans (IEP) are collected, we are uncertain as to how many of the students will require special services. Once enrollment is complete, we will have a better understanding of what services our special needs students will require, and a full strategy will be developed.

Identification
Students attending Hope will be identified for special needs in the following ways:

- At the time of enrollment students will be asked to submit IEP's
- If the student is a drop out, he/she will be reassessed and IEPs updated
- If, during the first month of school, a student without IEP's exhibits signs of having a disability, we will use a third-party contractor to complete all necessary testing of the student.

Referral
If a referral is necessary, the referral will contain the following:

- Reason for referral
- Any testing, records or reports to validate referral
- Thorough explanation of all remediation attempts
- Description of parental involvement prior to referral.

Low-Income
Currently, Hope Academy does not qualify for Title I, but as we broaden their reach and impact across the city of Indianapolis, they do plan to apply for Title I funding as their population reaches the required thresholds outlined by IDOE. Unfortunately, in the United States, relatively few low-income children experience high quality education. The Hope Academy staff understands the importance of providing the appropriate support and service to low-income students and is dedicated to giving them this chance. The Hope Academy staff intentionally trains staff to provide genuine support to help students and families with daily challenges.

In addition to providing free and reduced lunch, Hope Academy recognizes that the majority of the students targeted for the school will come from low income backgrounds. Every effort will be taken to not only anticipate need, but offer support and resources where needed with a strong emphasis on post-secondary planning. Hope Academy will use their intensive RTI program to ensure that it identifies low-income students as soon as possible to allow for early intervention. Hope Academy has already begun working on forming relationships with community organizations, businesses, and programs that can assist in preparing students and by extension their families to break the poverty cycle through focusing on career or post-secondary readiness.

ELL Students
We anticipate that some of the students may have a native language other than English. Hope Academy works to provide support to ELL students and families. Within 30 days, Hope will administer the WIDA ACCESS screening assessment to properly identify ELL Students and the level of support they require. Hope is committed to seeking outside assistance to provide services for these students on a contractual basis. This outside consultant will help translate documents, enrollment materials, academic materials and also provide translation services to students and families, as needed. Teachers and Hope Academy support staff will be provided with ongoing PD around ELL evidence-based practices to be used within the instructional framework of each academic day.

Homeless Students
As a part of the enrollment packet, parents/guardians are asked to complete a form, identifying their student as one who could qualify for services under the McKinney Vento Act. During the 2019-2020 school year, we served 6 out of 53 students who qualified for these services. Hope has agreed to be part of a larger consortium of schools serving the needs of Indianapolis students navigating homelessness and delinquency. This consortium includes Warren Township, Decatur Township, IPS, Urban Act Academy, and Matchbook Learning. Hope will specifically be providing the substance abuse support for the entire consortium. In addition, Hope Academy will employ a part-time Social worker to provide onsite care for students identified as homeless. The Social Worker will not only work closely with the student during the school day, but ensure that resources are provided to families for referrals with local agencies for appropriate services, including but not limited to, housing assistance and mental health care services, if needed. Hope Academy will ensure to support our Homeless students and families beyond the four walls of the school building.

Neglected and Delinquent Students
The Hope Staff uses a Positive Behavior Intervention Services (PBIS) to train staff and administration each year on identifying and working with students who could be identified as neglected or delinquent. As part of the training, it is the expectation that staff make accurate and timely reports to Indiana's Child Protective Services. In addition, any teaching staff should notify administration and work to provide interventions and resources to properly support the student.

In addition, Hope Academy will partner with external agencies to ensure that proper services are in place for both mental health and behavioral needs. Hope Academy understands the importance of encouraging and including neglected and delinquent students to ensure they feel part of the Hope Academy community.

8. Provide an overview of the community outreach activities.

8a) Describe how parents and the community are involved in the planning and design of the charter school for a newly opening school.

Hope has been a long-standing pillar in the Indianapolis charter school community. Hope was one of the first charters in Indianapolis and one of the only charters that was supported by both democratic and republican members of the City County Council. Fairbanks has been a dedicated and devoted anchor for the school. Fairbanks has provided facilities and organizational support, as well as community support for the school since its inception. As the charter school landscape and the nation's focus on substance use evolves, Fairbanks believes the need for Hope's services has grown beyond expectations. More and more schools and students are discovering a need for Hope's educational experience, as well as the role substance use plays in a child's developmental experience. Staff, parents and community members have been involved in the planning and design of Hope Academy from the very beginning.

Parent and Families
As we invited parents to participate in our planning and design, we sought input during student led conferences, staff and parent communications, parent surveys, the parent orientation program and parent support meetings, as we discussed the current strengths and needs of the program, as well as the new location. The school administration communicated the charter approval, location details, staffing, and instructional design during family transition meetings and through all-school emails. To further engage families, Hope Academy worked with the Director of Development and a public relations firm to strategize how best to advertise our new school and location through radio, newspaper, direct mails, and social media.

Staff
Instructional leaders & staff provided input in design & development of Hope Academy's educational model and attended pre-service training and bi-weekly meetings where model, location and partnerships were outlined. As we evaluated the proposed new location, our staff were included as we walked through the building, assessing the classrooms, offices, and common areas to see if the space met our needs for students, families and staff. A majority of the Hope Staff were present at the meeting of the Indianapolis Mayor's Charter School Board to show their support of this new school, at which time Hope Academy was awarded a new charter.

Community
As Hope moves into a new era of service, community partnerships are a central component to the new charter. Most importantly, Hope has been in robust conversations with community partners to broaden accessibility to its programming as a way to meet the new demand. Hope is currently in conversations with IPS to become an Innovation School. Hope Academy has been meeting with other townships to discuss how Hope can provide an alternative to expulsion program for students in their districts who struggle with substance use disorder. The University of Indianapolis has become a key partner regarding facilities, dual credit opportunities, internships and other cross curricular activities. We continue to have conversations with healthcare systems to become a community partner through their community needs assessments and corporate responsibility. Finally, we have met with our philanthropic partners to gain support for ongoing financial and back office support that helps Hope Academy be sustainable. These key partnerships will allow Hope to have a larger footprint in Central Indiana and the surrounding counties, while also ensuring that students can have a campus site that is more accessible from all sides of the city.

8b) For a school that is expanding or replicating, provide an overview and evidence of community outreach activities.

Hope has received a new charter and has been labeled as a new school through the Indiana Department of Education. As stated in our new charter, we are moving our location to the southern part of the city of Indianapolis, allowing us to cultivate new community partnerships which will expand our reach for students struggling with substance use disorder. We are working closely with UIndy to create a strong presence at our southside location that will allow our students to have access to some of the University offerings, including creating a partnership for possible dual credit options for our students. Being in close proximity of the University will allow us to offer their college students the opportunity to complete internships within our school in the areas of education, social work, nursing, and others. This new location has allowed us to expand on a partnership with Indianapolis Public Schools. As Hope Academy moves toward becoming an Innovation School, we are currently working on a referral process for their Alternative to Expulsion program staff to utilize Hope Academy as an alternative placement for their students with substance abuse histories. This new location will allow an expansion in the relationships with Perry Township, Beech Grove, Center Grove, and Greenwood school districts. Hope Academy has had significant interest from the Columbus School District and Bartholomew County Probation to provide this niche education opportunity to their students in need. Judge Moores of the Marion County Juvenile courts spoke at our charter hearing in favor of utilizing Hope Academy in the new location as the current location had always been a barrier.

9. Provide an overview of the fiscal management plan.

9a) Describe the internal controls over expenditures and how records will be maintained.

Hope Academy risk management philosophy begins with its corporate structure. Board and staff will be subject to various policies designed to minimize risk, including: conflict of interest, financial internal controls, records retention, and a whistleblower policy. These policies outline specific processes and actions and will be reviewed and updated annually, as necessary.

Hope Academy staff, Board of Directors, including the Finance Committee, and Center for Innovative Education Solutions have formulated financial policies and procedures. The procedures and the specific roles in the financial management process are developed based on fiscal compliance requirements based on the organizations that provide direct oversight to Hope Academy including the State Board of Accounts, the Office of Education Innovation, and the Indiana Department of Education. All recommendations through the State Board of Accounts for controls and record keeping will be followed. All financial documentation will be kept in a secure location in the school office. Hope Academy partners with the Center for Innovative Education Solutions (CIES) for Financial Consulting to provide consultation on financial and operational systems and evaluate needs related to the business operation structure. Hope Academy has hired a Director of Operations to work onsite, handling the day-to-day activities, including purchasing, accounts payable, payroll preparation, and cash receipts. The Director of Operations will maintain all records in a locked filing cabinet located on-site at Hope Academy. Only the Executive Director and Director of Operations will have access to the filing cabinet under lock and key. In addition, Hope Academy will undergo an Annual Financial Audit with an Independent CPA Firm for accurateness and internal controls around the records maintained.

It is highly important to Hope Academy that financial responsibility and decisions be managed in a consistent manner that follows outlined procedures and documentation practices. The Executive Director will have authority designated by the board to manage its budgeted expenditures. Given board-determined thresholds, the signature of the Executive Director and Treasurer will be required for purchases and full board approval may be required for any purchases exceeding $10,000 as outlined by defined financial policies. At a minimum, at least three different people will be involved in each transaction from beginning to end. These practices ensure internal controls are in order.

Additionally, the Finance Committee, under consultation of CIES, will select finance software to track expenditures, receivables and purchase orders. The Executive Director, Director of Operations, and CIES will all have access to the same company file set-up in the software. The Executive Director and the Director of Operations will use the accounting software to generate checks, run financial reports and closely monitor cash flow. The financial consultant will use it to ensure payroll is entered correctly, reconcile bank statements, and generate financial reports each month for the Finance Committee and Board of Directors to review and approve. Hope Academy will follow all SBOA Guidelines as it pertains to proper financial tracking, expenditure approvals and internal controls training. Hope will ensure all staff are properly trained and certified in all SBOA Internal Control Standards.

9b) Describe the process for managing this particular grant, including decision-making process, creation of the budget, and how items purchased are tracked. Schools working with an external provider must affirm that the charter school leaders are responsible for all aspects of the grant management.

Hope Academy will manage this grant as stated in our finance and controls policies and in compliance with all federal and state grant management requirements. The initial budget process was led by the Executive Director, School Principal, CIES and the Finance Committee. All parties evaluated the needs for Hope Academy through a needs assessment based on our programming, enrollment plan, and upfront needs to launch a charter school. Input from the Finance Committee and the financial services consultant was also crucial in development of a final budget plan. The approved budget will be kept by the School Leader and entered into the accounting software and tracked under its own fund by the Financial Consultant. All items purchased with grant funds will be approved and processed by the Executive Director and Director of Operations through the Accounts Payable approval process. These items will be recorded and shared with the Board of Directors and financial consultant regularly for review. The Executive Director, in conjunction with the Director of Operations and CIES, will request reimbursement for expenses using the forms provided by the Indiana Department of Education and the CSP Quality Counts Team. Back-up documentation will be kept both by the school and in files held by CIES. Moving forward, ongoing evaluation and input of the plan will involve all school stakeholders. The Board will vote on the ongoing plan and budget. Budgetary items will be tracked and adjusted as needed as dictated by alignment and progress toward the defined school goals.

9c) Describe how other state and federal funds will support the effective operation of the school or student achievement, including paying for staff and other related costs beyond initial startup costs supported by the CSP grant.

Hope Academy will utilize State and federal funds to support school operations and student achievement beyond the scope of the grant funding. Hope Academy receives Alternative Education Funding, Basic Grant Funding and other various private grants. Basic state funding will cover the core foundational educational costs, including any personnel salaries beyond the initial start up costs supported by the Quality Counts CSP Grant.

In addition, Hope Academy will be responsible for properly understanding any potential Federal and/or State Grant Revenue streams allowable for Charter Schools. There are several variables which affect funding, including, but not limited to, free/ reduced population through the direct certification process, English Language Learner (ELL) Population, Special Education Student Count. Hope Academy will receive Basic State Tuition Support as the primary per student funding. This particular funding source is based on the ADM reported to the IDOE on the two count days through the STN App Center. This amount is received via ACH deposit from the State on the 15th of each month. Hope Academy will support the vast majority of staff and other related costs based on this figure that were included in the CSP Budget. In addition, Hope Academy will receive other Federal Grants which will also help supplement the Basic Tuition Support. Hope Academy will receive Title II, Alternative Education Funding and Special Education Part B Grants. The State Special Education Funding that will help support students with disabilities. This funding will help cover the cost of Special Education Contracted Services and primary Special Education Staff. Lastly, all general school operations, materials, administration and operational staffing will be funded through the Operations Fund.

10. Provide an overview of the facilities to ensure they are safe, secure, and sustainable.

10a) Describe the school's facility plan, including how the student enrollment and other available funding will meet the facility needs.

When the Hope Academy Board and Fairbanks board decided to dissolve the partnership, the Hope Academy board strategically began to look at the placement of the new facility that would be more centrally located to families in or near the City of Indianapolis. We engaged our stakeholders to include referral sources, parents, students, and staff regarding the key factors in a new location. Being more easily accessible for all students was a key factor. Safety of the facility was also an important component for the new space.

IFF was brought in to consult and help negotiate space that will fulfill the needs of the school. We also brought in a brokerage firm to help negotiate the contract with the new lease holder. University of Indianapolis approached Hope Academy in January of a space that they lease to another charter school that will be available July 1, 2020. With the assistance of the brokerage firm a lease has been signed and executed between University of Indianapolis and Hope Academy. The space is located at 3919 Madison Ave. Indianapolis, IN 46227. This facility is within our budgeted costs and revenues generated by per-pupil enrollment.

The space currently houses a school, so it is ideal with respect to the structure and function needed with regards to classrooms, cafeteria, office space, secured entrance, nurses office and appropriate number of restrooms. This space also allows us to grow to our enrollment capacity. It is located in a space that allows Hope Academy to be seen as a high school. The location is on the red line which allows for additional transportation options. We have applied and are awaiting the final board decision to become an Indianapolis Public Schools Innovation school. We are waiting for a decision once the pandemic crisis is over.

10b) Describe how the charter school has considered the transportation needs of the school's students and provide an overview of the transportation plan.

Providing transportation for our students and their families is key to our enrollment. We conducted a survey of our 2019-2020 families regarding transportation needs and the new facilities. 100% of families replied that they would continue with Hope Academy in any location, as long as transportation is provided. We received a grant that has allowed us to purchase one mini-bus. This bus will pick students up from central locations around the east, south and west sides of Interstate 465. This will allow students from anywhere within an hour to use this route. We will continue with Miller Transportation Services as our transportation vendor. They will provide the North side route for our students who live in northern Marion County and our Hamilton County students. During the 2019-2020, 65% of our students used our transportation services. Not all of our students use the public transportation system for travel to and from school. These students are dropped off by their families or drive themselves to school each day. Lastly, Hope Academy contracts with Miller Transportation who provides transportation for aiding in the transportation to and from school, in addition to, student learning excursions.

I. Mission, Need, Demand

A. Mission and History

The mission of Hope Academy is to provide a safe, sober, restorative and challenging school experience for high school students recovering from alcoholism and/or drug addiction who have made a commitment to personal recovery, have a desire to learn, want to attain a high school diploma and are willing to be an active part of a school community of like-minded students and faculty. Hope Academy opened in 2006 as an independent recovery high school operated by Fairbanks under the charter authority of the Mayor of Indianapolis. Hope Academy provides an environment where high school students can begin and/or continue their recovery away from the traditional high school pressures and temptations. Over 150 students have graduated from Hope with a Core 40 diploma and have gone on to post-secondary education or joined the workforce. More than 700 students have been served by Hope Academy during these past 13 years and have experienced academic and recovery success. In December 2018, as Hope Academy prepared to enter the final year (2019-2020) under its current charter, the Fairbanks Board of Directors determined it would be unable to continue in partnership with Hope Academy beyond June of 2020 due to changes in the healthcare environment. The Hope Academy school board subsequently made the decision to apply for a new charter as an independent school with the same mission.

Hope Academy is currently located on the northeast side of Indianapolis on the Fairbanks campus. Primary leadership at Hope includes Principal Linda Gagyi, Executive Director Rachelle Gardner, and Director of Support Services Debra Leser. Additional staff and faculty members include five content teachers, a part time special education teacher, one recovery coach, one nurse, one data analyst, and one administrative assistant.

Hope Academy offers students a 'Core 40' Indiana High School diploma track and the average graduation rate for the last four years is 63%. In the last four years our average enrollment at Hope is 37 students, with 55% in grades 11 and 12 and the remaining 45% evenly split between grades 9and 10. In the last four years, Hope Academy's student population eligible for free and reduced lunch has been 25%. The Special Education Population has been 19% in the last four years. Students identifying as non-white have been 22% of Hope Academy's total student population the last four years. Hope Academy has served 39 school districts in the last four years.

B. Need for A Recovery High School to Promote Student Success in Academics and Recovery

Substance use disorders (SUDs) in the U.S. affected more than 1.3 million young people between the ages of 12 and 17 in 2014; however, little more than 120,000 of these young people received treatment (NSDUH, 2014 & NSDUH, 2015) In 2010, an estimated 4% of all young people in Indiana were in need of treatment for substance use (NSDUH, 2012). For young people in recovery the school environment is often the single greatest hazard to their success in maintaining sobriety (Botxet, et al., 2014), which is illustrated by the fact that nearly 80% of all young people in recovery return to drug use within a year after returning to traditional high school (Winters, et al., 2000 & Fairbanks, 2016).

Hope Academy, located in Indianapolis, Indiana, is one of approximately 43 Recovery High Schools in the U.S., and one of eight total schools accredited by the Association of Recovery High Schools (ARS, 2019). Recovery High Schools have a dual mission to provide both a high-quality education and recovery support services to young people in recovery from SUDs (ARS, 2015). These Recovery High Schools provide a unique environment where young people can manage their SUD recovery journey while maintaining academic progress, which evidence suggests may contribute to successful long-term sobriety (Gibson, 1997).

Substance use disorders (SUDs) occur when recurrent use of alcohol and/or drugs causes "clinically significant impairment, including health problems, disability, and failure to meet major responsibilities at work, school, or home" (p.22) (NSDUH, 2015). SUD prevalence rises sharply after age 12 and peaks between ages 18 and 23 (see figure below) (Young et al., 2002 & NSDUH, 2016). Not only have SUDs been shown to exacerbate the overall disease burden in our country, but also cost an exorbitant amount of money in the form of healthcare costs, lost productivity, and associated criminal justice expenditures (French et al., 2008 & Sacks, et al., 2015). In 2009, national data showed that nearly half (47%) of young people in 8th through 12th grade admitted use of any illicit drug in the past 30-days, and almost one-third (28.4%) consumed alcohol within the same timespan (Johnston et al., 2009). In 2013, there were an approximate 120,000 young people in the U.S. aged 12 to 17 in recovery treatment programs for SUDs (CBHSQ Report, 2017), which still left more than 1.2 million individuals in need of treatment. Most of the young people who received SUD treatment did so in outpatient facilities (87%), with the remainder split between non-hospital residential treatment and hospital inpatient treatment facilities (CBHSQ Report, 2017).

Young people are particularly vulnerable to substance use since their brain is still under development and yet to mature. The prefrontal cortex, the specific area of the brain that remains underdeveloped until an individual reaches their mid-20s (Chambers et al., 2003), is responsible for impulse control, decision-making, and pharmacological processes of addictive drugs. Young people are less inclined to seek help for drug use than their adult counterparts, and evidence suggests a young person's willingness to undergo treatment is proportional to the amount of negative consequences he or she has experienced in their relatively short lifespan (Chambers et al., 2003). Moreover, young people, compared to adults, are more likely to conceal their substance use, and maintain such behaviors even after occurrences with the criminal justice system (Breda et al., 2004). Lastly, young people are prone to taking risks and rebelling against authority, which makes them especially susceptible to the negative effects of substance use (Jainchill, 2012).

Unfortunately, the effects of SUDs can often carry over into adulthood, considering the majority of adults with SUDs report their drug use began during adolescence (Dennis et al., 2002 & Cohen et al., 2007). The negative effects of SUDs among young people include, but are not limited to, illness, poverty, reduced grades, family and social problems, school and work performance, legal and criminal justice issues, diminished memory and cognitive abilities, problems obtaining and maintaining employment, and a decreased probability of finishing high school or attending university (Newcomb & Bentler, 1988 & Menasco, 2014). However, young people who are identified and treated for SUDs early are capable of progressing into adulthood with minimal disruptions (CHIA, 2015). Therefore, given the numerous negative effects, it is crucial that we understand programs that are effective in helping young people recover from SUDs.

For young people there are few options when it comes to combined academic and recovery support services following treatment. Indiana's only recovery high school is unique in that young people attend tuition-free, and it is the only recovery support provider that offers free transportation in central Indiana.

Nearly one in four high school students in the U.S. are provided with an illicit drug on school property (Kann, et al., 2000) and nearly all young people in recovery who return to their original high school post-treatment report being offered drugs on their first day back (Vaillant, 1988). As a result, the school environment has a great deal of influence on the success or failure of a young person in recovery. Evidence suggests that academic achievement, interest in school, and association with non-using peers can all be protective factors against substance use for young people in recovery (Resnick et al., 1997 & Hawkins, et al., 1992); while associated risk factors include a lack of academic success, availability of drugs, and interacting with substance-using individuals (Svensson, 2000 & Gonzales, 2012) - all of which commonly occur in or around the young person's school.

The traditional high school environment creates two critical stressors that could initiate a relapse in the recovery process: academic stressors (i.e., grades, discipline), and socialization stressors (i.e., peer influences, social norms) (White & Finch, 2006 & ARS, 2016). To minimize and control school-based stressors, Recovery High Schools (RHSs) were created with a dual mission to provide both quality education and recovery support to their students (ARS, 2015). RHSs allow young people in recovery the opportunity for a high school environment surrounded by like-minded peers who share similar goals and experiences.

The first RHS was founded in Maryland in 1979 (Karakos, et al., 2014), and similarly to the RHSs of today, it operated like a traditional high school, where students return home at the end of the day. As of October 2016, the Association of Recovery Schools boasted nearly 40 total schools (Figure III), with five of these schools having successfully received accreditation from the Association of Recovery

School. Hope Academy received its initial accreditation in 2013. As of the start of the 2019 school year, there are 8 ARS accredited schools and 43 schools nationally.

C. Demand

The rate of substance use for our young people is climbing at an alarming speed. According to research conducted by the Indiana University Richard M. Fairbanks School of Public Health's Center for Health Policy:

- Here in Indiana, over half (51.5%) of young people, ages 12 and older, drank alcohol in the past month and one-fifth (21.8%) engaged in binge drinking.
- In the same age range, 7.5% of Hoosier young people reported using marijuana and 12.9% used in the previous year.
- Young adults ages 18-25 had the highest rates of alcohol use in Indiana (61.8%, with 39.5% reporting binge drinking).
- The percentage of Indiana youth younger than 18 years old abusing heroin saw a sharp increase from 1.1% in 2010 to 11.5% in 2012 but saw a decrease to 1.8% in 2013.

Indiana is not alone in this crisis. Approximately 1.3 million young people, ages 12-17, are affected by substance use disorders nationwide and 7.9% of adolescents in the U.S. meet the criteria for alcohol or other substance use disorders. Of students in the 8th through 12th grades, 47% admitted to using illicit drugs in the past 30 days. One-third reported consuming alcohol within the same time span. Furthermore, research indicates that substance use also has a significant impact on society and the economy. The last available estimate of the economic cost of substance abuse in the U.S. was $193 billion. The majority of this cost, $120 billion, was tied to lost productivity. It is crucial that we intervene with youth at an early age so they are able to finish school and are prepared to be productive members of society later in life.

Hope Academy is a unique and innovative educational model designed specifically to address these issues. The school provides a publicly accessible educational option for the Indianapolis metropolitan area that is desperately needed by a segment of the population. Like many other specific and focused educational models, Hope Academy's goal is not to be the largest charter school in Indianapolis; rather Hope strives to be the highest quality educational option for students and families navigating recovery from addiction. Hope's model balances academic achievement with an additional commitment to sobriety, and the small school environment plays a key role in ensuring student success. Hope's model is not dependent on growing large enrollment numbers and keeping students in the program through graduation. For those students wishing to return to their home school, Hope Academy works with the applicable home school to ensure the student will have a successful and sober transition back to his/her original environment.

An important component to the success of the students at Hope Academy is the peer culture. Research has shown that recovery is facilitated by social support (McLellan, 2000) and four types of social support have been identified in the literature (Cobb, 1976 & Salzer, 2002): emotional, informational, instrumental, and affiliation support. Research has also shown that peers, or individuals who share the experiences of addiction and recovery, either directly or as family members or significant others, are a valuable source of these types of support for people in recovery from substance abuse. In a peer-helping-peer interaction, a peer leader in stable recovery provides support to a peer who is seeking help in establishing or maintaining his or her recovery. Both parties are helped by the interaction as the recovery of each is strengthened.

The terms mentoring or coaching refer to a one-on-one relationship in which a peer leader with more recovery experience than the person served encourages, motivates, and supports a peer who is seeking to establish or strengthen his or her recovery. Generally, mentors or coaches assist peers with tasks such as setting recovery goals, developing recovery action plans, and solving problems directly related to recovery, including finding sober housing, making new friends, finding new uses of spare time, and improving one's job skills. The relationship of the peer leader to the peer receiving help is highly supportive, rather than directive. The duration of the relationship between the two depends on a number of factors, such as how much recovery time the peer has, how much other support the peer is receiving, or how quickly the peer's most pressing problems can be addressed.

An underlying theoretical framework in support of RHSs is the Alternative Peer Group (APG) model (Nash & Collier, 2016). The APG model is a "comprehensive adolescent recovery support model that integrates recovering peers and prosocial activities into evidence-based clinical practice" (p.110) (Nash & Collier, 2016). The primary element under the APG model is the importance of positive social engagement with other peers and adults who are also in the recovery process (Figure II). Each of the key elements within the APG model are substantiated by widely accepted theories such as, the Bioecological Theory, which supports family involvement and positive peer support; Social Learning Theory, which emphasizes the importance of accountability and a sense of belonging; and the Transtheoretical Model, which involves case management and maintenance activities as a sponsor. RHSs are prime examples of the APG model in action.

Hope Academy created an Alternative Peer Group program in July of 2019 as an evidence-based afterschool program (APG) that keeps students connected during the times they are most at risk (after school hours, during school-year breaks, and during the summer months). Funding from the Indiana Department of Mental Health and Addiction supports this program and the APG could provide a stream of students for enrollment as well as fill a gap for at-risk students who may not yet be in need of a school like Hope Academy but who would benefit from a safe and sober afterschool environment.

Hope Academy's north side location, nestled on the Fairbanks Recovery campus, has typically served 50-70 students during the course of each school year. Enrollment and demand from other parts of the city has been a driving factor in moving the school from this campus. Hope Academy's leadership believes that a more centrally located campus will enable students from all township schools and the Indianapolis Public Schools more authentic access to the programs and services provided by its nationally recognized model. As these districts implement more savvy models focused on behavior and social emotional learning, the need for more sophisticated and focused services specific to adolescent addiction and recovery is more necessary than ever.

Student Recruitment and Enrollment

Based on national and state data, Hope Academy recognizes the need to increase its enrollment to serve more students impacted by substance use disorder. To address enrollment and other identified facets of school operations, the Hope Academy Board of Directors created several committees at the start of the 2018-2019 school year. One of the Marketing Committee's tasks was to administer an assessment of the school's marketing plan. Nick LeRoy, of Bright Minds Marketing, was hired to conduct a gap analysis for Hope Academy. One recommendation resulting from the analysis was for Hope Academy to create a marketing strategy with greater focus on key referral categories. Through this analysis, the school narrowed its approach and began focusing its marketing efforts on five categories of possible referral sources: website/parents, all addiction and mental health treatment providers, current students, Fairbanks referrals, probation, and the Department of Child Services.

Below is a grid highlighting the trends in each category identified in the gap analysis.

School leadership examined its methods of identifying the actual referral sources and then created methods of communicating with these referral sources. Communication is a key component to our connection with our referral sources as our student population is very fluid due to their issues surrounding their substance use disorder. The referral sources now receive school newsletters that provide school updates and also include interesting articles on related topics. A mechanism is now in place that provides each referral source with an update on the student they have referred to Hope Academy. The school database now includes over 500 referral source contacts.

School Referrals

Hope Academy leadership reviewed suspensions and expulsions data from the Indiana Department of Education and developed a pathway to provide all township schools with the ability to identify students in need of an alternative school placement. Utilizing the history of Hope Academy's success and its staff expertise, school leaders communicated with key personnel in IPS, Perry Township, Warren Township, Pike Township, Wayne Township, Franklin Township, Lawrence Township, Zionsville Schools, Hamilton Southeastern Schools, Noblesville Schools, and the Archdiocese of Indianapolis and discussed how to identify and refer a student that could benefit from our innovative model.

The grid below shows the current rate of suspensions and expulsions from area school districts, demonstrating the need to work together in developing a pathway that will help students identified with a substance use disorder. Meetings are ongoing with Superintendents, Guidance Counselors, Directors of Student Services, Deans, and other key administrators in these school districts to further outline the need for a recovery school for a segment of each district's student population. The appendix includes letters of support identifying Hope Academy as an alternative for students in need of academic and substance use disorder support from the following: Purdue Poly Tech, Herron High School, Riverside High School, Hamilton Southeastern Schools, Noblesville Schools, Christel House Academy and the Hamilton-Boone- Madison Special Services Cooperative.

Hope Academy recently entered into a partnership with a school consortium to address the needs of homeless students under the McKinney-Vento Act. Partners in this consortium include IPS, Decatur Township, Warren Township, and Matchbox LEA's. Our role is to provide support in addressing the academic and recovery needs of this student population affected by substance use disorder.

Consortium discussions have also identified another way that Hope Academy can use its expertise to assist school districts in dealing with their students who are struggling with substance abuse disorder by providing professional development for district staff.

Building awareness, decreasing stigma, and creating pathways for referral sources to utilize Hope Academy for their students struggling with substance use disorder was the marketing focus of the 2018-2019 school year. With this concentrated effort, Hope Academy's enrollment doubled in size from the previous school year – realizing a gain of 42 students from the beginning of the school year to the end of the school year. Overall, total enrollment increased 18% from the 2017-2018 school year.

Hope Academy leadership is confident that by relocating to a more central location and continuing to cultivate robust relationships with all area high schools, the school will continue to experience increased enrollment. Support for a more central school location is provided in the grid that highlights the student population of Hope Academy in recent years and identifies the county of residence of the students.

Hope Academy has been a member of Enroll Indy since 2016. To date, Hope has not received any students or applications from the Enroll Indy system. Given our priority goal of serving more students of color and students navigating poverty, the new Hope Academy charter seeks to engage with students and families in IPS. The Suspension and Expulsion rate of the urban school district is typically one of the highest in the state for drug and alcohol related discipline issues each year. School leaders believe that relocating Hope Academy within the IPS boundaries will open up additional opportunities to serve a number of students who have previously had limited or no access to Hope Academy due to a variety of barriers including transportation and little, if any, knowledge of the school's existence. Consequently, Hope has provided a letter of support from IPS documenting our progress submitting a full application to join the IPS Innovation Network.

Retaining Current Students

Recognizing that retaining the current student population was key to higher enrollment, Hope's administrative staff worked with the Hope Board of Directors Academic and Recovery Committee to create a more intentional process for discussing with each student a school year transition plan. Beginning in the spring of 2018, a transition meeting was held with every student and included the administrative staff and recovery staff in a discussion about summer programming and the student's plan for the next school year. The same process was utilized in the spring of 2019, resulting in doubling our retention rate of students compared to school years prior to implementation.

Topics discussed during transition meetings in Spring 2019 with Hope Academy students and parents/guardians included the new charter opportunity and relocation of the school. Prior to beginning the search for a new location, Hope leadership interviewed existing families about future locations for the school. Families shared that as long as transportation continues to be offered; moving to a more centralized location would be welcomed. One parent shared, "My child would be dead without this this school." One mother who lives on the west side shared, "A more central location would be so much easier. Especially for families coming across town. Families on the Southside need access to this school. There's just so much need." During the August 2019 parent meeting, families were again interviewed about relocating the school, with similar sentiments offered: "My daughter is learning so much in this school. She's finally learning again. We want her to be closer." As a final measure, we recently asked our current families to complete a survey regarding the relocation of the school. 100% of families surveyed said they would continue to send their student to Hope Academy if located in the central Indianapolis metropolitan area. 67% of families surveyed said they would still need transportation for their student. When asked about the importance of public transportation related to the new location, 78% of families surveyed said they would consider this an option for transportation for their student.

Additional Enrollment Strategies

Fundamental to enrollment is retaining our possible returning student population. Hope Academy's previously described afterschool program (APG) keeps students connected during the times they are most at risk that include after school hours, during school-year breaks, and during the summer months. Enrollment at the beginning of SY19-20 included 20 returning students, a strong indicator that this program corresponds with student retention. Participation in this program is not limited to Hope Academy students and therefore, an opportunity exists for youth who take part in the APG to transition to enrollment at Hope Academy.

Hope Academy's marketing and promotional materials focus on enrollment, articles of expertise, and other positive messages related to the school including programming, volunteer, and fund-raising opportunities. School staff will continue to present enrollment and other pertinent school information at fairs, conferences, and other events. Hope Academy has its own website that is utilized to communicate with parents, students, and other possible referral sources for the school. The website is regularly updated with information on enrollment, events, articles, and includes videos that highlight parents and other referral sources speaking about the positive impact Hope Academy provides for our community.

Finally, in the last year we began using various social media platforms to communicate with parents and referral sources and we plan to continue utilizing these formats as the transition to the new Hope Academy takes place. Additionally, ongoing efforts of staff and the Marketing Committee include more intentional awareness building and marketing to communities that have historically been underserved. These efforts will provide connections with key individuals, organizations and institutions that have deep experience, knowledge and trust with communities of color and other underrepresented groups. To date, this outreach has included entities such as the Center on Interfaith Cooperation, local churches with existing Substance Abuse Ministries (SAMs), the Indianapolis Urban League, Dream Alive, the Center for Leadership Development, Creators Camp, the Latino Institute, and Crossroads Education.

II. EDUCATIONAL SERVICES PROVIDED

A. Educational Model – Instruction and Implementation

Educational Model and Instructional Methods

Empirical studies suggest that high school students with substance use disorder have histories of diminished educational success, higher rates of school failure, and are at an elevated risk for dropping out of school. Furthermore, empirical investigation has revealed that students prone to substance abuse have weak relationships with school faculty and staff, find little personal relevance in the curriculum, and feel alienated from the life of the school (e.g., Hawkins et al., 2001). For Hoosier high school students and their families who have faced their addiction, Hope Academy offers hope—a unique school experience that is intentionally designed in every aspect of its operation to support a student's personal recovery and to address the learning and academic challenges that he or she must surmount.

Hope Academy will serve as a small charter school that will engage students in mastering a state standards-based curriculum. Per Indiana Alternative Education guidelines, Hope academy must have 15 or fewer students per class to maintain their focus on individualized instruction. Faculty who understand student recovery and academic needs will teach the students. A recovery school must be a personal place; a community of close-bonded relationships to adults and peers; and a place where students are challenged, yet, at the same time are provided multiple layers of behavioral and educational support. School must be a place where what is taught is connected to the life and world of the learner.

To assure that the daily operations of Hope Academy are in line with its mission and will fulfill its founders' vision, the school will operate within the parameters of ten guiding educational principles. The 10 guiding principles have been developed and tested at Hope academy. This work is unique to Hope and is cited as a national best by the ARS. Based on the ARS recognition, eight other schools nationally have chosen to implement Hope's principals. Additionally, ARS used Hope's principles to inform their current national accreditation process. Hope's guiding principles reflect factors found in the empirical and professional literature associated with bolstering the recovery and academic success of addicted students. These ten guiding principles will serve as the philosophic scaffolding to inform the school's foundation and operation, and over time to evaluate its success.

Principle I—provide a recovery culture appropriate to high school-age students of diverse backgrounds.
The disease of chemical dependency does not discriminate. The demographics are clear; young people across diverse populations are affected by substance use disorder. Meeting the educational needs of these students demands that in every aspect of its operation, Hope Academy provides a safe, sober, and challenging high school experience, informed and driven by recovery values and processes that have been shown to motivate and support the sobriety and health of students, as well as to promote their educational success.

Principle II—establish a school with recovery supports, rather than a recovery center with educational supports. Learning from its past, Hope Academy will place its primary focus on being a school while offering recovering supports. Teachers' primary responsibility will be classroom instruction while staying informed and sensitive to individual student needs.

Principle III—establish a code of conduct and discipline procedures based on restorative principles. Because of the unique behavioral needs of many recovering students, student behavior problems require attention through a responsive and restorative system, that is, a system that reinforces recovery values, enables the practice of recovery skills, develops a student's capacity to self-regulate, and helps the student engage self and others in civil and productive ways. Hope Academy will address inappropriate student behavior in an equitable and timely fashion through defined protocols, in a manner that meets state guidelines for due process and legal sanction. A variety of recovery tools will be developed and used to assist this process.

Principle IV—provide students a state standards-based curriculum that balances critical content and relevant learning processes for the purpose of readying each student for post-high school life and further educational goals. We will implement a curriculum that meets both state standards and the educational needs of each student. Hope Academy is committed to providing instruction that will help students retain essential information and construct knowledge in personally relevant forms so they can attain a level of success that will enable them to seek the form of post-high school education or a vocation that best fits their personal goals. A school experience that challenges late adolescent substance abusers to consider the meaning and direction of their personal lives significantly limits their later substance use/abuse as young adults.

Principle V—develop instructional delivery systems of various approaches to strategically promote active student engagement and diverse modes of learning. An array of learning deficits has been associated with substance-impacted student status. Many abusing students show soft signs of varied cognitive impairments, insufficient for diagnosis but significant enough to challenge their school success. Hope Academy will apply a variety of strategies and techniques to mitigate its students' propensity for manifestation of these associated weaknesses, e.g. differentiated instruction, integrated thematic instruction, and hands-on-learning. Proactive classroom management, interactive teaching, cooperative learning, and student social and emotional skill development can offset high-risk factors and increase academic achievement in populations prone to substance abuse.

Principle VI—provide both external (standardized) and internal (non-standardized) means to assess student achievement and to advance personalized learning. Hope Academy is committed to using an array of assessments to help teachers, students, and their families assess student progress. The strategic and integrated use of external (standardized) assessments with internal (non-standardized) assessments will be incorporated to gauge, from various perspectives, the academic, developmental, and recovery progress of each student. The school recognizes the necessity to use non-standardized measures to maximize personalized learning, some of which may include projects, portfolios, résumés, presentations, etc. Non-standardized assessments will focus on the students' application of their knowledge and will be evaluated in precise ways according to given standards. Students will be given critical feedback and adjustment loops for guided growth in a context of personalized learning.

Principle VII—provide students a variety of recovery supports and recovery requirements. Hope Academy will make recovery part of its academic curriculum, in addition to providing various recovery supports. Hope Academy will hire a recovery staff consisting of recovery coaches, school counselors, peer specialists, and a part time school nurse. Participation in a recovery education curriculum will be required expectations of all students. Students will be required to join the outside recovery community, participating in community recovery meetings and partnering with a recovery sponsor. Hope Academy will provide a separate school environment (STARR – Supportive, Therapeutic, Action-Focused Recovery Room) for students who need additional education and recovery supports.

Principle VIII—personalize each student's education by focusing on individual post-high school education and career plans. Hope Academy will work with students so that they can be successful after high school. The school will counsel students in applying for college, exploring trade schools, enlisting in the military, and exploring other vocation opportunities. Hope Academy will partner to provide students with college credit opportunities, internship opportunities, and job-shadowing opportunities.

Principle IX—build an active professional development culture that demands constant professional reflection. Hope Academy will build and maintain a professional development culture marked by collegiality, open faculty and staff exchange, information feedback systems, problem solving, and continuous professional education.

Principle X—actively pursue alumni and adjunct community support to help the school fulfill its mission. The recruitment and establishment of a wide range of community and individual collaborations will be sought to support student recovery, to broaden and enrich each student's academic experience, and to extend student service learning into the community.

Application of Our Ten Principles

Students at Hope Academy will attend a school that focuses on delivering a high-quality education while also providing recovery support and recovery education. Students will attend seven class periods per day, with classes being traditional teacher-taught classes. Courses that are not available in the traditional class period will be available online during one or more of their class periods.

Academically, the school's goal is to help each student achieve, at a minimum, an Indiana Core 40 diploma. Recognizing Indiana's changing graduation requirements, we will adjust our curriculum as necessary to meet the needs of our students. During Student Resource Time (SRT) three days a week, the staff will implement a curriculum that focuses on College, Career and Vocation exploration and readiness skills. Graduating seniors at Hope Academy will complete a Senior Capstone Project, where they will partner with a community organization to further their personal recovery education and commitment to community service.

Recovery support and recovery education will be an important area of focus at Hope Academy. Students will participate in a school-wide recovery circle every Monday and Friday during Basic Skills where students and staff will share personal reflections on daily readings, goals and accomplishments, etc. Students will receive recovery education three days per week during Basic Skills. Students will have access to a recovery coach and peer specialists to discuss recovery plans and sobriety. Each student will also be screened for potential new substance use at least twice per month. Students who enter our school with little or no previous recovery education will be placed in STARR (Supportive, Therapeutic, Action-focused Recovery Room), a program that pulls students out of the regular community and gives them individualized academic time with each teacher, as well as a dedicated recovery education time with the recovery team. The STARR program is another innovative practice that has been developed and tested at Hope Academy. The STARR program is a unique and evidence based approach for transitioning students from their previous educational context into the Hope model. This transitional program is critical to ensuring that students fully utilize the fluidity and flexibility of the Hope educational experience. Supporting transitional times with a therapeutic and educational focus has been shown to be an innovative component of the Hope model that is worthy of replication by other alternative educational programs with goals of successfully transitioning students from one educational context to another. A full description of the STARR program can be found in the Special Education section of this charter.

Staff members at Hope Academy will be trained in the area of adolescent substance use disorder, including brain function and trauma. Some of the strategies our teachers will use in teaching adolescents with addiction issues include:

*teaching lessons in small chunks
*spiraling curriculum
*applying learning to students' lives *assigning little to no homework *clearly posting the rules/expectations
*creating horizontal lists instead of vertical lists
*providing students with a physical location so that they can re-center themselves

While it is the primary purpose of teachers to teach their classes, they will also be trained in identifying issues and in funneling students to the appropriate supports. Furthermore, Hope Academy's Director of Support Services will counsel students in issues separate from, but likely intertwined with, their addictions. We will also employ a school nurse who will perform drug screens, will help assess and meet student physical and mental health needs, and will assist with any medical emergencies.

School Calendar

Students will attend school 184 days – 92 days in the fall semester and 92 days in the spring semester. In addition to the 184 days, each student will come into school for two student-led conferences, one each semester. Students will have an early release on 8 of the 184 student days for teacher professional development.

Teachers will be contracted for 191 days. Teachers will work on the 184 student days, the 2 student-led conference Days, 3 days at the beginning of the school year, 1 day at the end of the fall semester and 1 day at the end of the spring semester.

Daily Schedule
Students will attend school from 9:00a-3:20p. Research shows that adolescents have a natural sleep pattern that leads to a late-to-bed, and late-to-rise cycle. This cycle is part of the maturation of the endocrine system. Typical youth are not able to fall asleep before 11:00pm and remain asleep until 8:00am. These sleep patterns have consequences on a student's education. Teens that are sleep deprived are shown to have increased mental health and substance abuse related issues. With this research, we made the decision to have a later start time for our students. This later start time will also help to accommodate the long commutes some of our students will have as they travel to Hope Academy from school districts across central Indiana.

Students will start their days in Circle (Mondays and Fridays) and Basic Skills (Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays). In Circle each Monday and Friday, the entire staff and student population will participate in a morning reading, followed by individual circle passes where staff and students will share discussion items such as individual thoughts on a group reading, academic and recovery goals, number of sobriety days, weekend plans, tasks accomplished, and things to celebrate. In Basic Skills class, each Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, students (led by the recovery coach) will participate in recovery education.

After each morning's Circle or Basic Skills time (1st Period), students will then rotate through six additional periods. Students will attend teacher-taught classes in the core subjects, as well as fine arts, physical education, health, and other subjects as student demand and school budget allow. In addition to teacher-taught classes, students will also possibly take one or more independent classes in the computer lab, allowing them to recover missed credits and to take classes that are not offered as teacher-taught classes at Hope Academy. Furthermore, students (on a case-by-case basis) will have the option to use one or more consecutive class periods to take courses at nearby colleges or to participate in job shadowing/internship programs.

The period before lunch will be called Student Resource Time (SRT). Each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, the SRT will be used for life skill education (such as budgeting, career exploration, college exploration etc.). Each Tuesday and Thursday, SRT will be used for student groups and activities – similar to student club experiences. SRT periods will also be used for standardized test remediation and school-wide speakers and events.

Despite the fairly normal daily schedule that Hope Academy will offer, there will be school days when the schedule will be modified for recovery speakers, career exploration panels, college admissions counselor visits, etc. Flexibility will be a key quality required of staff in working to balance our respect for academic time with the unique opportunities Hope Academy can offer to educate its students beyond the core curriculum.

Extra-Curricular Activities

As for extra-curricular activities, our school will require students to be active in the local recovery community. As such, they will be required to attend two recovery meetings per week and work with a recovery sponsor. We plan to offer one of the required meetings at Hope Academy one afternoon per week after school. Students will need to attend the second meeting at a location other than our school, which will help them engage in the central Indiana recovery community.

Another opportunity for our students will be participation in the equine therapy program, Agape. Hope Academy will partner with Agape and send a group of students to the therapy program one afternoon per week (during school hours). We will also partner with Hope's APG, Guiding Pathways to Success (GPS), to provide our students with an after-school recovery support option for recovery help, homework help, counseling services, and social activities.

In addition to these regular weekly options, Hope Academy will also provide special opportunities for students to serve their community and have fun together. A SProm (sober prom) will be held in the spring and all students will be able to attend. We will participate in community events and fundraisers. Also, during school breaks, our recovery coach(es) will offer social and recovery activities at the school.

Sample Day in the Life of a Current Hope Academy Student

Katie is a junior and in her second semester at Hope Academy. Though it is her third year of high school, Katie barely has enough credits to call herself a junior. Her original plan was to attend Hope Academy long enough to be allowed to return to her home high school where she had been expelled for one semester for using marijuana at school. However, after the completion of her first semester at Hope Academy, she decided that she would finish out the school year at Hope Academy and possibly even complete her senior year here as well.

While Katie arrives at Hope Academy on the bus at 8:50AM, her morning starts much earlier since she lives in a suburban county over 30 minutes from school. Katie's mom drives Katie to the bus stop (a local McDonald's) to meet the Hope Academy bus at 7:45AM. Katie is fortunate to live five minutes from the bus stop – some students have 15-20-minute rides just to get to one of Hope Academy's bus stops. Katie meets the bus with a couple of other students at 7:45AM, and then the bus proceeds to its next three stops on the way to Hope Academy.

Katie arrives at Hope Academy on the bus at 8:50AM. She walks into the school and is greeted by the Principal, and then she continues to her locker with a stop by the restroom. She goes to the Basic Skills room and is seated by 9:00AM. Today is Tuesday and Basic Skills is led by the Recovery Coach and a teacher and focuses on recovery education. The Recovery Coach checks in with everyone, conducting a 15-minute pass where students update each other on their previous evening. Katie had another rough evening the night before – her mom and mom's boyfriend were arguing, and Katie wasn't able to fall asleep because of the noise. Katie shares this problem with the group because she has learned that this is a safe environment to share her struggles and that so many other students have similar struggles in their homes.

After the quick share, Katie sits through a short lesson on the effects of marijuana on adolescent brain development. This has been a unit that the Basic Skills class has been working on for two weeks and today they watch a short video that shows brain scans of different teenagers. After the video, Katie splits off with her cohort of about a dozen other students with a similar recovery experience (30+ days of clean time, but no formalized treatment). In her small group, Katie and her peers go through a set of questions on a worksheet about the marijuana lesson they just received.

After Basic Skills, Katie goes to 2nd period, U.S. History. This is a teacher-taught class and Katie is currently using an iPad to create a comic-book style presentation of the main points of FDR's New Deal. Next, Katie goes to 3rd period, English 11-12, which is also a teacher-taught class. On this particular day, the class is using their letter writing skills to write short letters of appreciation to local veterans.

For 4th period, Katie goes to the computer lab where she is working on recovering a Science credit she missed during her sophomore year of high school. Katie only earned two credits during her sophomore spring semester because her drug use led her to skip classes, and she lacked motivation to complete her work. This semester she is taking Health in the computer lab, using the online program Plato. The class is monitored by a teacher who assists Katie when she has questions.

After 4th period, Katie goes to SRT. Since today is Tuesday, she attends the Games SRT group, where she plays social deduction games with her peers and a teacher. After that, she has lunch with her peers. She usually eats the school lunch – it is typically the most nutritious meal she will have that day.

Following lunch, Katie has three more classes. For 5th period, Katie goes to teacher-taught Art. Katie never really liked art before, but she appreciates that the art teacher encourages her to use art to express emotions that she might not express otherwise. Katie already has a fine arts credit for her Indiana Core 40 diploma, so she will use this credit as one of her electives.

During 6th period Katie is studying Algebra 2, which is a teacher-taught class. Even though she was a good math student in junior high, Katie has a few gaps in her math learning because of her drug use. This is actually her second time taking Algebra 2 and she is much more confident this time around. In fact, she is getting As and Bs in Algebra 2 – grades she hasn't received in math since junior high. Finally, Katie finishes her day in 7th period, a teacher-taught dramatic literature class. Students in Indiana need eight English credits to graduate and students like Katie often have to take two English classes in one semester to recover missed credits.

Throughout the day, Katie uses her passing periods to go to the bathroom. She even uses one passing period to stop by the school nurse's office to address a cold she has been fighting. She also sees the nurse another time during the day when Katie is given a drug screen, one of two random monthly drug screens that all Hope Academy students must take. Katie also wanted to talk with the recovery coach about some issues she's been having with friends trying to get her to use, so the recovery coach pulled her out of her 4th period Plato class for half of the period. Finally, Katie remembers that she now has six weeks of sobriety, so she moves her emblem on the Recovery Wall in the hallway to the six-week column. That task makes her feel the best she has felt all day.

After school is over, Katie does not go straight home, but chooses to stay after school for Guiding Pathways to Success (GPS). GPS is a program affiliated with Hope Academy that provides students from any high school the opportunity for a sober hang-out, recovery education, homework help, and counseling services. Katie usually stays after school for GPS and stays here on this evening until 7:30PM. Katie's mom supports her decision to stay for GPS and she sacrifices her time to drive 30 minutes out of the way to pick up Katie at 7:30pm rather than have her come straight home on the school bus.

Katie gets home around 8:00PM, after her mom makes a couple of stops on the way home. Like most other students at Hope Academy, Katie has little to no homework each night. In addition to GPS, some of Katie's Hope Academy peers participate in therapy and treatment programs in the evenings. Furthermore, Katie and other students are required to attend two recovery meetings every week. As a result, most teachers do not assign homework, and when they do, it is not a significant amount of work.

B. Educational Model – School Culture and Discipline

School Culture

Our school culture will be a supportive culture of students who embrace the overall recovery lifestyle.

We desire that our students will trust the school's staff enough to be honest about their use and addiction issues. Ideally, we want our students and staff to have genuine, caring relationships with each other. While the goal is for all students to maintain their sobriety, we strive to have a culture where all students' are embraced when they have a positive drug screen as long as those students desire to be in recovery.

It is important that our students care about each other's recovery. Students shouldn't tell stories of their use, especially in a glorifying way. Students should not be afraid to confront other students who jeopardize the community with their continued use. Our students should not be afraid to speak to an adult when they are aware that other students might be harming themselves or are bringing substances to school.

The school culture at Hope Academy will exhibit recovery values in addition to abstinence from substance abuse. Those values are

1. Honesty – students will be honest with themselves and with those they care about
2. Respect – students will respect themselves and others
3. Support – students will help themselves by helping others
4. Commitment – students will keep an open mind and be willing to make healthy changes
5. Community – students realize that people are not for hurting.

School leaders do understand that students will come to Hope Academy from a variety of recovery backgrounds – from the student who has been in residential treatment to the student who has had no treatment at all and was just recently expelled from school. Utilizing Basic Skills and the STARR program, Hope Academy staff will work to indoctrinate all students in the lifestyle of recovery and how that lifestyle should affect our school culture.

Teacher Life and Duties

Teachers at Hope Academy will work five days per week, onsite, from 8:00AM-4:00PM. A teacher's day will include 2 hours and 20 minutes of planning and meeting time and 5 hours and 40 minutes of instruction and supervision time (including lunch period). Teacher assignments in a typical day will be broken down into: 5 academic classes (with as many as 3-4 separate preps), 1 STARR class (where the teacher instructs the STARR students for that day's regular subject lessons), 1 Basic Skills class (which is a school circle on Mondays and Fridays, and a teacher preparation period on Tuesdays-Thursdays), and 1 Student Resource Time (SRT) period (which is a life skills class three days a week and a student club/group time the other two days).

Two afternoons each week will be set aside for staff meetings, as it is important that the school staff regularly meets to address student and school needs. There is also an expectation that teachers will use some of their preparation time to meet individually with students, collaborate with other teachers, and work on other school activities as needed. Hope Academy teachers could have as many as four different subjects to prepare for each semester utilizing their planning time.

Sample Day in the Life of a Teacher

Mr. Smith is a math teacher at Hope Academy. His Tuesday starts when he arrives at school at 8:00AM. Mr. Smith logs in to his computer, checks and responds to email, and makes copies for lessons he will be teaching later in the week. At 8:40AM, a student named Jon arrives to school a few minutes early to get a little extra help on yesterday's math lesson. Yesterday Jon missed Mr. Smith's Geometry class because Jon went to Agape, an equine therapy program offered through Hope Academy.

Each Monday and Friday at 9:00AM Mr. Smith and the rest of the staff go to Basic Skills for Circle. Since today is Tuesday, Mr. Smith has an extended preparation period. Today he uses this additional time to collaborate with the social studies teacher about an upcoming unit.

After Basic Skills, Mr. Smith goes to his classroom to teach 2nd period, Algebra 2. This is one of two sections of Algebra 2 that Mr. Smith teaches. Algebra 2 is usually the most in-demand math class at Hope Academy because Hope Academy has more juniors and seniors than students from other grade levels. Like in his other classes, Mr. Smith uses an iPad and Apple TV to deliver today's lesson. On this particular day students are also using iPads to explore how adjustments to quadratic equations change the graphs of their respective parabolas.

For 3rd period, Mr. Smith walks to the STARR room where he works with a group of students who are new to Hope Academy. On this day, there are four students in STARR – two are in his Algebra 2 class, one is in his Geometry class, and the other student is not in any of his math classes. Mr. Smith has to balance his time in STARR working with the Algebra 2 students and the Geometry student, while also making sure that the fourth student is staying on task with work from other classes.

During 4th period, Mr. Smith teaches Algebra 1. This is his most challenging class of the day. It is unusual for Hope Academy to have very many freshmen, so typically this class is the smallest of all of his math classes. However, students who need Algebra 1 at Hope Academy are usually special cases, often falling into two categories: 1) students who have failed Algebra 1 one or more times, which jeopardizes their ability to graduate high school on time, or 2) students who are truly freshmen, whose drug use started at a fairly young age and who now have gaps in learning critical junior high math standards. Sometimes Mr. Smith uses iPads in this class so that the students can work on individual math skills. On this particular day one of his students looks pretty upset and is not working on the lesson. Mr. Smith sends the student to the Serenity Room, where the student is allowed fifteen minutes to re-center and fill out a reflective paper about his current emotional state. Either the Recovery Coach or Director of Support Services will take that paper later in the day and meet one-on-one with the student to discuss his issues.

Next is SRT. Mr. Smith takes a group of students to the gym where they play basketball. Lunch period follows SRT and Mr. Smith and the other staff members supervise students in the lunch room.

During 5th period, Mr. Smith monitors the Plato lab. During this class, he has ten different students who are working on credits in eight different classes. Mr. Smith monitors their progress, unlocks assessments, redirects distracted students, and helps students with their work. On this particular day a student refuses to work on his Plato class and keeps looking at his phone. After three redirections, the student becomes angry, cusses at Mr. Smith, and leaves the room. Mr. Smith calls the Principal who intercepts the student in the hallway.

During 6th period, Mr. Smith teaches a second section of Algebra 2. Unfortunately, this class is a day behind the other class. Mr. Smith has a handful of his students in this class who attend Monday's Agape equine therapy program. Normally that doesn't affect his progress in this class, but there were also two additional students absent yesterday. So, instead of moving on with yesterday's lesson, he offered some remediation to students who were in class and had to move yesterday's lesson to today. This is often an issue at Hope Academy – students might be absent for many valid reasons. Flexibility is a key positive trait that teachers need to have at Hope Academy.

Mr. Smith's last class is Geometry. He monitors the restrooms during the pass time between 6th and 7th periods. While monitoring the restrooms, the student who stormed out of his Plato class earlier in the day comes up to Mr. Smith and apologizes for his behavior. Mr. Smith has a good, quick positive conversation with the student. He finishes his restroom duty and then teaches the Geometry class. Today students are using compasses to make constructions of inscribed circles.

At 3:20PM students leave for the day. Since it is Tuesday, Mr. Smith attends one of the biweekly staff meetings. The meeting starts at about 3:25PM. During the meeting the Principal shares news and updates, as well as leads the teachers in discussions about a small number of students who have special issues (recovery, home life, grades, etc).

School Discipline Plan

We feel that the most supportive learning environment for Hope Academy students is one that is safe and recovery focused, provides an environment where students do not encounter temptations by other students to use chemicals, and where students do receive support and encouragement from the education team and other students. Policies and procedures regarding behavior have been developed in a collaborative approach with the school staff. These policies will be posted for all staff, students and visitors to view as well as published and given to all students and parents at the time of enrollment. These policies and procedures have been developed around the Recovery Values and will be a significant component of establishing the school culture.

Because of the unique behavioral needs of many recovering students, student behavior problems require address through a responsive and restorative system (e.g., a system that reinforces recovery values, enables the practice of recovery skills, develops student capacity to self-regulate, and helps the student engage self and others in civil and productive ways). This process, known as restorative justice, allows peer feedback on how the behavior is affecting the culture, focuses on repairing the harm that has been encountered, and then creates a plan to avoid the behavior in the future. This process brings the entire school together to confront the negative behavior and restore the recovery culture.

Cultural Competency

A number of challenges when addressing cultural competency among all of the stakeholders at Hope Academy exist. These challenges are based in the knowledge that various cultures and ethnic groups have various perceptions and experiences with substance use and treatment. Currently, students of color are 20% less likely to receive treatment for substance usage. Per SAMHSA's longitudinal NSDUH report, students navigating poverty are less likely to have access to high quality health care, substance use therapies, behavioral health, and mental health treatment. Additionally, these challenges could be exacerbated by the varied cultural demographics our students will represent and the general lack of education in addiction and recovery they will have when they come to our Hope Academy.

Given these national realities, Hope is deliberately and intentionally choosing to address the gap in treatment services for students of color and students navigating poverty. Hope believes moving to a more central location and partnering with IPS as an innovation school, will provide Hope the opportunity to share its innovative and effective recovery model with more Indianapolis teens. In order to address this shift in service provision, Hope intends to provide comprehensive professional development experiences for the staff.

Professional development will be key for the teachers, staff, and administration of Hope Academy in establishing cultural competency. First and foremost, school leaders will provide onsite and offsite opportunities for our employees to learn more about the disease of addiction, how addiction affects adolescents specifically, and how adolescent substance use disorder affects learning and school behavior. Second, recognizing that past and current trauma often go hand-in-hand with adolescent addiction, trauma issues will be addressed through professional development. Third, Hope Academy leaders recognize that the student population could include virtually every possible demographic variability – racial, geographic, socio-economic, gender, sexual orientation, religion, and ethnicity, to name a few. We know that we will likely will be educating a melting pot of students from across central Indiana – rural students, suburban students, township students, and inner-city students. Hope Academy leadership plans to address these issues through professional development, focusing especially on poverty, gender/sexual orientation, and race.

Given Hope's focus on enhancing equitable access for students of color and students navigating poverty, we have chosen to seek out a partnership with the Simon Youth Foundation. The Simon Youth foundation focuses on supporting students who are at risk of dropping out of high school due to challenging personal circumstances. Simon gives specific attention to first generation college students and students who have demonstrated financial need. Hope Academy has submitted an application to become a Simon Youth Academy. One of the potential benefits of this partnership is their ability to provide a vast array of professional development for school staff. Additional opportunities for professional development will include our partnership with IPS and partnering with other community resources such as Peace Learning Center, the University of Indianapolis, the Indiana Minority Health Coalition, and the Center for Leadership Development could provide ongoing staff trainings regarding school culture, equity, restorative practices, team building, etc.

Hope Academy recognizes that there are multiple layers of culturally responsive practices and understandings. It is crucial that all members of the Hope community have robust and comprehensive cultural competency opportunities. Students, staff, and board members will be actively engaged in activities within and across differences. Ensuring that students, staff, and board members know how to interact and engage with others is not only important for Hope Academy, but also for the larger recovery school community. As recovery schools across the country strive to get more students of color recovery support, Hope is purposefully and deliberately growing this aspect of their own practice.

We will conduct employee professional development during contract days before the school year starts, during planned early release days, during planned teacher work/professional development days, and during weekly staff meetings. Furthermore, funding will be available for our teachers to participate in outside professional development in culturally responsive practice.

Hope Academy school leaders realize that establishing cultural competency in the parent community will require purposeful outreach as many parents do not understand their student's addiction and have unrealistic expectations affecting how they deal with it as a family. We will provide our students and families with resources – family support group information and family addiction and recovery education information. The school will conduct family nights at Hope Academy that not only provide an opportunity for parents to speak with teachers and staff, but also provide an addiction/recovery education component in some type of presentation or discussion. In addition to these opportunities, student led conferences will be set up each semester with the student, his or her parents/guardians, and a teacher.

Establishing cultural competency in our community will be an ongoing part of Basic Skills and the STARR program. We will supplement these ongoing structures with speakers and other discussions throughout the school year. We will also use national holidays and days/months that celebrate various causes as an opportunity to educate our students – both as an entire school and in individual class lessons.

HOPE ACADEMY DISCIPLINE PLAN

Attendance Policy and Procedures

Compulsory Attendance

Every child between the ages of seven (7) and eighteen (18) years is required to attend school. A student may not withdraw until the age of 18 and an exit interview is conducted. Students will be marked absent/excused if the following scenarios are validated:

- Student illness or medical, dental, or professional appointments with documentation
- Death in the immediate family
- Exclusion because of exposure to a contagious disease
- Required religious observance
- Court appointment
- Absences assigned for disciplinary reasons (example: suspension)

Students will be marked absent/unexcused if they are not present in school and one of the above criteria is not met. If the school office has not heard from a parent by end of the school day, the students will be considered truant (absent/unexcused). Truancy will result in disciplinary action. Teachers are not required to allow students to make up classroom work if the student is truant (absent/unexcused).

IN THE FOLLOWING EVENTS, STUDENTS ARE NOT COUNTED ABSENT IN ACCORDANCE WITH IC 20-8.1-3-18. AND THESE ABSENCES MUST BE PREARRANGED:

- Page or honoree in the Indiana General Assembly
- Subpoenaed court appearance
- Aide to a political candidate, a political party, or to a precinct election board on the date of an election
- National Guard Duty
- School-sponsored field trips, including approved and parent-accompanied higher education days

Attendance Reporting

The student's parent or guardian is expected to call the School Office (572-9440) before 10:00 a.m. of the day the absence occurs to notify the school. When calling, the following information is requested:

- The student's name
- Name of the person making the call and relationship to the student
- The reason, date & period(s) for the absence, if not for entire day.
- Contact phone number so the call may be verified.

If the parent or guardian does not have access to a phone, a note from a parent/legal guardian will be accepted on the day the student returns to school. If the absence is due to a medical, dental or other professional appointment, a note of verification from the professional appointment is required at which time the absence will be excused. The note should include the date, time and length of the appointment on professional letterhead with a phone number and address. The notes should accompany the student upon their return to school. Doctor's notes may be requested if the student has an extended illness.

The following reasons will be considered as excused absences:

- Student illness or medical, dental, or professional appointments with documentation
- Death in the immediate family
- Exclusion because of exposure to a contagious disease
- Required religious observance
- Court appointment
- Absences assigned for disciplinary reasons (example: suspension)

All phone calls must be received by the School Office within one hour of the start of school. If no phone call is received the absence will be marked as truancy. Efforts will be made to contact the parents if no call is received.

Early Dismissal for Professional Appointments

Students will not be allowed to leave school grounds without the knowledge and permission of a parent or guardian and permission from an administrator.

Students will not be allowed to leave school or miss class to run errands such as returning home for books or materials. When a student needs to leave school before the end of the school day, the following steps must be followed:

- The parent or guardian should call the school office 572-9440 or send a note to the school office.
- The school staff will write the student a pass to leave at the specified time.
- The student will show the pass to the teacher and report to the school office to sign out. All students leaving the building without permission or without signing out will be subject to the same consequences assigned for truancy.
- Students sent home from the Nurse's Office must sign-out in the school office. Before a student who has become ill or injured is sent home, the school will notify parents or guardians to arrange for transportation. In case of an injury which needs medical attention, an attempt will be made to consult with the parent or guardian for advice. Under no circumstances will the school allow another student to transport the ill or injured student. If a parent or legal guardian cannot be reached, the student will be taken to a doctor or the hospital. The school does not assume responsibility for payment of these bills.

Absences, Excessive

In the event of a student who has absences (excused and/or unexcused) in excess of five (5) days, the administration may recommend one of the following actions:

- No action necessary (work is updated, doctor notes turned in, student on track)
- Student will be required to serve detention (before or after school)
- Student will be suspended
- Students will be recommended for expulsion
- Students with an excessive amount of absences may lose the following privileges:
    - Loss of driver license until age 18
    - Revocation of work permit
    - Loss of driving privileges

School Interventions

- Day Five – a phone call or email will be sent to the parent/guardian notifying him/her of the absences along with the attendance policy and possible future obligations.
- Day Six – A conference with the student, parents, and administration will be scheduled at which time the family and school administration will discuss obligations as listed above.
- Day Seven – a letter will be sent home notifying parents and given to the student to inform them of the violation of the attendance policy.
- Day Nine – Parent will be contacted and notified that one more absence will result in an attendance hearing with the school.
- Day Ten – Parent will be contacted to schedule an attendance hearing with school administration at which time the student's attendance will be reviewed and a determination of obligations will be established.

College Visits and Pre-arranged Absences

- At the beginning of the 11th grade year each student may explore many post-secondary options.
- Students in grades 11 or 12 are allowed two higher education days, these absences must be prearranged.
- Occasionally, situations arise whereby students are required to be absent from school. On these occasions, the principal/designee may grant a prearranged absence if the request is appropriate and within timelines. A pre-arranged absence request form must be submitted at least five (5) school days in advance of the requested absence. A student may use no more than five (5) school days of prearranged absences per year. A pre-arranged absence request form may be found on our website. Students are responsible for making up all missed assignments; no assignments will be given in advance. Failure to request a pre-arranged absence five (5) school days in advance will result in an unexcused absence(s). Prearranged absences will not be approved on days the student's class is scheduled for final examinations, NWEA (MAP) and ISTEP testing days, achievement tests, or during student-led conference days, or days extending Thanksgiving break, Christmas break or Spring break.

Truancy Consequences – invalidation of driver's license

Indiana law states that under certain conditions a student may have his/her driving license suspended. The purpose of this law is to encourage student attendance and appropriate behaviors. Under Indiana Code section 18 IC 20-33-2-11 students must meet minimum requirements to qualify for the issuance of an operator's license or a learner's permit.

- Be at least thirteen (13) years of age but less than 18 years of age
- Must not be a habitual truant under the definition of IC 20-33-8-12. A child is defined as habitual truant student who is chronically absent, by having unexcused absences from school for more than ten (10) days of school in one school year.
- If a student is defined as a habitual truant they may not receive their operator's license or learner's permit until the age of 18.
- The governing body may determine that the individual's attendance record has improved to the degree the individual may become eligible to be issued an operator's license or a learner's permit before February 1 and October 1.
- The term suspension used in this policy is an out-of-school suspension as defined in IC 20-8.1-1-11.

A driver's license or a learner's permit may not be issued to an individual less than eighteen (18) years of age who meets any of the following conditions:

- Is a habitual truant under IC 20-33-8-12.
- Is under at least a second suspension from school for the school year under IC 20-8.1-5.1-8 or IC 20-8.1-5.1-9.

- Is under an expulsion from school due to misconduct under IC 20-8.1-5.1-8, IC 20-8.1-5.1-9, or IC 20-8.1-5.1-10.
- Has withdrawn from school, for a reason other than financial hardship and the withdrawal was reported under IC 20-8.1-3-24 (a) before graduation

If a person is less than eighteen (18) years of age and is a habitual truant, is under suspension or an expulsion, or withdrawn from school described in Section 1, IC 9-24-2, the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles shall, upon notification by the student's principal, invalidate the person's license or permit until the earliest of the following:

- The person becomes eighteen (18) years of age.
- One hundred and twenty (120) days after the person is suspended or the end of a term during which the person returns to school, whichever is longer.
- The suspension or expulsion is reversed after the person has had a hearing under IC 20-8.1-5.1.

Enforcement of Attendance Policy

The principal or designee shall:

- Designate any student as a habitual truant if the student's attendance records indicate such designation.
- If a student is designated as a habitual truant the principal may file a report to the appropriate agencies in order to assist with this issue. This will include legal authorities including the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. Indiana Code grants power to the state to remove or delay drivers' licensing of students who are habitually truant (I.C. 9-24-2-1)
- Review the student's attendance record no less than one time each school year to determine if the prohibition against receipt of an operator's license or learner's permit shall continue. At least one hundred and twenty (120) school days must have elapsed since the determination of designation in order to have a significant sampling from which to make a determination of improved attendance. This review will be made at the written request of the student or his/her parent or guardian.
- If the prohibition against receipt of the license or permit is removed, the principal shall notify the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles. The removal of the prohibition, however, shall not cause the number of truancy days to be erased for purposes of later determining that a student is a repeat habitual truant under this policy.

Tardiness

Students are expected to maintain a 95% attendance rate. Regular school attendance improves learning, establishes dependable work habits, allows students to take full advantage of educational opportunities and enhances a supportive recovery environment.

Students who are late to class will be counted as tardy. A student not in the classroom when the bell begins to ring will be considered tardy. Students who arrive at school after the tardy bell rings must sign in at the School Office.

Tardy Policy

For each individual class (periods 2-7):

- First offense – Verbal warning given by teacher and mark in attendance
- Second offense – Verbal warning given by teacher and mark in attendance
- Third offense – Verbal warning and parent contact by teacher, also mark in attendance

Student Behavior

To help students develop appropriate behaviors, Hope Academy will apply the principles of Restorative Practices in the student behavior system. Restorative Practices are based on the premise that students will be more likely to make changes in their behavior when they are involved in the process and the focus remains on what is best for the community. The use of Restorative Practices is designed to be responsive to the behavioral needs recovering students bring to school.

The faculty and staff will use progressive and restorative discipline practices as a guide for determining the appropriate actions for a specific student. A student's behavioral needs will be evaluated in terms of how often the behavior has presented itself, the impact the behavior has had on the community, and the length of time the behavior has been occurring. The following steps will be taken during the restorative discipline process: Making affective statements, stating affective questions, having impromptu meetings/discussion, conducting a circle of concern, parent contacts, conferencing, and/or behavior transformation meeting. Additionally, students impacting the educational process or causing safety concerns may be removed from the classroom, removed from the school community, suspended, and/or recommended for expulsion.

Hope Academy staff and student have developed lists of Community Expectations. These expectations will be reviewed and modified each year. These documents will be visually displayed and will guide desired student behaviors.

With regards to some major disruptive behaviors, students may be suspended or expelled for engaging in any activity on or off school grounds if the activity may reasonably be considered to be an interference with school purposes or an educational function, or the student removal is necessary to restore order or protect persons on school property.
The grounds for suspension or expulsion apply when a student is:

- on school grounds, before, during, or after school hours
- off school grounds at a school event or activity
- traveling to or from school or school event/activity

Hope Academy Community Expectations

Arrival

To promote safety and punctuality, students are to enter the building in uniform without outside food or drink, at which time they are to proceed to their locker and prepare for the day. Students are to be mindful of the following when planning for the day: plan ahead as to not jeopardize being late by placing personal items in locker and making sure all materials needed for class are prepared to go. Remember to follow all community expectations for school areas such as hallways, lounge, and vending area.

Attendance

To respect the educational processes students are expected to have a 95% attendance rate. Having a high attendance rate is conducive to strong recovery and educational outcomes.

Dismissal

To respect the school environment, students and faculty will ready the classroom for the next day as presented by administration. For example, chairs will be stacked, paper and supplies are to be off the floor, and computers will be shut down and stored properly. Students will then leave the building in a respectful manner at 3:20pm.

Passing Periods

Student will be given 4 minutes to pass from one class to the next. During this time students are expected to follow the community expectations for each area. (lounge, hallway, restroom, and vending area) Students are expected to be on time for their next class. Students are not allowed on the first floor during this time and are to only use the bathrooms located in the south student hallway.

Restrooms

To promote a clean and safe environment, students will follow the community expectations for the restroom area. The restrooms will be monitored by peers and a staff member to promote a sense of pride in our community and facilities. Students are prohibited from using any kind of smoking device in any of the building restrooms.

Cafeteria

Hope Academy students and staff will gather and promptly proceed together to lunch at the appointed time. Travel to and from the cafeteria is to be quiet and respectful. When in the cafeteria, students are to be respectful of others eating and cafeteria staff by waiting in line, talking quietly, using appropriate table manners and when finished eating, put their trays in the racks. At no time are students allowed to use their cell phones while in the cafeteria. Students must follow all guidelines established by Hope leadership with regards to sharing food, returning to food line for additional purchases, and purchasing protocols.

Leaving the Classroom

To respect the learning process and to minimize distractions, leaving the classroom is discouraged. However, if a student needs to leave a classroom for an important reason during class, students are to request permission and a pass will be assigned. Students may also be required to leave their cell phones with the classroom teacher when leaving the class.

Lockers/Backpacks

Each student will be given a locker to store personal items. To respect the school environment, all lockers are to be kept neat, clean, and organized. Personal backpacks, purses, and other devices used to transport materials to and from school WILL NOT be allowed in classrooms. Students will be given a Hope Academy Back pack that he/she will be required to carry to each class with necessary materials. Lockers are Hope Academy property and may be searched at any time.

Personal Space/Boundaries
The space of each student, faculty, and staff member shall be respected at all times. This included their physical space, psychological space, and possessions. Pushing, shoving, borrowing items without permission, and talking out-of-turn are all examples of personal space/boundary violations. Public displays of affection are limited to hand holding during non-instructional times.

Language
The use and development of appropriate language is a key factor in working personal recovery. To promote recovery, each member of Hope Academy will be expected to use language that is constructive, positive, and supports the core values of Hope Academy.

Addressing Faculty and Staff
To promote respect towards faculty and staff, students will address adults by using their surnames. (Example: Mrs. Smith)

Readiness for the Classroom
Students will be mindful of those things they need to do to be ready for class. This includes arriving on time, being dressed appropriately, having completed assignments, and having the necessary resources to complete that day's school work.

Food, Drink, and Snacks
To promote safety, cleanliness, and respect for our school environment, food will NOT be allowed in the classrooms and will be confiscated if visible in the classroom. Students may have snack food in the student lounge area. Students may bring in drinks that have been sealed and are unopen. Once inside the school, only these drinks will be allowed in the classroom, as long as there is a lid for the container. Coffee and/or drinks with unsealed lids from the café downstairs or from an outside vendor will not be allowed. Students may have the school provided coffee up to 8:55 a.m. in either the Serenity room or Quads. Students are expected to clean up areas where food and drinks are allowed.

Electronic Devices
To respect learning, minimize distractions, and to promote socialization in recovery, personal electronic devices will not be allowed in school. (Examples: iPods, MP3 players, or CD players, E-Readers/Tablets, iPad, laptops, and headphones) Items will be confiscated by staff and students may pick them up at the end of the day. After the third confiscation, parents will be required to pick up the devices.

Cell Phones
Cell phone use is not permitted during class. Cell phones will be placed in a bin at the beginning of each period and may be picked at the end of each period. After the second time a phone is confiscated, the phone must be picked up by a parent or guardian.

Computer Use
Computers have been purchased by Hope Academy for students to use for educational purposes. Students using the computers are to respect them as property of the school and maintain high standards of care while in use. Students using a computer for purposes other than educational activities may have computer use suspended. Activities include; using Facebook, YouTube, Streaming Music/Video, etc.

Dress Code
The Hope Academy dress code has been designed to provide a positive and consistent atmosphere that encourages learning and supports a culture of recovery. Students that accept enrollment in the school also accept the school uniform policy.

All students will adhere to the following guidelines for student dress:

- The school uniform is defined as: floor length tan, navy or black khaki style pants worn waist high, and a black, gray, purple, or white polo shirt of appropriate size. Hope Academy has polo shirts with the Hope logo available for purchase in the front office.
  - The uniform must be worn at all times.
  - Appearance is to be neat and well-groomed. (Students will be notified and given 1 day to correct)
  - Only Hope Academy fleece jackets may be worn over the uniform if necessary.
  - Undergarments may not be visible.
  - Athletic shorts may not be worn under khaki pants.
  - Shirts worn under student polo shirts must be tucked in.
  - Shoes must be worn at all times.
  - House slippers are not permitted.
  - Student jewelry should not distract from the educational environment of Hope Academy.
  - Pant material may not be denim or stretch and should not be tight fitting.
- Students that come to school out of uniform will not be permitted in school.
- Students that are noncompliant during the school day will be removed from the community.
- To encourage Community spirit, there may be designated "dress down" or "themed dress" days that students may participate in during the year. The expectations for these days will always be communicated to students and parents (via email) prior to this day. In order to avoid exclusion from school on these days, it is recommended that the student bring their uniform in case they are not in compliance with the special attire as outlined for that day.

Students will be required to call home and/or develop a plan to get into uniform. If a student is out of uniform twice during a day, they will be sent home. Students missing class time due to improper uniform will be held to the tardy, attendance, and/or truancy school policy.

Tobacco

Hope Academy is a tobacco-free campus for all ages. Therefore, students attending Hope Academy are not allowed to possess or use tobacco products on school grounds. Examples include but are not limited to: cigarettes, chewing tobacco, vape devices, dip, snuff, etc. Indiana State Law prohibits the possession and/or use of tobacco products by students under the age of 18 therefore, the school will confiscate, and discard tobacco products and legal action may be taken. Students are not allowed on the adult smoking patio.

E Cig Policy/Vaping

The school prohibits the use of electronic nicotine delivery systems such as; electronic cigarettes, electronic hookahs, and other vapor emitting devices, with or without nicotine content, that mimic the use of tobacco products at any time. These devices will be confiscated, and the parent/guardian will be required to pick up the devices from the school office for the 1st and 2nd offenses. For the 3rd and subsequent offenses, the devices will be kept until the last day of school when a parent/guardian may pick them up.

Obligation Chart

A detailed obligation chart is located in the appendix 17.

C. Educational Model – Curriculum

Curriculum Overview

Hope Academy's curriculum is unique in that it is a combination of academic Core 40 classes based on Indiana standards and recovery education. Our philosophy is that we are first, a school and second, a recovery support system. Students at Hope Academy will work toward completing not only the requirements for an Indiana Core 40 diploma, but also recovery requirements set forth by the school.

One of the unique challenges our school will face based on our past experience is the transience of many of our students. New students are accepted throughout the school year with an average of 1-2 new students per week. Throughout the school year, we serve students from an average of 34 different schools and districts in and around Marion County. Furthermore, a number of our students will not stay at Hope Academy through graduation, either choosing to return to their home schools to graduate with their peers or leaving Hope Academy due to their inability to adhere to our recovery requirements.

Therefore, it is important that Hope Academy's Core 40 courses align well with Indiana standards and follow traditional year-long outlines that are most likely to align with other area schools. Frequently, as new students enroll throughout the year, they are integrated into the classroom curriculum as seamlessly as possible.

Hope Academy's curriculum will be based on the collective experience our school has gained over the last several years and will include an effort to promote cross-curricular lessons. Our teachers will work together to align lessons across several subjects several times per year. During the 2019-2020 school year, all staff will engage in planning to map out cross-curricular opportunities for current and upcoming school years.

Our team of teachers, with administrative support, work together to build our curriculum. Teachers begin by identifying standards that will be covered in each six-week grade period and clustering for each semester. From this, curriculum maps are created to ensure that all standards are being covered. These core concept maps are shared and cross curricular opportunities are identified and built on for the semester. Staff meets weekly to share progress and discuss additional connections. Individual teachers-post their content standards, marking them off with the dates that they were taught.

Beyond the formal discussion and development of curriculum as a team, educators at Hope regularly engage in informal curriculum discussions to adapt lessons and teaching strategies as needed to meet students' educational needs on a daily basis. Hope intentionally avoids the use of a purchased curriculum because of the need for flexibility and individualization due to the transient nature of our population and students' academic gaps created by sustained substance abuse. Teachers at Hope are adept at assessing and identifying academic gaps, and addressing those gaps through integrating prerequisite knowledge into daily lessons. Lesson plans are reviewed routinely by the Principal to ensure that all standards are being taught as outlined by the curriculum maps.

Teachers are expected to submit professional development plans each October. These plans are aligned to the school curriculum maps. The Principal will approve and review these plans with individual teachers as a part of their evaluation meetings.

Factors We Will Prioritize in Our Curriculum Creation

Factor I: Equivalent Validity with Continuous Progression
Substance abusing students have a history of not being connected to their schools. When it comes to school, many recovering students suffer from a sense of alienation. Because of this, the academic curriculum provided to recovering students needs to be aligned to the curriculum offered in traditional schools. The curricular experience presented to recovering students must help them replace their shame, doubt and alienation by helping them successfully complete courses of recognizable similarity, that is, a curriculum of equal rigor. School leaders believe it is important that Hope Academy provides its students an Indiana CORE 40 based curriculum in terms of identifiable core academic courses, general course content, standards, and accountability.

Factor II: Flexibility.
Our previous experience has taught us that substance abusing youth share common issues around their compulsion to use, yet they shouldn't be stereotyped. They are a diverse group with varied backgrounds, capacities and aspirations. We believe our curriculum needs to reflect this fact. We propose that the curriculum must provide students: (1) recovery courses (see Factor #6 below) that address universal recovery issues; (2) CORE 40 academic courses that provide students with academic rigor and, (3) elective, flex, career-academic sequence, and service-learning experiences that provide students with varied opportunities. We envision a curriculum flush with opportunity for students to take a wide variety of courses accessed across various venues. Our goal is to provide a curriculum with flexibility, so students can align their course of study to personal interests, background, capacities, and aspirations, whether those are college, career or vocational.

Factor III: Meaning and Personal Relevance
To have a curriculum that truly engages recovering students, it must be viewed by students as relevant to their issues, interests, and life needs. Since Hope Academy is committed to a CORE 40 basic curricular structure, its delivery will require unique and creative pedagogy that promotes student use of learning strategies to enhance their ability to construct knowledge in personally relevant ways. The school implements lessons built on research that a course's relevancy can be significantly increased through implementing an integrated thematic instruction design (e.g., Kovalik and Olsen, 2002). This approach weaves relevant life situations, themes, and issues with the content and levels of mastery required by state standards.

For example, scholars have pointed out (e.g., Zucker et al., 2000) that alcohol and drug use has been imbedded in the everyday fabric and historic flow of American life. Alcohol is a drug of everyday use; it occupies a special place in the social order that ties patterns of both use and abuse to regular life events—social intercourse, business exchange, courting, recreation, and leisure. In America, the ebb and flow of alcohol and drug abuse is dynamically interconnected with major events as well as with social, economic, moral, legal and political issues of the day. Through thematic-integrated-instruction, students see that their addiction problems are part of a line of ongoing American social and historic processes. They can then use this relevant template to organize and store in memory key historic events and processes.

Factor IV: Sufficient Integration and Scaffolding
Students recovering from chemical dependency will, in most cases, struggle with general dependency issues in other areas of their lives—school is usually one of those areas. Recovery high school educators are quick to point out that all too often recovering students are overwhelmed by feelings of helplessness and hopelessness when it comes to school. Years of negative interaction with teachers, behavior problems, low performance, and a nagging sense of failure haunt these youth. Hope Academy's curriculum will be structured and integrated to build student competencies ("I can") and developmental assets ("I have") so that the recovering student's empty narcissism ("I haven't, but I'm still cool") and co-occurring helplessness and hopelessness ("I can't, and I never will") can be ameliorated. When a recovering student sees how academic course content can be used to enhance and support recovery and build personal capacities, his/her motivation and success in academic courses improves.

Take Ed, for example, a ninth-grade student just out of treatment. In his first year at Hope Academy he learns that one of the things that happens to a person who uses drugs or alcohol is that his thinking becomes distorted—receptive language becomes interpreted in defensive, self-centered ways; expressive language becomes cut away from image, simile, and metaphor, as it is progressively organized around expletives, and expletives serve as the linguistic filter used to interpret personal experience. Ed learns that these facts result in addicts employing "using lingo," with which he is all too familiar. Ed also learns that recovery demands the reconnection of self to self and to others, and this reconnection is mediated through appropriate thoughts, words and deeds.

At the same time Ed is learning these things, he is taking English. In English one of the focuses is on vocabulary development and word meanings. Ed's Recovery Coach is teaming with his English teacher to construct a series of language-based recovery exercises which focus on the role of the internal and external use of language to interpret experience and how those interpretations influence the way one behaves. One of the assignments they developed is for students to keep a personal word log/dictionary of new words learned in English class assignments. The purpose of this exercise is to expand and enrich the recovering students' vocabulary. Students practice, in real life, the use of log words, recording how they used them to interpret an experience, and how the interpretation impacted their feelings and behavior. Through these exercises, Ed begins to notice changes in his thinking, feelings and behavior. He also learns that a standards-based academic content requirement is relevant to his recovery. Through this process, academic information is constructed by Ed in life-relevant ways which then serve as scaffolding for further learning and knowledge retention. The next year when Ed takes a psychology class, he learns about cognitive therapies and how the quality of the words one uses relates to thought, personal experience, emotion, and behavior. He once again sees the relevance of required academic material and how its application actually builds a sense of self-competency: the asset—"I CAN!"

Factor V: Community Grounding

Addiction permeates and colors the whole life of a young person abusing substances. This fact tends to demarcate the difference between youth who abuse alcohol and other drugs and youth who are addicted to alcohol and other drugs. Central to addiction's "permeation" in a young person's life is the breaking of relationships—to self, loved ones, others and in general, to life. Repair of these breaks is essential for successful recovery. Helping substance abusing adolescents at school to recover requires much more than providing students a safe place away from peers who use and away from the temptation of substance supplies found in, around, and through school. A recovery school requires a sober community consciously pursuing the repair of relational breaks. We believe a strong curriculum ultimately facilitates learner engagement on numerous levels—self, others, and the environment. Thus, our commitment is toward a school curriculum that promotes student interaction and community; a curriculum where students master academic requirements through strong bonds to individuals, school and learning. This commitment informs our curriculum. For example, systems of instruction that emphasize isolated, individual learning, such as computerized learning, will have a secondary or supportive role at Hope Academy. The central paradigm for instruction is human interaction.

Factor VI: Provision of Explicit and Implicit Recovery Management

Hope Academy must integrate recovery management philosophy and core beliefs throughout its curriculum, as well as reflect this philosophy in the organizational design of the school and in the behavior and attitudes of faculty and staff. This is the implicit recovery management curriculum. To adequately support student recovery, though, a strong and continuous line of explicit recovery management courses must also be part of the curriculum. Our vision is for these courses to be integrated into our Basic Skills class and taught during the beginning of the day to ensure students will start each day confronting the primary issue of their lives—their addiction—within the positive frame of recovery.

Factor VII: Data Driven Curriculum Evaluation and Adjustments

Hope Academy is committed to design and use continuous curriculum evaluations to inform pedagogy, and thereby provide our students and families the tools for success in recovery and in attaining a high school diploma.

Graduation
To graduate from Hope Academy, a student not only has to complete Indiana's Graduation Pathway requirements, but also our own recovery requirements.

Indiana Graduation Pathway Requirements:

1. Diploma: We will strive for every student to attain at minimum a Core 40 diploma. We understand, however, that some of our students will have a unique high school experience that might justify a general diploma.
2. Employability Skills: We will require each graduating senior to complete a Senior Capstone Project, which will be a combination of service and learning.
3. Postsecondary Competencies: We will partner with our students to help them prepare for standardize tests such as the SAT and ACT. We offer our students the ASVAB test onsite. We will work with our students and partner with other schools to provide career-technical education classes.

Hope Academy Recovery Requirements:

1. Extended sobriety
2. Working with a sponsor
3. Attending weekly meetings

Exit Standards:

The exit standards below are an example of what we envision. The exact exit standards will be established by the Principal in consultation with faculty. These standards are representative of what Hope Academy students will know and be able to do upon graduation in regard to their own recovery and academic achievements.

D. Methods of Pupil Assessment

At Hope, students are assessed throughout the curriculum with both formative and summative assessments. Teachers assess students regularly via weekly quizzes and quick checks using visual cues and IPads. Students are provided guided notes and frequent progress checks in the classroom. The summative assessments are a combination of teacher created tests and test pulled from online resources and are tied directly to Indiana State Standards and school curriculum maps. Projects are often assessed using rubrics. Students who are using Plato, are assessed with the Plato curriculum materials, and are supervised during testing by a teacher. Students on Plato may retake tests as needed until they achieve mastery.

An additional way Hope evaluates academic progress and achievement is to look at credit completion data. Hope has maintained credit completion rates above 90% of attempted credits. The percentages for each year are:

- 15-16 – 94% Completion
- 16-17 – 92% Completion
- 17-18 – 92% Completion
- 18-19 – 93% Completion

All students participate in NWEA testing three times during the school year. Student take the Math, Language and Reading tests to assess their academic progress on a regular basis. Data from the NWEA is used to determine student's current status as well as their progress on subsequent tests. Professional development on NWEA and review of student scores will be provided to teachers during early release days. This data will be used to understand and adjust lessons based on individual student needs throughout the school year. Specific interventions will be assigned based on the data, to support students who are below grade level or when gaps are identified.

Hope participates in all provided state testing measures including ISTEP+, ILearn, PSAT, and ASVAB. The data provided from these tests are shared with staff, students and parents to assist everyone in understanding the student's strengths and weaknesses. Based on the data students may be assigned mediation for educational gaps or other supports to improve student learning and performance. ASVAB will be provided twice per year for students who opt-in to Graduation Pathways and for all students graduating in 2023 and beyond.

The school will maintain an Individual Student Data sheet for each student containing an at-a-glance look at student data across all testing measures. This will include student grades and test scores. Student data will be discussed every 6 weeks in the staff meeting dedicated to student curriculum and data.

Hope looks at student data not only for disaggregated subgroups but works diligently to review every student as an individual. A weekly recovery team meeting with the Director of Student Services, Principal, guidance counselor, principal, Executive DIrector, Recovery Coach, GPS coordinator, and nurse to review data on every student and discuss progress, concerns and possible interventions that may be needed to support student success. The data discussed includes both recovery and academic data. Each week a summary of the information from this meeting is shared with the entire team along with any planned interventions or suggestions on what supports the student might need.

All student academic and testing data is stored in our student management system, PowerSchool. Data is shared via reports to the OEI and Indiana DOE. Additional data can be provided upon request. Hope is currently updating its data dashboard to include additional data to allow for a more focused look at academic and recovery progress. This dashboard will be shared with the staff every 6 weeks, at all meetings of the Academic and Recovery committee and with the full board at the end of each academic semester. OEI will receive this information at school board meetings or at any time by request.

The unique needs of Hope Academy students require a set of mission specific measures that will yield data that can both help Hope Academy leadership and staff accomplish their mission while also providing much needed insights into the recovery process of students suffering from substance use disorders. To that end, Hope Academy has developed a standing data package that includes measures of academic achievement, sobriety, mental health, childhood trauma as well as a measure of the personal and community assets the student may have to help them in their sobriety.

Since 2011, students at Hope Academy have been asked to complete the measurement package. The data collected that has been used to fulfill the requirements of the Office of Education Innovation for mission specific measures. This data has also been used in research studies published in peer reviewed journals, doctoral dissertations and conference presentations. A summary of the measures currently included in the Hope Academy Standard Measurement Package is below. The ACEs (Adverse Childhood Experience) assessment will be added to the standard data package in the 2019-2020 academic year.

The data collected at Hope Academy have found a link between the negative impact of substance use disorder and academic achievement. Using data from the GAIN-SS, the Global Appraisal of Individual Needs – Short Screener and the Northwest Evaluation Association Measures of Academic Progress, paired observations (Testing 1 (T1) vs. Testing 2 (T2)) were formed. These paired observations were categorized based on information from the Global Appraisal of Individual Needs – Short Screen, as increased, decreased, or no change in substance use disorder. Results confirm the impact of substance use disorder on academic growth, with T1–T2 pairings in which substance use disorder increased resulting in a decrease in academic growth, and T1–T2 pairings in which substance use disorder decreased resulting in an increase in academic growth. The impact of no change in substance use disorder from T1 to T2 varied by the time frame of the substance use, either in the past month or in the past year.

These results have led to more research examining the "Dual Recovery Hypothesis" which posits that there is an interaction between academic success and success in recovery from substance use disorders. As a student experiences recovery success with the support of Hope Academy staff and students, they begin to find that their academic work becomes easier and more rewarding. These academic successes bolster their recovery efforts, which in turn positively impacts their recovery.

In addition to the work described above, data from Hope Academy has been used in a Ph.D. dissertation examining the impact of the recovery community on student success, a Masters' Thesis examining the "unpackings" that occur when a student relapses, and research papers on the impact of spirituality on recovery written by faculty at Indiana Wesleyan University.

HOPE ACADEMY

Standard Measurement Package

Measurements to Reflect Our Mission—to provide a safe, sober and challenging school experience for students recovering from alcoholism/drug addiction in grades 9 – 12 who share a commitment to educational achievement and personal growth within a community of common recovery values and activity.

Measure	Purpose	Administered	Importance
Academic
NWEA-MAP Measure of Academic Progress (MAP)—nationally normed, adaptive computerized tests measuring student academic progress.	To measure student academic progress made between X2 administrations, i.e. for the school year.	Administered twice a year—once in the fall (September), and once in the spring (May).	A mandatory Mayor's Office measure used to evaluate Hope's effectiveness in facilitating student academic success.
ECAs State of Indiana mandated End of Course Assessments. Replaces the Graduation Qualifying Exam (GQE).	To measures student academic progress in regards to state-wide standards in math, English, and biology.	Administered at the end of course for Algebra I, English 10, and Biology by School Counselor. Student must pass to graduate.	A mandatory Department of Education (DOE) measure to ensure public school accountability.
Recovery
GAIN-SS Nationally normed Global Appraisal of Individual Needs—Short Screener.	Brief screen for behavioral health issues; gives a metric to behavior health needs across a population.	Administered at 3 month intervals (August, December, January, April) by Hope's Recovery Coach.	Reflects student progress and needs in regard to recovery and behavior health issues.
Developmental Assets Profile Self-report of students internal and external assets that may impact their recovery.	To measure perceived changes in the personal assets (eg, character, grit) and external assets (friends, family)..	Administered at the beginning of matriculation/school year.	Reflects students progress in developing assets related to long term recovery and well being.

E. Special Student Populations—English Language Learners

Currently, only 9% of Latino teens struggling with substance usage receive treatment. Several reasons for this low standard of care are based on access to healthcare and insurance, as well as social stigmas. Currently, Hope does not have students qualifying or in need of language assistance. We anticipate that our future students may have a native language other than English. If, during the initial staff and parent/student informational meeting it is determined by school leadership that a student has a language barrier; the student will be classified as a LEP. If the student can speak some English, the school will administer, within 30 days, the English exam normally used by public school districts and the results from the exam will be used to determine the student's level of LEP. Regardless of the outcome, if we do not employ a member of our staff that can provide language services to these students, Hope is committed to seeking outside assistance to provide services for these students on a contractual basis. Specifically, Hope will work with the IDOE to implement WIDA onsite and ensure that staff are trained to ensure implementation with fidelity.

F. Special Student Populations—Special Education
It is our commitment to all students who attend Hope and their parents to ensure that no student will be denied an education because of family background, income, race, religion, gender, health or disabilities. It is our understanding that, as a public high school, our school will comply with all rules and regulations as prescribed by the Individuals with Disabilities Education Improvement Act (IDEIA 14) and Article 7 (511 IAC 7-17 through 7-31).

Because of the customized learning mechanisms already established at Hope Academy, such as the Gradutaion Plan and Graduation Contract, all students will be monitored and their progress checked on a daily basis. However, for students who have been identified with special needs, Hope will have an Individual Education Plan that will specify goals, level of placement, ancillary services and least restrictive placement.

As described in our ten guiding principles, it is the philosophy of Hope Academy to provide students an "instructional delivery system of various approaches to strategically bolster active student engagement and diverse modes of learning". Thus, it will be our goal to always provide students with disabilities services that will take place in the general education setting with non- disabled students to the maximum extent possible. Removal of students with disabilities from the general education environment will only occur when the required special education and/or related services dictate provision in a more restrictive environment.

Hope has several team members who hold a special education certification. These staff members will continue to serve as the Teacher of Record and will oversee the students who need special services and ensure those services are provided for each student in an effective and efficient manner.

Until students are enrolled and Individual Education Plans (IEP) are collected, we will not be certain how many of the students will require special services. Once individual student enrollment is complete, we will have a better understanding of what services the student with special needs will require, and a full strategy will be developed. Currently, special education students enrolled at Hope Academy are performing well and passing with no waivers.

Identification
Students attending Hope will be identified for special needs in the following ways:

- At the time of enrollment students will be asked to submit an existing IEP if applicable
- If the student is a drop out, he/she will be reassessed and his/her IEP will be updated
- If, during the first month of school, a student without an IEP exhibits signs of having a disability, we will use a third party contractor to complete all necessary testing of the student.

Referral
If a referral is necessary, the referral will contain the following:
- Reason for referral
- Any testing, records or reports to validate referral
- Thorough explanation of all remediation attempts
- Description of parental involvement prior to referral.

G. Special Student Populations—Students Above and Below Grade
As described throughout this charter, all students who attend Hope will have a Graduation Plan. For our gifted and talented students who desire a high academic curriculum, their plan will reflect opportunities to achieve their highest potential. It is our intent to provide a basic Core 40 education for all students. For those who wish to exceed those expectations or wish to challenge themselves, enrichment opportunities will be provided within the classroom. Teachers will prepare lessons and projects to include higher order questions in alignment with Bloom's taxonomy to challenge students at all levels. Students who are preforming above grade level will also be provided AP and dual-credit opportunities. Student will have access to more than ten AP classes on the Plato system. Currently, our Social Studies and Art teachers are accredited to teach dual credit courses through Ivy Tech. This has been challenging to implement at Hope because students must start and end the entire school year to complete these courses. As Hope moves to a more central location, students will have better access to attend classes on the campuses of Ivy Tech, IUPUI and UIndy via public transportation. For students at Hope Academy, a part of the graduation expectations is the completion of a Capstone Project in their senior year. This is an opportunity for students to set their own learning goals and push themselves to move beyond the wall of the school to the greater recovery community. This experience can be used for high achieving students to challenge themselves to learn at their highest potential.

While some students at Hope are high performers, we also have those students whose educational path has been filled with roadblocks that may have put them behind their peers and created a situation where they are performing below grade level. As previously stated, students new to Hope are assigned to the STARR room for up to three weeks. This gives the staff time to assess the student's academic progress and understanding of the recovery process. For students who are identified as preforming below grade-level, a menu of interventions is available. These interventions may be assigned, suggested or selected as needed by staff, students and parents. Assigned interventions may include:

- Math and Language Arts tutoring during student resource time.
- Credit Recovery or Plato
- Re-teaching and re-testing in the classroom

Resources that are available for all students, include:

- Summer School
- Tutoring after school with GPS
- Guided note taking
- Teacher support in Plato
- Small classrooms
- Feedback every three weeks (Progress Report or Report Card)
- Teacher tutoring for 1 hour, 3 days a week.
- Support and tutoring for ISTEP+ and ASVAB testing

For students who enter Hope with little or no experience with recovery, the STARR program is available to assist students in making the transition. Additionally, the students who are struggling with their recovery may spend time with recovery coaches during the student resource time or be reassigned to STARR for additional support.

The STARR (Supportive, Therapeutic, Action-focused Recovery Room) Program at Hope Academy provides more individualized education and an increased focus on recovery. It will be the foundation for the program. Hope Academy believes it is imperative students be provided with the opportunity and the support to be successful. Components of the program include: therapeutic recovery groups, additional art opportunities, individualized educational instruction, recovery coaching, and increased accountability. Students will be placed in the program via team recommendation and will be required to complete the program to return to the general school community.

H. Goals

Hope Academy has established the following goals for its new charter:

1. Academic Foundation: Hope provides a therapeutic educational experience grounded in strong transitional experiences. 75% of students will receive a C or better the four year required Basic Skills course.

2. Academic Completion: Hope provides students with a strong educational experience that prepares them for achieving their life long goals. 85% or more of Hope students will meet or exceed state graduation requirements.

3. Ensuring Culturally Responsive Practice: Hope Academy will seek to ensure students across Central Indiana have culturally responsive supports and services. 100% of staff and board members will participate in culturally responsive professional development and its implementation in classroom practice, school policies, and procedures.

4. Transition Planning: A key component to Hope's mission and vision is directly tied to student sobriety and the journey to healthy adulthood. 100% of Hope graduates will complete all components of the senior capstone project.

Specific information on these goals have been outlined per OEI guidance in Appendix 9.

I. Support for Learning

Throughout the school year, there will be many opportunities for parents to participate in educational activities, individual academic progress monitoring, and parent recovery support activities. As students are new to the school, a conference is held with the parents/guardians, the student and Hope Administration and Recovery staff to talk about expectations and student background and history. Each semester, parents are asked to participate in a student-led conference with their son or daughter and a core teacher. During this meeting, students discuss their academic and recovery progress with their parents/guardians. In addition to the conference, parents receive academic and recovery progress communication in the form of a progress report or report card every three weeks.

Each week, the Principal will send an email that provides announcements, calendar activities, and other important information to families. These weekly communications will includes information about our parent meetings held twice each semester. Parent meetings include: recovery education for parents, academic information, update on student academic and recovery performance, and an opportunity to connect with other parents and the Hope Academy staff. The Recovery Coach has ongoing communication with parents regarding issues and needs of the students which include celebrations of milestones in their recovery. The Director of Support Services communicates with parents of graduating seniors regarding FASFA, college and career planning, scholarships, and credit completion.

Parents are invited to support activities at the school as well as to serve on committees for fundraising. At the end of the school year the parents are asked to complete an end of the year survey. We then use that data to help drive change or enhancements for the next school year.

III. ORGANIZATIONAL VIABILITY AND EFFECTIVENESS

A. Governance Plan –Board of Directors

As part of the launching of Hope Academy in 2006, the Fairbanks Board of Directors appointed a separate board to carry out the governance, operational oversight, and fiduciary responsibilities of the school. The current Hope Academy Board of Directors is comprised of members with a long-standing relationship to the school and a dedication to the school's mission and vision. As Hope transitions to a new phase of service, many of the current Directors have expressed their intention to continue their board membership. Over the past three years, our board governance has improved with a more robust committee structure that better utilizes the strengths of all board members and we have engaged additional community members to serve on the committees to supplement the expertise of our board. We are utilizing Board on Track as a tool to help us further engage board members and standardize governance-related activities, and we are committed to continuing to cultivate and recruit additional board members to ensure future stability, leadership, and cultural diversity. The expected Board roster when Hope Academy opens for SY2020-2021 is listed below. Human Capital
We require teachers to have an Indiana license and be highly qualified in their content area. The teaching staff needs to be able to personalize learning for each student and understand the learning gaps that occur with students struggling with substance use disorder. Our teachers need to be flexible in their teaching methods to help fill the learning gaps. In order to maximize the power of the culture of the school, the faculty must be able to foster relationships with the students. When we have job openings, we will post the jobs on our website, the state education job database, online job search sites, and/or with university placement services in order to foster a school staff that is reflective of our student population.

Teacher Staffing Levels:

	1st Year	2nd Year	3rd Year	4th Year	5th Year
Regular Teacher	5 FTE	5 FTE	5 FTE	5 FTE	5 FTE
Special Education Teacher	0.5 FTE	0.5 FTE	0.5 FTE	0.5 FTE	0.5 FTE

In addition to licensed teachers, we will employ:

Executive Director (1.0 FTE)
Principal (1.0 FTE)
Director of Support Services (1.0 FTE)
Administrative Assistant (1.0 FTE)
Recovery Coach (1.0 FTE)
Peer Specialist (0.5 FTE)
School Nurse (0.4FTE).

In addition to paid staff, we plan to utilize college students where appropriate – as interns, classroom assistants, etc.

Staff Retention

We will place a high value on staff retention year to year. The unique nature of our school and student population creates a challenging learning curve for our staff. Effective staff members need to have a solid understanding of addiction and its effect on how a substance impacted student learns. Staff continuity will be a key component of establishing the foundation for a quality learning environment.

Our hiring protocol will have a direct impact on our staff retention efforts. We will strive to communicate clearly and accurately with potential hires both the challenges and rewards of working with our student population. In addition to purposeful hiring, we will reward our staff with a supportive administration, the opportunities to attend professional development, teacher appreciation activities and in other helpful, affirming efforts.

Staff Benefits

All full-time school staff will be eligible for benefits including: medical, dental, vision, basic life and AD&D insurance; PERF and TERF or 403(b)/401(k) retirement plan; and personal, vacation, and paid holidays off.

D. Governance Plan—Community Partnerships

Hope is respected as a long-standing pillar in the Indianapolis charter school community. Hope was one of the first charters in Indianapolis and one of the only charters that was supported by both Democratic and Republican members of the City County Council. Fairbanks has been a dedicated and devoted anchor for the school and has provided facilities and organizational support, as well as community support for the school since its inception. As the charter school landscape and the nation's focus on substance use evolves, Fairbanks believes the need for Hope's services has grown beyond expectations. More and more schools and students are discovering a need for Hope's educational experience, as well as the role substance use plays in a child's developmental experience. Fairbanks is excited to support Hope as it launches into its own organization and expands its offerings (Letter of Support Attached).

As Hope moves into a new era of service, community partnerships are a central component to the new charter. Hope has been in robust conversations with community partners to broaden accessibility to its programming. As outlined in School Referrals, The Hope Academy, Inc has been meeting with key administrators in area school districts to outline the need for a recovery school for a segment of each district's student population as an alternative to suspension or expulsion. Discussions have also highlighted how Hope Academy can use its expertise to assist school districts in dealing with their students who are struggling with substance use disorder by providing professional development for district staff. Partnerships with the area school districts will be vital and we believe the key partnership will be with the IPS District. The Hope Academy, Inc has been invited to submit a full application to join the IPS Innovation Network and we are confident that relocating Hope Academy within the IPS boundaries will allow an underserved population access to our innovative school and will positively impact the students and families served by IPS.

Discussions continue with key universities around creating partnerships for space, dual credit, internships and research. We continue to have conversations with healthcare systems to become a community partner through their community needs assessments and corporate responsibility platforms. Finally, we continue to meet with our philanthropic partners to gain support for ongoing financial operations and specific needs of The Hope Academy, Inc. These key partnerships will allow Hope to have a larger footprint in Central Indiana and the surrounding counties, while also ensuring that students can have a campus site that is more accessible from all sides of the city.

Beginning with SY17-18, the Hope Academy Board instituted a committee structure. The Development Committee, with guidance and mentoring from the Fairbanks Development staff, has made significant strides in developing relationships with both individuals and corporate citizens within our community. Financial support from community advocates reflected a substantial increase from prior years. In SY17-18 we received a total of $198,000 and in SY18-19 we increased our philanthropic support to $267,000.

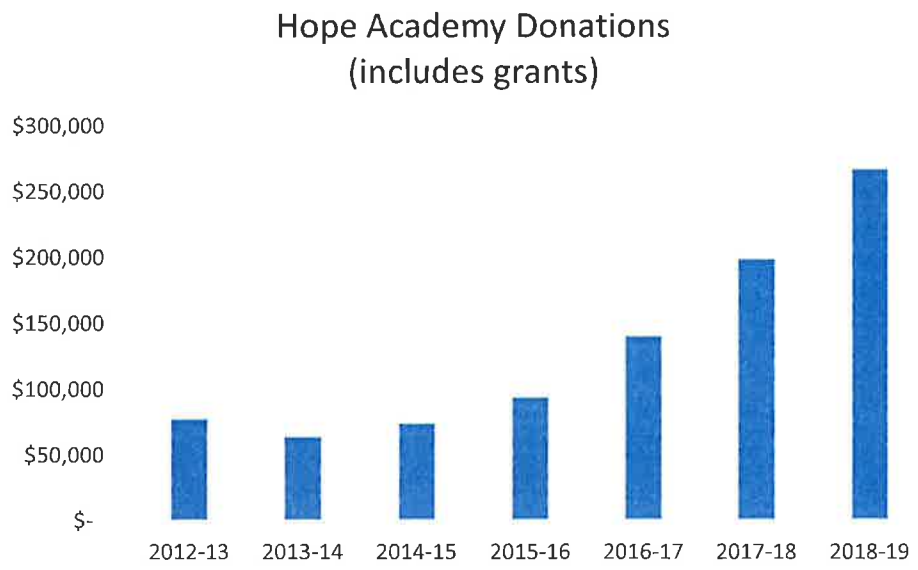
Year-to-year renewal grant funding received is also indicative of strong community support. Hope Academy has historically received grant funding annually from the following philanthropic entities and as the mission of The Hope Academy, Inc is to expand our impact on the community, we are confident that this support will continue for SY20-21 and beyond.

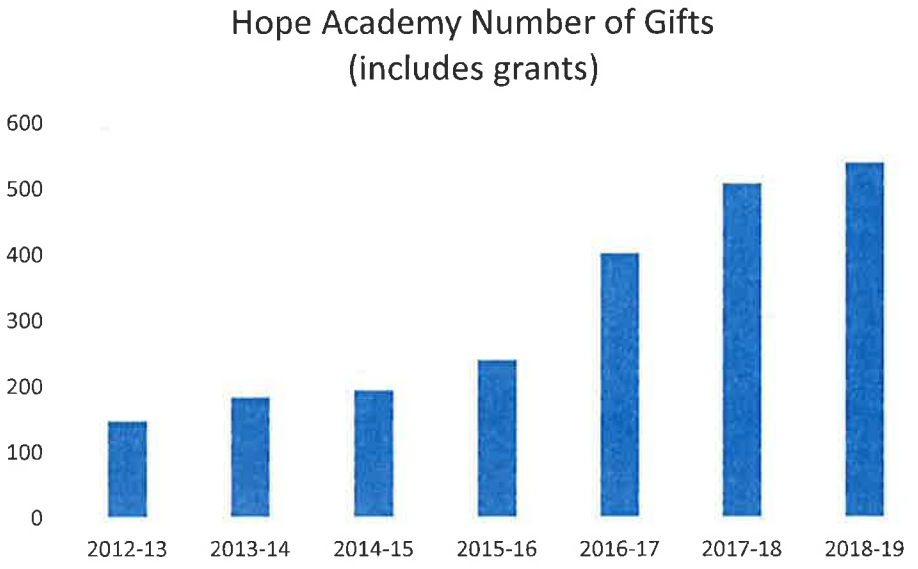
Junior League
Crosser Family Foundation
Samarian Foundation
Wells Fargo Foundation
Summer Youth Program Fund
Noyes Foundation
Pacer Foundation
Braveheart Foundation
Ackerman Foundation
Hamilton County Community Foundation
Tom & Julie Wood Family Foundation

Additionally, The Hope Academy, Inc has more than $1 million dollars in grant proposals under consideration or in the planning stages.

As The Hope Academy, Inc. transitions during the 2019-2020 fiscal year from its affiliation with Fairbanks to an independent charter high school, the Development Committee of Hope Academy is supporting this transition effort by adding a new corporate breakfast fundraiser to the funding opportunities. Upon approval of The Hope Academy Inc, charter, the board of directors intends to launch an expansion campaign.

The Hope Academy's, Inc mission will remain intact and as the school expands its positive impact on the community, we are confident that we will retain current community advocates and likely attract new financial support in SY20-21 and beyond. The grids below highlight this positive trend in financial support.





E. Financial Management

The board regularly reviews financial performance at board meetings. In the interim months, the board delegates this oversight responsibility to the Treasurer of the Board and Finance committee. This daily responsibility of financial management is shared through delegation of these activities with the Executive Director. The Executive Director with oversight of the Finance Committee is responsible for the coordination of the following: annual budget preparation, annual budget presentation, management of grants and other funding sources, selection of an accountant and the outside auditors, and approving revenue and expenditure objectives in accordance with the Board approved long-term plans.

Hope Academy will employ Center for innovative Education Solutions(CIES) for bookkeeping, accounting operations and back office support. CIES with oversight by the Education Director and the Finance Committee has the day-to-day operations responsibility for managing school funds, ensuring the accuracy of the accounting records, internal controls, financial objectives and policies, financial statement preparation, and bank reconciliation review and approval.

Hope Academy will utilize a third party service provider to administer payroll and ensure we are making accurate and timely remittances of payroll taxes and pension contributions.

We will utilize an accounting software package to facilitate fiscal operations. The Executive director will have responsibility for authorizing the procurement of goods and/or services, signing checks, and ensuring the accuracy of financial reports. The administrative assistant will process purchases (credit card, check, reimbursement) and invoices record checks in the general ledger and in cash disbursement journals. These items will be reviewed by CiES, who will also perform month-end reconciliation procedures. CIES will issue Income statements, balance sheets and cash flow statements which are reviewed monthly against the school budget with any concerns identified and addressed immediately. CIES will provide financial reports and voucher listings to the finance committee and the Board of Directors monthly.

F. The Budget

The proposed five year budget reflects a focus on the execution of specific strategies to increase enrollment as outlined in the Student Recruitment and Enrollment section of the application as well as on current and future philanthropic support. Funding commitments totaling more than $300K have been received as detailed below and in the budget narrative, with receipt of the funds expected on or before July 1, 2020' This will allow Hope Academy to commence operations for the 2020-21 school year with at least 60 days of cash on hand, which will compensate for the unfavorable timing of the Alternative Education funding. Alternative Education is earned (based on) the total number of students served for the school year (July-June) but is paid in the following August, therefore, creating a timing issue with cash flow.

Based on actual recent experience, it was determined that a Year 1 September enrollment count of 34 students is reasonably achievable. Incremental increases of students were added across the 5 years based on potential partnerships with IPS and other local school systems as an alternative to suspension/expulsion of students for drug and alcohol use. For example, in 2018, IPS alone had 74 students suspended for drugs and/or alcohol. Based on our 14 year history and expertise serving students impacted by substance use, we know that about 10% of those suspended students would be appropriate candidates for the type of school environment provided by Hope Academy. Our projections for the following years assume continued growth of students seeking a sober learning environment not only from IPS but surrounding school corporations.

Hope Academy comes with a strong history of successful philanthropic and grant funding support. These efforts are ongoing and will continue during the new charter. In addition to continued and increased philanthropic activities, Hope Academy is seeking partnerships with various sponsors to provide funding and/or supports that would offset some overhead included in the budget. Those include, but are not limited to, transportation, space (rent and maintenance), technology and administrative support. In addition, Hope Academy has received the following financial commitments:

- A local healthcare entity's pledge of $250K contingent on receiving the charter to be received in July 2020.
- Tom Wood Family Foundation pledge of $50K each year for school years 2020-2021 and 2021-2022 contingent on receipt of $250K noted above.
- Grant from the State of Indiana for $137K to be received during school year 2020-2021.

- Net working capital transfer of $100K from The Recovery High School at Fairbanks to The Hope Academy Inc. in September 2020

In the event that Hope Academy were to experience a budget shortfall, all expense areas would be evaluated to determine areas for costs reductions. This would include an evaluation of teacher positions, administrative support roles, transportation costs and other overhead areas. Some teacher positions, such as special education, cannot be eliminated as well as some recovery supports. In addition to reducing expenses, Hope Academy will continuously work to engage new funding partners to ensure financial sustainability. Our philanthropic and grant activities have outperformed our budget expectations for the past 3 years and are on pace to exceed budget expectations for the 2019-2020 school year.

G. Facility

The vision of Hope Academy has always been to be a school for all high school age students struggling with substance use disorder. Fairbanks has been an extremely generous partner for 14 years, providing Hope with its current space for free, but over the years this location has proven to be a barrier to the vision of serving the whole community. As the partnership with Fairbanks will conclude in June of 2020, IFF has been enlisted to consult and help negotiate space that will align with the vision and fulfill the needs of the school. As Hope Academy moves forward in the IPS Innovation School application process, the search for space is focused on locations within the IPS district boundaries. We currently have three spaces that we have toured and are vetting with the assistance of IFF regarding space, ease of access, access to public transportation, possible university partnerships, and lease agreements. We consider the following spaces to be appropriate: 5435 W. Pike Plaza, 2955 North Meridian Street, and 3919 Madison Avenue. IFF is preparing a Multiple Pathways document that will include cost estimates and development scenarios for the three possible locations. The Hope Academy Board of Directors will study the options and upon the approval of the charter, will take the proper steps to secure a location.

H. Transportation

Miller Transportation Services will serve as our transportation vendor. We operate two bus routes that currently accommodate 50% of our student population. Students will be picked up at various centralized locations in and around the city as well as Hamilton County. By moving to a more centrally located building, students will have more access to public transportation and specifically the IndyGo Red Line Bus Route. Miller Transportation will also provide transportation for student learning excursions.

I. Risk Management

Safety and security is a top priority for Hope Academy board and faculty. The Hope Academy Board, with guidance from the Mayor's Office, local fire officials, and an insurance representative, will develop and implement protocols and procedures that optimize safety and reduce risk. Detailed records will be maintained by Hope Academy staff, and be available to all stakeholders. Hope will continue to have all necessary insurance required for a school and liability coverage for all staff for the safety of the students. The coverage will include all staff, volunteers, and Board members. A letter of support and the coverage has been provided from our current insurance company. Hope Academy understands that the City of Indianapolis, the Mayor's Charter School Board, related entities and their respective officers, employees and agents are indemnified from harm regarding risk management occurrences associated with Hope Academy.

Policy and procedures have been developed to ensure the safety of the students and staff members of Hope Academy. Our Safety policies can be found in the Appendix 18.

Biography

Dr. Ukamaka Oruche is an Associate Professor at the Indiana University School of Nursing. A nationally recognized expert in psychiatric nursing, Dr. Oruche has made sustained and exemplary contributions to our understanding of the challenges experienced by families of adolescents with Disruptive Behavior Disorders. Her cutting-edge research ensures that the mental health needs of family caregivers are given full clinical consideration. Her work has been particularly significant as it reveals for the first time the stress that this population experiences from interactions with multiple child service systems. Dr. Oruche has developed a family-based group intervention to assist caregivers in their interactions with these systems. Dr. Oruche facilitated an interdisciplinary team in the development of the state of Indiana's largest integrated primary and behavioral health program. This program has both increased access to mental health services for underserved populations and has become a model for integrating primary and behavioral health care in Indiana. Dr. Oruche's work with underserved populations has had an international impact. She is the founder of Providence Community Health Initiative, which has conducted weekly clinics for diabetes, hypertension, and malaria in southern Nigeria since 2004. Her contributions to clinical practice and research have resulted in expanded scope and reach through leadership on boards that influence mental health policy in Indiana, US, and globally. Her service portfolio includes appointments to: Indiana Mental and Behavioral Health Taskforce of the Governor Pence Healthcare Workforce Council; Department of Health and Human Services, Center for Medicare and Medicaid - CMS - Medicare Evidence Development and Coverage Advisory Committee (MEDCAC); and Indiana Protection and Advocacy Services Commission - by Governor Eric Halcomb.

Dr. Oruche's contributions to the health care of diverse and vulnerable populations have been recognized with several awards and honors: Tony and Mary Hulman Health Achievement Award for Excellence in Public Health Research from the Indiana Public Health Association; Diversity-Equity Award for Outstanding Leadership in Promoting Culturally Sensitive Mental Health Services from the International Society of Psychiatric Mental Health Nurses; and featured speaker at the 2014 TEDxIndianapolis. Dr. Oruche is a fellow of the American Academy of Nursing; and Co-Chair of the academy's Psychiatric, Mental Health and Substance Abuse Expert Panel.

CONTINUING EDUCATION/CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT

Over my entire time at Indiana University, I have developed a range of continuing education activities designed to increase the workforce of a wide range of professionals trained to provide infant mental health interventions across systems. This includes face to face training and distance modalities. Target audiences have include home visitors (e.g., Healthy Families), early intervention professionals in First Steps, Indiana's Part C program (e.g., speech, occupational and physical therapists), and child care professionals.

In 2014, I was a member of the curriculum team that developed and implemented the Early Evaluation Hubs materials. This is a 6 day series to develop the capacity of practicing physicians and other primary care professionals in diagnosing and managing autism spectrum disorder in young children. This curriculum was delivered in 2014 and 2015 to 8 practices around the state, resulting in access to this service for over 90% of the Medicaid eligible population.

ENRICH: 6 module behavior management curriculum that was delivered to child care and early care providers (1992; 1996)

The Indiana Association for Infant and Toddler Mental Health (now Infancy Onward), of which I am a Founding Board Member and chaired for 16 years,, has received a number of grants over the last 15 years from state agencies including ISDH, DCS, Head Start that have been used to support various programs I have created or co-created. Some examples are listed below:

Indiana's Infant Mental Health Mentorship Connection: 12 session program geared for early intervention providers delivered in face to face group format. (2001; 2009) (ISDH)

Early Childhood Mental Health Intensive: 48 hour training program for mental health professionals to gain skills with young children (2010 to 2013) (DMHA, 50,000 per year)

Young Children and the Courts Series. The Indiana Head Start Collaboration funded the IAITMH to provide conferences and fact sheets on court issues related to young children (25,000, 2013)

Infant Mental Health Assessment and Treatment Series. Indiana Criminal Justice Institute (20,000; 2005-2007)

The Indiana Association for Infant and Toddler Mental Health is an affiliate of the World Association for Infant Mental Health. As the chair of Indiana's association, I am our representative to this international group.

PATIENT CARE/CLINICAL SERVICE:

As Director (11/1/2012 to present) and Service Line Leader(IUHP) (11/1/2014 to present) of the Section of Child Development I am administratively responsible for the clinical services of the section performed in Riley Hospital, the Riley Outpatient Center and at Meridian Crossing locations. This includes responsibility for supervising the clinical activities of the faculty. I lead our team developing clinic services, evaluating the effectiveness of the services, monitor patient satisfaction, and ensure that services are delivered in family-centered methods. Upon assuming the role of Director in 2012, I have worked with our administrator and faculty to increase patient access to our service. We have increased our clinical locations and the number of patients seen by the Section by close to three fold since I have been the Director. We have added faculty and increased the types of services that are offered, providing access to a larger variety of patients. Since I joined the Section of Child Development in 1989, I have provided supervision to advanced level trainees who perform clinical services in evaluation clinics and intervention (therapy) roles. In addition I have also provided direct clinical services for young children with neurodevelopmental disorders from 1989 to the present. This has included home visiting as a credentialed Indiana First Steps provider.

The Indiana Department of Corrections houses a nursery at the Indiana Women's Prison. I provided attachment-based parenting groups to mothers in the program between 2007 and 2015. Funding sources varied, with the most recent listed above. As part of this program I also provided in-services for custody staff and support to the nannies (offenders who provided child care to babies when mothers were in school, work or appointments).

Part X Public Charity Status

Part X is designed to classify you as an organization that is either a private foundation or a public charity. Public charity status is a more favorable tax status than private foundation status. If you are a private foundation, Part X is designed to further determine whether you are a private operating foundation. See instructions.

1a Are you a private foundation? If "Yes," go to line 1b. If "No," go to line 5 and proceed as instructed. If you are unsure, see the instructions. ☐ Yes ☑ No

b As a private foundation, section 508(e) requires special provisions in your organizing document in addition to those that apply to all organizations described in section 501(c)(3). Check the box to confirm that your organizing document meets this requirement, whether by express provision or by reliance on operation of state law. Attach a statement that describes specifically where your organizing document meets this requirement, such as a reference to a particular article or section in your organizing document or by operation of state law. See the instructions, including Appendix B, for information about the special provisions that need to be contained in your organizing document. Go to line 2. ☐

2 Are you a private operating foundation? To be a private operating foundation you must engage directly in the active conduct of charitable, religious, educational, and similar activities, as opposed to indirectly carrying out these activities by providing grants to individuals or other organizations. If "Yes," go to line 3. If "No," go to the signature section of Part XI. ☐ Yes ☐ No

3 Have you existed for one or more years? If "Yes," attach financial information showing that you are a private operating foundation; go to the signature section of Part XI. If "No," continue to line 4. ☐ Yes ☐ No

4 Have you attached either (1) an affidavit or opinion of counsel, (including a written affidavit or opinion from a certified public accountant or accounting firm with expertise regarding this tax law matter), that sets forth facts concerning your operations and support to demonstrate that you are likely to satisfy the requirements to be classified as a private operating foundation; or (2) a statement describing your proposed operations as a private operating foundation? ☐ Yes ☐ No

5 If you answered "No" to line 1a, indicate the type of public charity status you are requesting by checking one of the choices below. You may check only one box.

The organization is not a private foundation because it is:

a 509(a)(1) and 170(b)(1)(A)(i)—a church or a convention or association of churches. Complete and attach Schedule A. ☐ i 509(a)(2) – an organization that normally receives not more than one-third of its financial support from gross investment income and receives more than one-third of its financial support from contributions, membership fees, and gross receipts from activities related to its exempt functions (subject to certain exceptions). ☐

j A publicly supported organization, but unsure if it is described in 5h or 5i. You would like the IRS to decide the correct status. ☐

6 If you checked box h, i, or j in question 5 above, and you have been in existence more than 5 years, you must confirm your public support status. Answer line 6a if you checked box h in line 5 above. Answer line 6b if you checked box i in line 5 above. If you checked box j in line 5 above, answer both lines 6a and 6b.

DISTRIBUTION OF ASSETS ON DISSOLUTION OF FINAL LIQUIDATION

Upon the dissolution or winding up of the Corporation, its assets remaining after payment, or provision for payment, of all debts and liabilities of the Corporation shall be distributed by the Board of Directors to a nonprofit fund, foundation or corporation, which is organized and operated exclusively for charitable and/or educational purposes, has established its tax exempt status under Code Section 501(c)(3) and has purposes substantially similar to the Corporation's primary purposes, as the Board of Directors shall determine. Any such assets not so distributed shall be disposed of by the Judge of Circuit Court of Marion County, Indiana, exclusively for such purposes which are substantially similar to the Corporation's primary purposes set forth in Article VII, and to an organization or organizations which are, at the time of such distribution, organized and operated exclusively for public, charitable, religious, scientific, testing for public safety, literary or educational purposes, which purposes then qualify such organization or organizations for exemption from Federal income tax under the provisions of Section 501(c)(3) of the Code. ARTICLE X
PROVISION FOR REGULATION AND CONDUCT OF THE AFFAIRS OF CORPORATION

In addition to the By-Laws and consistent with the Act, the following provisions for the regulation and conduct of the affairs of the Corporation, and for the creation, definition, limitation or regulation of the powers of the Corporation and its Board of Directors, shall apply:

Section 10.1 Committees. ARTICLE I

Name

The name of the corporation is The Hope Academy, Inc. ("Corporation").

ARTICLE II

Fiscal Year

The fiscal year of the Corporation shall begin each year on the first day of July and end on the last day of June of each year.

ARTICLE III
Members

The Corporation shall not have members.

ARTICLE IV

Board of Directors

Section 1 Number, Election and Term of Office.

(a) Number. Unless and until this Section is amended, the number of directors shall be established by the Board of Directors and shall be no less than three (3) and no more than fourteen (14).

(b) Qualifications. The Board of Directors may, from time to time, by resolution establish qualifications for directors of the Corporation.

(c) Appointment and Elections. The initial members of the Board of Directors shall be those individuals appointed by the incorporator of the Corporation. Thereafter, directors shall be elected by a majority vote of the Board of Directors as then is constituted at the annual meeting of the Board of Directors, or, if not so elected, at a special meeting of the Board of Directors or by the written consent action of the Board of Directors.

(d) Term of Office. Except as otherwise provided herein, the term of office of each director shall be for a period of two (2) years and until his or her successor is elected and qualified. The directors shall be divided among two (2) classes, and the terms of the directors shall be staggered so that the number of directors to be elected each year shall be as nearly one-half (1/2) of the total number of directors as possible; therefore, directors may be elected for terms of less than two (2) years if necessary to accomplish this purpose. All directors shall serve until their respective successors are duly elected and qualified or until their earlier resignation, removal, incapacity or death.

No director may serve as a director for a consecutive period of more than four (4) two (2) year terms plus any partial term for which a director is appointed to fill a vacancy or a newly created position on the Board of Directors; provided. Once the director's tenure in office has been completed pursuant to the provisions of the previous sentence, such person may be again elected to the Board of Directors after a period of at least one (1) year during which time such person did not serve as a member of the Board of Directors. Nothing contained in this Section 1 shall prevent any person from being appointed as a non-director member of a committee or from serving as an officer of the Corporation unless these By-Laws require such person to be a director in order to so serve.

(e) Participation. Any member of the Board of Directors who is absent from three (3) consecutive regular meetings (including, for this purpose, the annual meeting) of the Board of Directors shall, effective as of the adjournment of such third (3rd) consecutive meeting, be deemed to no longer meet the qualifications to serve as a director of the Corporation; provided, however, that such person may be again elected to the Board of Directors and, in such event, the prior absences of such person shall not count against the qualifications of such person from and after the date of such new election.

No decrease in the number of directors shall have the effect of shortening the term of any incumbent director.

Section 2 Vacancies. Any vacancy occurring on the Board of Directors caused by an increase in the number of directors by resolution of the Board of Directors, or by resignation, removal, incapacity, death or otherwise, shall be filled by either the vote or written consent action of the Board of Directors, with the director so elected to serve for the remainder of the term of the director being replaced or, in the case of an additional director, for the remainder of the term of the class of directors, to which the director had been assigned. When the number of directors is changed, any newly created directorships or any decrease in directorships shall be so assigned between the Class I and Class II directors by the Board of Directors so as to make the classes as nearly equal in number as practicable.

Section 3 Removal of Directors. Any member of the Board of Directors may be removed at a meeting of the Board of Directors called expressly for that purpose, with or without cause by a vote of two-thirds (2/3) of the entire Board of Directors (which applicable majority shall be determined exclusive of the member whose removal is being considered).

Section 4 Resignations. A director may resign at any time by giving written notice to the President, Board of Directors or Chairperson. Any such resignation shall take effect upon receipt of such notice or at any later time specified therein; and, unless otherwise specified therein, no acceptance of such resignation shall be necessary to make it effective. Any director who is also an employee of the Corporation or any of its affiliates shall be deemed to have resigned as a director of the Corporation upon termination of the employee's employment with the Corporation or such affiliate unless such resignation is rejected by the Board of Directors by a majority vote of the actual number of members of the Board of Directors, exclusive of such resigning director.

Section 5 Regularly Scheduled Meetings.

(a) Annual Meeting. The annual meeting of the Board of Directors for the election of directors and officers and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting shall be held on such date as shall be determined by the Board of Directors. Failure to hold the annual meeting during such time shall not work any forfeiture or dissolution of the Corporation and shall not affect otherwise valid corporate acts.

(b) Regular Meetings. Subject to changes approved by the Board of Directors, a regular meeting of the Board of Directors shall be held at least in each quarter of the year. The annual meeting of directors shall be held in place of one of such regular meetings.

(c) Schedule. A schedule showing the annual meeting and the regular meetings of the Board of Directors for the fiscal year shall be distributed to each director. A change in the date or time for any of the meetings on such schedule shall be communicated to each director at least six (6) days prior to the changed meeting.

(d) Location. Unless otherwise determined by the Board of Directors, all meetings of the Board of Directors shall be held at the office of the Corporation or at such other location within Marion County, Indiana, or the counties adjacent to Marion County.

Section 6 Special Meetings. Special meetings of the Board of Directors may be called by the President, the Chairperson or one-fifth (1/5) of the directors then in office. The location of any special meeting shall be determined by the person(s) calling such meeting, but such location must be at the office of the Corporation, or at some other location within Marion County, Indiana, or the counties adjacent to Marion County.

Section 7 Notice. Unless notice is not required by these By-Laws or the Indiana Nonprofit Corporation Act ("Act") requires a longer notice period, notice of the time and place of the annual meeting, regular meetings and any special meeting of the Board of Directors shall be served upon each director at the director's usual place of business or residence, or if given electronically, at the most recent "e-mail" address or "fax" number on the Corporation's records for such director, at least forty-eight (48) hours prior to the meeting, but no more than thirty (30) days prior to the meeting. Notice may be given by telephone, mail, wire or wireless transmission (including "e-mail" and "fax" transmissions) or personal delivery. Directors, in lieu of such notice, may sign a written waiver of notice either before, during or after the meeting. The waiver must be filed with the minutes or the records of the Corporation. Attendance by a director in person at any such meeting of the Board of Directors shall constitute a waiver of notice unless the director at the beginning of the meeting or promptly upon the director's arrival objects to holding the meeting or transacting business at the meeting and does not vote for or assent to action taken at the meeting.

Section 8 Quorum. A majority of the actual number of directors elected and qualified, from time to time, shall be necessary to constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business. The act of a majority of the directors present at the meeting, at which a quorum is present, shall be the act of the Board of Directors, unless the act of a greater number is required by the Act, the Articles of Incorporation, or these By-Laws. A director of the Corporation who is present at a meeting of the Board of Directors at which action on any corporate matter is taken shall be presumed to have assented to the action taken unless such director's dissent shall be entered in the minutes of the meeting or unless such director shall file a written dissent to such action with the Secretary of the meeting before adjournment thereof or shall forward such dissent by registered mail to the Secretary of the Corporation immediately after the adjournment of the meeting. Such right to dissent shall not apply to a director who voted in favor of such action and did not change his or her vote prior to the time that the result of such vote was announced by the Chairperson of such meeting.

Section 9 Consent Action by Directors. Any action required or permitted to be taken at any meeting of the Board of Directors or of any committee thereof may be taken without a meeting, if a written consent to such action is signed by all members of the Board or of such committee, as the case may be, and such written consent is filed with the minutes of proceedings of the Board of Directors or such committee. Action taken under this Section 9 is effective when the last director or committee signs the consent, unless the consent specifies a different prior or subsequent effective date.

Section 10 Meeting Participation by Conference Telephone. Any or all of the Board of Directors or of a committee designated by the Board of Directors may participate in a meeting of the Board of Directors or committee by means of a conference telephone, video conference or similar communications equipment by which all persons participating in the meeting can communicate with each other, and participation in this manner constitute presence in person at the meeting.

Section 11 Meeting Requiring Supermajority Vote. The directors shall not take any of the following corporate actions at a meeting of the Board of Directors except upon the affirmative vote of two-thirds (2/3) of the votes cast by the directors entitled to vote at a meeting at which a quorum is present:

(a) Authorize any corporate actions exceeding one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000).

(b) Authorize the winding up, ceasing, or closure of business, dissolution of the Corporation, sale, merger, or transfer of substantially all of the assets of the Corporation.

(c) Authorize any nonmonetary compensation to the Board of Directors as provided for in Article IV, Section 12 of these By-Laws.

Section 12 Compensation. The directors shall not receive salaries, fees or compensation for their services as directors or their attendance at any meeting or committee meeting of directors. Directors may receive such other nonmonetary compensation as the Board of Directors may approve by supermajority vote as provided for in Article IV, Section 11 of these By-Laws.

ARTICLE V

Committees

The Board of Directors may create one (1) or more committees to assist it in carrying out any of the purposes of the Corporation, define the responsibilities of such committee or committees, delegate to such committee or committees powers as the Board of Directors determines to be appropriate and appoint at least two (2) directors to serve on each committee created in accordance with this Article V.

ARTICLE VI

Officers

Section 1 Principal Officers. The principal officers of the Corporation shall be a Chairperson, a President, a Treasurer and a Secretary. The Corporation may also have such subordinate officers as may be appointed in accordance with the provisions of these By-Laws. Any of the offices may be held by the same person.

Section 2 Election and Term of Office. The principal officers of the Corporation, other than the President, shall be chosen annually at the annual meeting of the Board of Directors by a vote of a majority of the directors then in office. Each officer, other than the President, shall hold office for a period ending at the next annual meeting of the Board of Directors and until such officer's successor shall have been duly chosen and qualified, or until such officer's death, or until such officer shall resign, or until such officer shall have been removed in the manner hereinafter provided.

Section 3 Removal. Any principal officer may be removed, either with or without cause, at any time, by resolution adopted at a meeting of the Board of Directors by a majority of the directors then entitled to vote.

Section 4 Subordinate Officers. In addition to the principal officers enumerated in Article VI, Section 1, the Corporation may have one or more Vice Presidents, Assistant Treasurers, Assistant Secretaries and such other officers, agents and employees as the Board of Directors may deem necessary and as it shall select, each of whom (a) shall hold office for such period as the Board of Directors shall determine, (b) may be removed with or without cause, and (c) shall have such authority and perform such duties as the Chairperson or Board of Directors may from time to time determine. The Board of Directors may delegate to any principal officer the power to appoint and to remove any such subordinate officers, agents or employees.

Section 5 Resignations. Any officer may resign at any time by giving written notice to the Board of Directors, the Chairperson or the Secretary. Any such resignation shall take effect upon receipt of such notice or at any later time specified therein; and, unless otherwise specified therein, no acceptance of such resignation shall be necessary to make it effective.

Section 6 Vacancies. Any vacancy in any office may be filled by the Board at any regular or special meeting of the Board.

Section 7 Chairperson. The Chairperson shall be chosen from among the directors and shall preside at all meetings of the Board of Directors. The Chairperson shall have no other executive or administrative responsibilities unless otherwise assigned by the Board of Directors. In general, the Chairperson shall perform all duties and have all powers incident to the office of Chairperson, as herein defined, and all such other duties and powers as, from time to time, may be assigned to the Chairperson by the Board of Directors.

Section 8 President. The President shall be the chief executive officer of the Corporation and as such shall have general supervision of the affairs of the Corporation, subject to the control of the Board of Directors. The President shall have the right to attend all meetings of the Board of Directors and to copies of all notices, agendas, minutes, written consents and other records of the proceedings of the Board of Directors, provided that nothing herein shall constitute the President as a member of the Board of Directors or to have the right to vote or consent to any action of the Board of Directors, unless the person holding such office is also elected as a member of the Board of Directors. The President shall be an ex-officio member of all committees that may be created by the Board of Directors. Subject to the control and direction of the Board of Directors, the President may enter into any agreement and may execute and deliver any agreement, instrument or document in the name and on behalf of the Corporation. The President shall preside as the chairperson at all meetings of the Board of Directors at which he or she shall be present. In general, the President shall perform all duties and have all powers incident to the office of President, as herein defined, and shall have all such other duties and powers as, from time to time, may be assigned to the President by the Board of Directors.

Section 9 Treasurer. The Treasurer shall have charge and custody of, and be responsible for, all funds and securities of the Corporation and shall deposit all such funds in the name of the Corporation in such banks or other depositories as shall be selected by the Board of Directors. The Treasurer shall upon request exhibit at all reasonable times the books of account and records to any of the directors of the Corporation during business hours at the office of the Corporation where such books and records shall be kept; shall render upon request by the Board of Directors a statement of the condition of the Corporation at any meeting of the Board of Directors; shall receive, and give receipt for, monies due and payable to the Corporation from any source whatsoever; and, in general, shall perform all duties as from time to time may be assigned by the Chairperson or the Board of Directors. The Treasurer shall give such bond, if any, for the faithful discharge of his or her duties as the Board of Directors may require.

Section 10 Secretary. The Secretary shall keep or cause to be kept in the books provided for that purpose the minutes of the meetings of the Board of Directors; shall duly give and serve all notices required to be given in accordance with the provisions of these By-Laws and by the Act; shall be custodian of the records of the Corporation and attest to all documents, the execution of which on behalf of the Corporation under the Secretary's attestation is duly authorized in accordance with the provisions of these By-Laws; and, in general, shall perform all duties incident to the office of Secretary and such other duties as may, from time to time, be assigned by the Chairperson or the Board of Directors.

Section 11 Corporation's Voting Memberships and Securities. Unless otherwise ordered by the Board of Directors, and subject to the direction of the Board of Directors, the President and the Secretary, and each of them, are appointed attorneys and agents of the Corporation, and shall have full power and authority in the name and on behalf of the Corporation, to attend and to act at, and to vote all memberships and all stock or other securities entitled to be voted at, any meetings of members or security holders of such foundations (whether for-profit or non-profit) or associations in which the Corporation may hold memberships or securities, in person or by proxy, as a member, stockholder or otherwise, and at such meetings shall possess and may exercise any and all rights and powers incident to the holding of such memberships or the ownership of such securities, and which as the holder or owner thereof, the Corporation might have possessed and exercised, if present, or to consent in writing to any action by any such other foundation or association. The Board of Directors by resolution from time to time may confer like powers upon any other person or persons.

Section 12 Duties of Officers May Be Delegated. If any officer of the Corporation is absent or unable to act, or for any other reason that the Board of Directors may deem sufficient, the Board of Directors may delegate for a period of time some or all of the functions, duties, powers and responsibilities of any officer to any other officer, or to any other agent or employee of the Corporation or any other responsible person, provided a majority of the entire Board of Directors concurs therein. Any person serving in an interim or acting position for any office shall be deemed an "officer" for purposes of these By-Laws.

Section 13 Bond. Any officer or employee, if required by the directors, shall give bond in such sum and with such security as the directors may require for the faithful performance of his or her duties.

Section 14 Signing Checks and Other Instruments. The directors are authorized to determine or provide the method of determining how checks, notes, bills of exchange and similar instruments shall be signed, countersigned, or endorsed.

ARTICLE VII

Conflict of Interest Policy

Section 1 Purpose. The purpose of the conflict of interest policy is to protect the Corporation's interest when it is contemplating entering into a transaction or arrangement that might benefit the private interest of an officer or director of the Corporation or might result in a possible Excess Benefit Transaction (as that term is defined below). This policy is intended to supplement, but not replace, any applicable state and Federal laws governing conflict of interest applicable to non-profit and charitable organizations.

Section 2 Definitions. For purpose of this Article VII, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(a) "Compensation" shall mean direct or indirect remuneration as well as gifts or favors that are not insubstantial.

(b) "Excess Benefit Transaction" shall mean any transaction or arrangement in which an economic benefit is provided by the Corporation, directly or indirectly, to or for the use of any Interested Person (including members of his or her family and any entity which is thirty-five percent (35%) owned or controlled by such Interested Person) if the value of the economic benefit provided exceeds the value of the consideration (including the performance of services) received for providing such benefit.

(c) "Financial Interest" shall mean any person who has, directly or indirectly, through business, investment, or family relationship, any of the following:

(i) An ownership or investment interest in any entity with which the Corporation has a transaction or arrangement; or

(ii) A Compensation arrangement with the Corporation or with any entity or individual with which the Corporation has a transaction or arrangement; or

(iii) A potential ownership or investment interest in, or Compensation arrangement with, any entity or individual with which the Corporation is negotiating a transaction or arrangement.

A Financial Interest is not necessarily a conflict of interest. Under Article VII, Section 4, a person who has a Financial Interest may have a conflict of interest only if the appropriate Board of Directors or committee decides that a conflict of interest exists.

(d) "Interested Person" shall mean any director, officer, or member of a committee (with powers delegated from the Board of Directors) who has a direct or indirect Financial Interest. If a person is an Interested Person with respect to any entity in the corporate organization of which the Corporation is a part, he or she is an Interested Person with respect to all entities in that system.

Section 3 Duty to Disclose. In connection with any actual or possible conflict of interest, an Interested Person must disclose the existence and nature of his or her Financial Interest to the directors and members of committees with powers delegated from the Board of Directors considering the proposed transaction or arrangement.

Section 4 Determining Whether a Conflict of Interest Exists. After disclosure of the Financial Interest and all material facts related thereto, and after any discussion with the Interested Person, the Interested Person shall leave the Board of Directors or committee meeting while the determination of a conflict of interest is discussed and voted upon. The remaining Board of Directors or committee members shall decide if a conflict of interest exists, in which event the remaining applicable provisions of this Article VII shall apply.

Section 5 Procedures for Addressing the Conflict of Interest.

(a) An Interested Person may make a presentation at the Board of Directors or committee meeting, but after the presentation, the Interested Person shall leave the meeting during the discussion of, and the vote on, the transaction or arrangement involving the possible conflict of interest.

(b) The Chairperson of the Board of Directors or committee shall, if appropriate, appoint a disinterested person or committee to investigate alternatives to the proposed transaction or arrangement.

(c) After exercising due diligence, the Board of Directors or committee shall determine whether the Corporation can obtain with reasonable efforts a more advantageous transaction or arrangement from a person or entity that would not give rise to a conflict of interest.

(d) If a more advantageous transaction or arrangement is not reasonably possible under circumstances not producing a conflict of interest, the Board of Directors or committee shall determine by a majority vote of the disinterested directors whether the transaction or arrangement is in the Corporation's best interest, for its own benefit, and whether the transaction or arrangement is fair and reasonable to the Corporation. In conformity with the above determination the Board of Directors or committee shall make its decision as to whether to enter into the transaction or arrangement.

Section 6 Violations of the Conflict of Interest Policy.

(a) If the Board of Directors or committee has reasonable cause to believe that a member has failed to disclose actual or possible conflicts of interest, it shall inform the member of the basis for such belief and afford the member an opportunity to explain the alleged failure to disclose.

(b) If, after hearing the member's response and after making such further investigation as may be warranted by the circumstances, the Board of Directors or committee determines that the member has failed to disclose an actual or possible conflict of interest, it shall take appropriate disciplinary and corrective action. Notwithstanding such violation and any disciplinary or corrective action, the Board of Directors may ratify the transaction or arrangement as being in the Corporation's best interest and fair and reasonable to the Corporation.

Section 7 Records of Proceedings. The minutes of the Board of Directors or committees with powers delegated from the Board of Directors shall contain:

(a) The names of the persons who disclosed or otherwise were found to have a Financial Interest in connection with an actual or possible conflict of interest, the nature of the Financial Interest, any action taken to determine whether a conflict of interest was present, and the Board of Director's or committee's decision as to whether a conflict of interest in fact existed; and

(b) The names of the persons who were present for discussions and votes relating to the transaction or arrangement, the content of the discussion, including any alternatives to the proposed transaction or arrangement, and a record of any votes taken in connection with the proceedings.

Section 8 Compensation.

(a) A voting member of the Board of Directors who receives Compensation, directly or indirectly, from the Corporation for services is precluded from voting on matters pertaining to that member's Compensation.

(b) A voting member of any committee whose jurisdiction includes Compensation matters and who receives Compensation, directly or indirectly, from the Corporation for services is precluded from voting on matters pertaining to that member's Compensation.

(c) No voting member of the Board of Directors or any committee whose jurisdiction includes Compensation matters and who receives Compensation, directly or indirectly, from the Corporation, either individually or collectively, is prohibited from providing any information to any committee regarding Compensation.

Section 9 Annual Statements. Each director, officer and member of a committee with powers delegated from the Board of Directors shall annually sign a statement which affirms that such person:

(a) Has received a copy of the conflicts of interest policy;

(b) Has read and understands the policy;

(c) Has agreed to comply with the policy; and

(d) Understands that the Corporation is a charitable organization and that in order to maintain its Federal tax exemption it must engage primarily in activities that accomplish one (1) or more of its tax-exempt purposes.

Section 10 Periodic Reviews. To ensure that the Corporation operates in a manner consistent with its charitable purposes and that it does not engage in activities that could jeopardize its tax-exempt status, periodic reviews shall be conducted. The periodic reviews shall, at a minimum, include the following subjects:

(a) Whether Compensation arrangements and benefits are reasonable, based on competent survey information, and the result of arm's length bargaining; and

(b) Whether partnerships, joint ventures, and arrangements with management organizations conform to written policies, are properly recorded, reflect reasonable investment or payments for goods and services, further the Corporation's charitable purposes and do not result in inurement, impermissible private benefit or in an Excess Benefit Transaction.

Section 11 Use of Outside Experts. When conducting the periodic reviews provided for in this Article VII, the Corporation may, but need not, use outside advisors. If outside experts are used, their use shall not relieve the Board of Directors of its responsibility for ensuring periodic reviews are conducted.

ARTICLE VIII

Indemnification of Directors and Officers

Section 1. Definitions. For purposes of this Article, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(a) "Liabilities" and "Expenses" shall mean monetary obligations incurred by or on behalf of a Covered Person in connection with the investigation, defense or appeal of a Proceeding or in satisfying a claim thereunder and shall include, but shall not be limited to, attorneys' fees, paralegal fees, court costs, filing fees, fees and costs incurred in arbitration, mediation or other forms of alternative dispute resolution, costs of investigations, experts (including, without limitation, accounting, criminal and forensic experts) and disbursements, amounts of judgments, fines or penalties, excise taxes assessed with respect to an employee benefit plan, and amounts paid in settlement by or on behalf of a Covered Person.

(b) "Covered Person" shall mean any director of the Corporation, any principal officer of the Corporation and any officer of the Corporation (other than a principal officer) to the extent the Board of Directors has authorized to grant rights to indemnification and advancement of Expenses under this Article to such officer (other than a principal officer).

(c) "Other Enterprise" shall mean any corporation, partnership, limited liability company, limited liability partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or other enterprise, whether for profit or not, for which a Covered Person is or was serving, at the request of the Corporation, as a director, officer, member, manager, partner, trustee, employee or agent. The phrase "at the request of the Corporation" shall include a request made by resolution of the Board of Directors or by action of any corporate officer to any director or other officer of the Corporation.

(d) "Proceeding" shall mean any claim, action, suit or proceeding (whether brought against, by or in the right of the Corporation or Other Enterprise or otherwise), civil, criminal, administrative or investigative, whether formal or informal, including arbitration, mediation or other forms of alternative dispute resolution and whether actual or threatened or in connection with an appeal relating thereto, in which a Covered Person may become involved, as a party or otherwise, (i) by reason of being or having been a Covered Person of the Corporation (and, if applicable, an employee or agent of the Corporation) or a director, officer, member, manager, partner, trustee, employee, or agent of an Other Enterprise or arising out of his or her status as such, or (ii) by reason of any past or future action taken or not taken by a Covered Person in any such capacity, whether or not he or she continues to be such at the time he or she incurs Liabilities and Expenses under the Proceeding.

(e) "Standard of Conduct" shall mean that a Covered Person, based on facts then known to the Covered Person, discharged the duties as a Covered Person, including duties as a member of a committee, in good faith in what he or she reasonably believed to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Corporation or Other Enterprise, as the case may be, and, in addition, in any criminal Proceeding had reasonable cause to believe his or her conduct was lawful or had no reasonable cause to believe that his or her conduct was unlawful. The termination of any Proceeding, by judgment, order, settlement (whether with or without court approval) or conviction or upon a plea of guilty, shall not create a presumption that the Covered Person did not meet the Standard of Conduct. The termination of any Proceeding by a consent decree or upon a plea of nolo contendere, or its equivalent, shall create the presumption that the Covered Person met the Standard of Conduct.

Section 2. Indemnification. If a Covered Person is made a party to or threatened to be made a party to, or is involved as a witness or otherwise in any Proceeding, the Corporation shall indemnify the Covered Person against Liabilities and Expenses incurred by him or her in connection with such Proceeding in the following circumstances:

(a) If a Covered Person has been wholly successful on the merits or otherwise with respect to any such Proceeding, he or she shall be entitled to indemnification for Liabilities and Expenses as a matter of right. If a Proceeding is terminated against the Covered Person by consent decree or upon a plea of nolo contendere, or its equivalent, the Covered Person shall not be deemed to have been "wholly successful" with respect to such Proceeding; or

(b) In all other situations, a Covered Person shall be entitled to indemnification for Liabilities and Expenses as a matter of right unless (i) the Covered Person has breached or failed to perform his or her duties with respect to the Corporation or Other Enterprise as a Covered Person in compliance with the Standard of Conduct and (ii) with respect to any action or failure to act by the Covered Person which is at issue in such Proceeding, such action or failure to act constituted willful misconduct or recklessness. To be entitled to indemnification pursuant to this Section 8.2, the Covered Person must notify the Corporation of the commencement of the Proceeding in accordance with Section 8.5 and request indemnification. A review of the request for indemnification and the facts and circumstances underlying the Proceeding shall be made in accordance with one of the procedures described below; and the Covered Person shall be entitled to indemnification as a matter of right unless, in accordance with such procedure, it is determined beyond a reasonable doubt that (i) the Covered Person breached or failed to perform the duties of the office in compliance with the Standard of Conduct, and (ii) the breach or failure to perform constituted willful misconduct or recklessness. Any one of the following procedures may be used to make the review and determination of a Covered Person's request for indemnification under this Section 8.2(b):

(i) by the Board of Directors by a majority vote of a quorum consisting of directors who are not parties to, or who have been wholly successful with respect to, such Proceeding;

(ii) if a quorum cannot be obtained under (i) above, by a majority vote of a committee duly designated by the Board of Directors (in the designation of which, directors who are parties to such Proceeding may participate), consisting solely of two or more directors who are not parties to, or who have been wholly successful with respect to, such Proceeding;

(iii) by independent legal counsel selected by a majority vote of the full Board of Directors (in which selection, directors who are parties to such Proceeding may participate) and which may be outside counsel regularly employed by the Corporation; or

(iv) by a committee consisting of three (3) or more disinterested persons selected by a majority vote of the full Board of Directors (in which selection, directors who are parties to such Proceeding may participate).

Any determination made in accordance with the above procedures shall be binding on the Corporation and the Covered Person.

(c) If several claims, issues or matters of action are involved, a Covered Person may be entitled to indemnification as to some matters even though he or she is not entitled to indemnification as to other matters.

(d) The indemnification herein provided shall be applicable to Proceedings made or commenced after the adoption of this Article, whether arising from acts or omissions to act which occurred before or after the adoption of this Article.

Section 3. Prepaid Liabilities and Expenses. The Liabilities and Expenses which are incurred or are payable by a Covered Person in connection with any Proceeding shall be paid by the Corporation in advance promptly after submission of proper evidence thereof to the Corporation, with the understanding and agreement between such Covered Person and the Corporation, that, in the event it shall ultimately be determined as provided herein that the Covered Person was not entitled to be indemnified, or was not entitled to be fully indemnified, the Covered Person shall repay to the Corporation such amount, or the appropriate portion thereof, so paid or advanced.

Section 4. Exceptions to Indemnification. Notwithstanding any other provisions of this Article to the contrary, the Corporation shall not indemnify a Covered Person:

(a) for any Liabilities or Expenses for which payment is actually made to or on behalf of a Covered Person under a valid and collectible insurance policy, except in respect of any excess beyond the amount of payment under such insurance; or

(b) for any Liabilities or Expenses incurred in a suit or claim against the Covered Person arising out of or based upon actions attributable to the Covered Person in which the Covered Person gained any personal profit or advantage to which he or she was not legally entitled.

(c) for any Liabilities or Expenses incurred in a suit or claim by a Covered Person against the Corporation or any Liabilities or Expenses incurred in a suit or claim by the Corporation against the Covered Person.

Section 5. Notification and Defense of Proceeding. Promptly after receipt by a Covered Person of notice of the commencement of any Proceeding, the Covered Person will, if a request for indemnification in respect thereof is to be made against the Corporation under this Article, notify the Corporation of the commencement thereof; but the failure to so notify the Corporation will not relieve it from any obligation which it may have to the Covered Person under this Article or otherwise. With respect to any such Proceeding as to which the Covered Person notifies the Corporation of the commencement thereof:

(a) the Corporation will be entitled to participate therein at its own expense; and

(b) except as otherwise provided below, to the extent that it may so desire, the Corporation, jointly with any other indemnifying party similarly notified, will be entitled to assume the defense thereof, with counsel reasonably satisfactory to the Covered Person. After notice from the Corporation to the Covered Person of its election to assume the defense of the Covered Person in the Proceeding, the Corporation will not be liable to the Covered Person under this Article for any legal or other Expenses subsequently incurred by the Covered Person in connection with the defense thereof other than reasonable costs of investigation or as otherwise provided below. The Covered Person shall have the right to employ counsel in such Proceeding, but the Expenses of such counsel incurred after notice from the Corporation of its assumption of the defense thereof shall be at the expense of the Covered Person unless:

(i) the employment of counsel by the Covered Person has been authorized by the Corporation; or

(ii) the Covered Person shall have reasonably concluded that there may be a conflict of interest between the Corporation and the Covered Person in the conduct of the defense of such Proceeding; or in each of which cases the Expenses of counsel employed by the Covered Person shall be paid by the Corporation. The Corporation shall not be entitled to assume the defense of any Proceeding brought by or in the right of the Corporation or as to which the Covered Person shall have made the conclusion provided for in (ii) above.

(iii) the Corporation shall not in fact have employed counsel to assume the defense of such Proceeding;

(c) The Corporation shall not be liable to indemnify a Covered Person under this Article for any amounts paid in settlement of any Proceeding without the Corporation's prior written consent. The Corporation shall not settle any action or claim in any manner which would impose any penalty or limitation on a Covered Person without the Covered Person's prior written consent. Neither the Corporation nor a Covered Person will unreasonably withhold consent to any proposed settlement.

Section 6 Enforcement. Any indemnification under this Article VIII shall be made promptly upon the Covered Person being wholly successful on the merits or otherwise with respect to any Proceeding or upon the determination in accordance with Section 2(b) of this Article VIII that the Covered Person is entitled to indemnification. Any advancement of Expenses under this Article VIII shall be made promptly after receipt by the Corporation of a written request from the person seeking advancement of Expenses including such person's undertaking to repay all amounts so advanced (as required by Section 3 of this Article VIII). Any right of a Covered Person to indemnification or advancement of Expenses as granted by this Article may be enforceable by such Covered Person in any court of competent jurisdiction if the Corporation denies such request, in whole or in part, or if no disposition thereof is made within thirty (30) days after receipt by the Corporation of request therefor.

Section 7. Other Rights and Remedies. The rights of indemnification provided under this Article are not exhaustive and shall be in addition to any rights to which a Covered Person may otherwise be entitled by contract or as a matter of law. Irrespective of the provisions of this Article, the Corporation may, at any time and from time to time, indemnify directors, officers, employees and other persons to the full extent permitted by the provisions of the Act, or any successor law, as then in effect, whether with regard to past or future matters.

Section 8. Continuation of Indemnity. All obligations of the Corporation under this Article shall survive the termination of a Covered Person's service in any capacity covered by this Article.

Section 9. Insurance. The Corporation may purchase and maintain insurance on behalf of any person who is or was or has agreed to become a Covered Person or any person who is or was serving or has agreed to serve at the request of the Corporation as a director, officer, member, manager, partner, trustee, employee or agent of an Other Enterprise against any liability asserted against such person and incurred by such person in any capacity or arising out of his or her status as such, whether or not the Corporation would have the power to indemnify such person against such liability under the provisions of applicable law, this Article or otherwise.

Section 10. Contractual Rights and Applicability. It is the intent of this Article VIII to empower the Corporation to provide indemnification and advancement of Expenses to the fullest extent allowed by law. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein, indemnification shall be provided without regard to the legal or equitable theory of the Proceeding, including but not limited to criminal claims, conspiracy claims, joint, several, comparative or sole negligence, breach of contract or warranty, strict liability, breach of fiduciary duty, mismanagement, corporate waste, or violation of federal or state securities law or any other law, regulation or policy. The right to be indemnified or be reimbursed or advanced Expenses pursuant hereto (a) is a contract right based upon good and valuable consideration, pursuant to which the person entitled thereto may bring suit as if the provisions thereof were set forth in a separate written contract between the person and the Corporation, (b) is intended to be retroactive and shall be available with respect to events occurring prior to the adoption hereof, (c) shall continue to exist after the rescission or restrictive modification hereof with respect to events occurring prior thereto, and (d) shall inure to the benefit of the heirs and personal representatives of any present or former Covered Person.

If any portion of this Article VIII shall be invalidated on any ground by any court of competent jurisdiction, or in any arbitration proceeding, then the Corporation shall nevertheless indemnify each person entitled to indemnification or advancement of Expenses under this Article VIII as to all Liabilities and Expenses actually and reasonably incurred or suffered by such person and for which indemnification is available to such person pursuant to this Article VIII to the full extent permitted by any applicable portion of this Article VIII that shall not have been invalidated and to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law.

Section 11. Indemnification of Employees and Agents of the Corporation. The Corporation may, to the extent authorized by the Board of Directors from time to time, grant rights to indemnification and advancement of Expenses to officers (other than a Covered Person), employees and agents of the Corporation to the full extent of the provision of this Article with respect to the indemnification of, and advancement of Expenses to, Covered Persons.

ARTICLE IX

Cessation of Operations and Dissolution

Upon cessation of the Corporation's business as a charter school, the assets of the Corporation shall be used and distributed as provided by Indiana Code § 20-24-3-3, as amended, restated, or recodified from time to time. Upon the dissolution of the Corporation in accordance with the Act and its Article of Incorporation, the Board of Directors shall consider such obligations as among the Corporation's debts and liabilities for purposes of determining the assets of the Corporation available for distribution in accordance therewith.

ARTICLE X

Amendments

The Corporation reserves the right to make, amend, alter, change or repeal any provisions contained in the By-Laws of the Corporation or in any amendment thereto, by the affirmative vote of a majority of the actual number of members of the Board of Directors; provided, however, that no corporate action purporting to amend these By-Laws shall be effective if such power shall authorize any amendment, alteration, change or repeal which would have the effect of disqualifying the Corporation as a tax-exempt organization under Section 501(c)(3) of the Code or would have the effect of disqualifying contributions to the Corporation for deduction under Section 170(c)(2), Section 2055(a)(2) or Section 2522 of the Code. Directors must be given at least three (3) days notice of any special, regular or annual meeting of the Board of Directors at which an alteration, amendment or repeal of the By-Laws will be considered. Such notice shall be accompanied by a draft of the proposed change to the By-Laws; provided, however, that the Board of Directors shall have full power and authority to adopt different language from that contained in such draft in altering, amending or repealing these By-Laws.

Cap On Losses From Certified Acts Of Terrorism

A. If aggregate insured losses attributable to terrorist acts certified under the federal Terrorism Risk Insurance Act exceed $100 billion in a calendar year and we have met our insurer deductible under the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act, we shall not be liable for the payment of any portion of the amount of such losses that exceeds $100 billion, and in such case insured losses up to that amount are subject to pro rata allocation in accordance with procedures established by the Secretary of the Treasury.

"Certified act of terrorism" means an act that is certified by the Secretary of the Treasury, in accordance with the provisions of the federal Terrorism Risk Insurance Act, to be an act of terrorism pursuant to such Act. The criteria contained in the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act for a "certified act of terrorism" include the following:

1. The act resulted in insured losses in excess of $5 million in the aggregate, attributable to all types of insurance subject to the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act; and

2. The act is a violent act or an act that is dangerous to human life, property or infrastructure and is committed by an individual or individuals as part of an effort to coerce the civilian population of the United States or to influence the policy or affect the conduct of the United States Government by coercion.

B. The terms and limitations of any terrorism exclusion, or the inapplicability or omission of a terrorism exclusion, do not serve to create coverage for any "loss" that is otherwise excluded under this Policy.

All other terms and conditions of this Policy remain unchanged.

XXI. ALTERATION, ASSIGNMENT, AND HEADINGS

A. Notice to any agent or knowledge possessed by any agent or by any other person shall not affect a waiver or a change in any part of this Policy nor prevent the Insurer from asserting any right under the terms of this Policy.

B. No change in, modification of, or assignment of interest under this Policy shall be effective except when made by a written endorsement to this Policy which is signed by an authorized representative of the Insurer.

C. The titles and headings to the various parts, sections, subsections and endorsements of the Policy are included solely for ease of reference and do not in any way limit, expand, serve to interpret or otherwise affect the provisions of such parts, sections, subsections or endorsements.

D. Any reference to the singular shall include the plural and vice versa.

XXII. ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE RESOLUTION

A. The Insureds and the Insurer shall submit any dispute or controversy arising out of or relating to this Policy or the breach, termination or invalidity thereof to the alternative dispute resolution ("ADR") process set forth in this Section.

B. Either an Insured or the Insurer may elect the type of ADR process discussed below. However, such Insured shall have the right to reject the choice by the Insurer of the type of ADR process at any time prior to its commencement, in which case the choice by such Insured of ADR process shall control.

C. There shall be two choices of ADR process:

1. non-binding mediation administered by any mediation facility to which the Insurer and an Insured mutually agree, in which such Insured and the Insurer shall try in good faith to settle the dispute by mediation in accordance with the then-prevailing commercial mediation rules of the mediation facility; or

2. arbitration submitted to any arbitration facility to which an Insured and the Insurer mutually agree, in which the arbitration panel shall consist of three disinterested individuals.

In either mediation or arbitration, the mediator or arbitrators shall have knowledge of the legal, corporate management, or insurance issues relevant to the matters in dispute. In the event of arbitration, the decision of the arbitrators shall be final and binding and provided to both parties, and the award of the arbitrators shall not include attorneys' fees or other costs. In the event of mediation, either party shall have the right to commence a judicial proceeding. However, no such judicial proceeding shall be commenced until at least sixty (60) days after the date the mediation shall be deemed concluded or terminated. In all events, each party shall share equally the expenses of the ADR process.

D. Either ADR process may be commenced in New York or in the state shown in Item 1 of the Declarations as the principal address of the Named Insured. The Named Insured shall act on behalf of each and every Insured in connection with any ADR process under this Section.

XXIII. INTERPRETATION

The terms and conditions of this Policy shall be interpreted and construed in an even-handed fashion as between the parties. If the language of this Policy is deemed to be ambiguous or otherwise unclear, the issue shall be resolved in the manner most consistent with the relevant terms and conditions, without regard to authorship of the language, without any presumption or arbitrary interpretation or construction in favor of either the Insureds or the Insurer, and without reference to the reasonable expectations of either the Insureds or the Insurer.

XXIV. COMPLIANCE WITH TRADE SANCTIONS

This insurance does not apply to the extent that trade or economic sanctions or other similar laws or regulations prohibit the providing of such insurance.

XVII. CYBER INCIDENT RESPONSE FUND PROVISIONS

A. With respect to the Cyber Incident Response Team or a Non-Panel Response Provider:

1. The Insureds are under no obligation to contract for services with the Cyber Incident Response Team. However, if an Insured elects to use any Non-Panel Response Providers for any Cyber Incident Response Expenses, the applicable Limits of Insurance shown in Item 4A2 of the Declarations will apply.

2. The Insurer shall not be a party to any agreement entered into between any Cyber Incident Response Team service provider and an Insured.

3. Cyber Incident Response Team service providers are independent contractors, and are not agents of the Insurer. The Insureds agree that the Insurer assumes no liability arising out of any services rendered by a Cyber Incident Response Team service provider. The Insurer shall not be entitled to any rights or subject to any obligations or liabilities set forth in any agreement entered into between any Cyber Incident Response Team service provider and an Insured. Any rights and obligations with respect to such agreement, including billings, fees and services rendered, are solely for the benefit of, and borne solely by such Cyber Incident Response Team service provider and such Insured, and not the Insurer.

4. The Insurer has no obligation to provide any of the services provided by the Cyber Incident Response Team.

B. With respect to any other third party vendor, the Insurer may provide the Named Insured with a list of third-party privacy and network security loss mitigation vendors whom the Named Insured, at its own election and at the Named Insured's own expense, may retain for cyber risk management to inspect, assess, and audit the Named Insured's property, operations, systems, books, and records, including the Named Insured's network security, employee cyber security awareness, incident response plans, services provider contracts, and regulatory compliance. Any loss mitigation inspection, assessment, or audit purchased by the Named Insured, and any report or recommendation resulting therefrom, shall not constitute an undertaking at the request of or for the benefit of the Insurer.

XVIII. SUBROGATION

A. The Insurer shall have no rights of subrogation against any Insured under this Policy unless Exclusion III.A.1 or Section XIV, Subsection C, applies.

B. In the event of payment under this Policy, the Insureds must transfer to the Insurer any applicable rights to recover from another person or entity all or part of any such payment. The Insureds shall execute all papers required and shall do everything necessary to secure and preserve such rights, including the execution of such documents necessary to enable the Insurer to effectively bring suit or otherwise pursue subrogation rights in the name of the Insureds.

C. If prior to the Incident or Claim connected with such payment an Insured has agreed in writing to waive such Insured's right of recovery or subrogation against any person or entity, such agreement shall not be considered a violation of such Insured's duties under this Policy.

XIX. ACTION AGAINST THE INSURER AND BANKRUPTCY

Except as provided in Section XXII, Alternative Dispute Resolution, no action shall lie against the Insurer. No person or entity shall have any right under this Policy to join the Insurer as a party to any action against any Insured to determine the liability of such Insured nor shall the Insurer be impleaded by any Insured or its legal representatives. Bankruptcy or insolvency of any Insured or of the estate of any Insured shall not relieve the Insurer of its obligations nor deprive the Insurer of its rights or defenses under this Policy.

XX. AUTHORIZATION CLAUSE

XIV. REPRESENTATIONS

A. In granting coverage to any Insured, the Insurer has relied upon the declarations and statements in the Application for this Policy. Such declarations and statements are the basis of the coverage under this Policy and shall be considered as incorporated in and constituting part of this Policy.

B. The Application for coverage shall be construed as a separate Application for coverage by each Insured. With respect to the declarations and statements in such Application, no knowledge possessed by a natural person Insured shall be imputed to any other natural person Insured.

C. However, in the event that such Application contains any misrepresentations made with the actual intent to deceive or contains misrepresentations which materially affect either the acceptance of the risk or the hazard assumed by the Insurer under this Policy, then no coverage shall be afforded for any Incident or Claim based upon, arising from or in consequence of any such misrepresentations with respect to:

1. any natural person Insured who knew of such misrepresentations (whether or not such natural person knew such Application contained such misrepresentations); or
2. an Organization, if any past or present Control Group Member knew of such misrepresentations (whether or not such Control Group Member knew such Application contained such misrepresentations).

4. upon expiration of the Policy Period as shown in Item 2 of the Declarations; or
5. at such other time as may be agreed upon by the Insurer and the Named Insured.

B. If the Policy is terminated by the Named Insured or the Insurer, the Insurer shall refund the unearned premium computed pro rata. Payment or tender of any unearned premium by the Insurer shall not be a condition precedent to the effectiveness of such termination, but such payment shall be made as soon as practicable.

XVI. TERRITORY AND VALUATION

A. Coverage provided under this Policy shall extend to Incidents and Claims taking place, brought or maintained anywhere in the universe. Any provision in this Policy pertaining to coverage for Incidents or Claims made or Damages or Claims Expenses sustained anywhere outside the United States of America shall only apply where legally permissible.

B. All premiums, limits, retentions, Costs, Damages, Claims Expenses and other amounts under this Policy are expressed and payable in the currency of the United States of America. If judgment is rendered, settlement is denominated or another element of loss under this Policy is stated in a currency other than United States of America dollars, or if Extortion Expenses are stated in a currency, including Bitcoin or other crypto-currency(ies), other than United States of America dollars, payment under this Policy shall be made in United States dollars at the applicable rate of exchange as published in The Wall Street Journal as of the date the final judgment is reached, the amount of the settlement is agreed upon or the other element of loss is due, respectively, or, if not published on such date, the next date of publication of The Wall Street Journal. With respect to a Regulatory Proceeding, amounts for covered Claims Expenses and for uncovered fees, costs and expenses shall be allocated based upon the relative legal and financial exposures of, and the relative benefits obtained by, the parties to such matters.

B. Loss other than Claims Expenses: all remaining loss incurred by such Insured from such Claim shall be allocated between covered Damages and uncovered damages based upon the relative legal and financial exposures of, and the relative benefits obtained by, the parties to such matters.

XII. OTHER INSURANCE

If any Costs, Damages or Claims Expenses covered under this Policy are covered under any other valid and collectible insurance, then this Policy shall cover such Costs, Damages or Claims Expenses, subject to the Policy terms and conditions, only to the extent that the amount of such Costs, Damages or Claims Expenses are in excess of the amount of such other insurance whether such other insurance is stated to be primary, contributory, excess, contingent or otherwise, unless such other insurance is written only as specific excess insurance over the Limits of Insurance provided by this Policy.

B. ACQUISITION OF THE NAMED INSURED

If, during the Policy Period, any of the following events occurs:

1. the acquisition of the Named Insured, or of all or substantially all of its assets, by another entity, or the merger or consolidation of the Named Insured into or with another entity such that the Named Insured is not the surviving entity; or
2. the obtaining by any person, entity or affiliated group of persons or entities of the right to elect, appoint or designate at least fifty percent (50%) of the directors, trustees, managers, members of the Board of Managers, management or executive committee members or equivalent positions of the Named Insured;

Coverage under this Policy will cease as of the effective date of such event with respect to Claims for Incidents, or Incidents, as applicable, taking place after such event. This Policy may not be cancelled after the effective time of the event, and the entire premium for this Policy shall be deemed earned as of such time.

C. TERMINATION OF A SUBSIDIARY

If, before or during the Policy Period, an entity ceases to be a Subsidiary, coverage with respect to such Subsidiary and any Insured (as defined in paragraphs 3, 4 and 5 of such definition) of the Subsidiary shall continue until termination of this Policy. Such coverage continuation shall apply only with respect to Claims for Incidents, or Incidents, as applicable, taking place prior to the date such entity ceased to be a Subsidiary.

C. No Insured shall settle any Claim, incur any Claims Expenses, or otherwise assume any contractual obligation or admit any liability with respect to any Claim without the Insurer's written consent, which shall not be unreasonably withheld.

D. The Insurer shall not settle any Claim without the written consent of the Named Insured. If the Named Insured refuses to consent to a settlement recommended by the Insurer and acceptable to the claimant, then the Insurer's applicable Limit of Insurance under this Policy with respect to such Claim shall be reduced to:

1. the amount of Damages for which the Claim could have been settled plus all Claims Expenses incurred up to the time the Insurer made its recommendation to the Named Insured; plus

2. eighty percent (80%) of all subsequent covered Damages and Claims Expenses in excess of such amount referenced in paragraph (1) immediately above, which amount shall not exceed that portion of any applicable Limit of Insurance that remains unexhausted by payment of Costs, Damages, and Claims Expenses. The remaining twenty percent (20%) of all subsequent covered Damages and Claims Expenses shall be borne by the Insureds uninsured and at their own risk. However, this provision does not apply to any potential settlement that is within the Retention.

E. The Insurer shall not be obligated to investigate, defend, pay or settle, or continue to investigate, defend, pay or settle any Claim after any applicable Limit of Insurance has been exhausted by payment of Costs, Damages, or Claims Expenses, or by any combination thereof, or after the Insurer has deposited the remainder of any unexhausted applicable Limit of Insurance into a court of competent jurisdiction. In either such case, the Insurer shall have the right to withdraw from the further investigation, defense, payment or settlement of such Claim by tendering control of such Claim to the Insured.

F. The Insureds shall cooperate with the Insurer and provide to the Insurer all information and assistance which the Insurer reasonably requests including attending hearings, depositions and trials and assistance in effecting settlements, securing and giving evidence, obtaining the attendance of witnesses and conducting the defense of any Claim covered by this Policy. The Insured shall do nothing that may prejudice the Insurer's position. The Insureds shall immediately forward to the Insurer, at the address shown in Item 9A of the Declarations, every demand, notice, summons, or other process or pleading received by an Insured or its representatives.

G. With the exception of paragraph 6 of the Cyber Incident Response Expenses definition, an Insured has the right to incur Cyber Incident Response Expenses without the Insurer's prior consent. However, the Insurer shall, at its sole discretion and in good faith, pay only for such expenses that the Insurer deems to be reasonable and necessary.

X. PROOF OF LOSS FOR FIRST PARTY INSURING AGREEMENTS

A. Requests for payment or reimbursement of Costs incurred by an Insured shall be accompanied by a proof of loss with full particulars as to the computation of such Costs. Such proof of loss will include in detail how the Costs were calculated, and what assumptions have been made, and shall include documentary evidence, including any applicable reports, books of accounts, bills, invoices and other vouchers or proofs of payment made by an Insured in relation to such Costs. Furthermore, the Insureds shall cooperate with, and provide any additional information reasonably requested by, the Insurer in its review of Costs, including the right to investigate and audit the proof of loss and inspect the records of an Insured.

B. With respect to Insuring Agreement B, the Business Interruption Loss or Contingent Business Interruption Loss will be determined taking full account and due consideration of an Insured's proof of loss and in addition, the trends or circumstances which affect the profitability of the business and would have affected the profitability of the business had the Business Interruption Loss or Contingent Business Interruption Loss not occurred, including all material changes in market conditions or adjustment expenses which would affect the net profit generated. However, the Insurer's adjustment will not include the Insured's increase in income that would likely have been earned as a result of an increase in the volume of business due to favorable business conditions caused by the impact of a Malicious Computer Act on others.

VIII. NOTICE

A. Urgent crisis management assistance by the Cyber Incident Response Coach is available at the hotline number shown in the Declarations. Use of the services of the Cyber Incident Response Coach for a consultation DOES NOT constitute notice under this Policy of a Cyber Incident or Claim. In order to provide notice under this Policy, such notice must be given in accordance with and is subject to Subsections B-D of this Section VIII.

B. An Insured shall, as a condition precedent to such Insured's rights under this Policy, give to the Insurer written notice of any Incident or Claim as soon as practicable after any Control Group Member discovers such Incident or becomes aware of such Claim, but in no event later than:

1. if this Policy expires (or is otherwise terminated) without being renewed with the Insurer, ninety (90) days after the effective date of such expiration or termination; or
2. the expiration of the Extended Reporting Period, if applicable, provided that if the Insurer sends written notice to the Named Insured, stating that this Policy is being terminated for nonpayment of premium, an Insured shall give to the Insurer written notice of such Claim prior to the effective date of such termination.

C. If, during the Policy Period, any Control Group Member first becomes aware of any specific Incident which may reasonably give rise to a future Claim under this Policy, and written notice is given to the Insurer during the Policy Period, of the:

1. nature of the Incident;
2. identity of the Insureds allegedly involved;
3. circumstances by which the Insureds first became aware of the Incident;
4. identity of the actual or potential claimants;
5. foreseeable consequences of the Incident; and
6. nature of the potential Damages;

then any Claim which arises out of such Incident shall be deemed to have been first made at the time such written notice was received by the Insurer. The Insurer will not pay for Damages or Claims Expenses incurred prior to the time such Incident results in a Claim.

D. All notices under any provision of this Policy shall be given as follows:

1. Notice to the Insureds may be given to the Named Insured at the address shown in Item 1 of the Declarations.
2. Notice to the Insurer of any Incident or Claim shall be given to the Insurer at the physical address or email address shown in Item 9A of the Declarations.
3. All other notices to the Insurer under this Policy shall be given to the Insurer at the physical address shown in Item 9B of the Declarations.

Notice given as set out above shall be deemed to be received and effective upon actual receipt thereof by the addressee, or one day following the date such notice is sent, whichever is earlier. When any such notices are sent to a physical address, such notices shall be sent by prepaid express courier or certified mail properly addressed to the appropriate party.

IX. DEFENSE AND SETTLEMENT

A. Except as provided in Subsection B of this Section IX, the Insurer shall have the right and duty to defend any Claim brought against an Insured even if such Claim is groundless, false or fraudulent.

The Insurer shall consult and endeavor to reach an agreement with the Insured regarding the appointment of counsel, but shall retain the right to appoint counsel and to make such investigation and defense of a Claim as it deems necessary.

B. The Insurer shall have the right, but not the duty, to defend any Regulatory Proceeding. For such Claims, the Insured shall select defense counsel from the Insurer's list of approved law firms, and the Insurer reserves the right to associate in the defense of such Claims.

C. MAXIMUM LIMIT OF INSURANCE FOR EACH INCIDENT OR CLAIM UNDER ANY ONE INSURING AGREEMENT

The Insurer's maximum limit of insurance for each Incident or Claim under any one Insuring Agreement shall be the applicable Each Incident or Claim Limit shown in Item 4 of the Declarations, which shall be part of, and not in addition to, the applicable Aggregate Limit for all Incidents or Claims shown in Item 4 of the Declarations, and the Maximum Policy Aggregate Limit of Insurance shown in Item 3B of the Declarations.

D. MAXIMUM LIMIT OF INSURANCE FOR ALL INTERRELATED INCIDENTS AND CLAIMS

All Claims arising out of the same Incident and all Interrelated Incidents shall be deemed to be one Claim, and such Claim shall be deemed to be first made on the date the earliest of such Claims is first made, regardless of whether such date is before or during the Policy Period.

All Interrelated Incidents shall be deemed to be one Incident, and such Incident shall be deemed to be first discovered, on the date the earliest of such Incidents is first discovered, regardless of whether such date is before or during the Policy Period.

The maximum limit of insurance for all Interrelated Incidents and Claims arising out of such Interrelated Incidents shall be the Maximum Single Incident or Claim Limit of Insurance shown in Item 3A of the Declarations, regardless of whether Costs, Damages or Claims Expenses from a single Incident or Claim are covered under more than one Insuring Agreement. Notwithstanding anything in this paragraph to the contrary, in no event shall the Insurer pay more than the applicable:

1. Maximum Policy Aggregate Limit of Insurance shown in Item 3B of the Declarations,
2. Aggregate Limit for all Incidents or Claims under any one Insuring Agreement shown in Item 4 of the Declarations, and
3. Each Incident or Claim Limit under any one Insuring Agreement shown in Item 4 of the Declarations.

E. Costs, Damages and Claims Expenses shall be part of and not in addition to the applicable Limit of Insurance shown in the Declarations, and shall reduce such applicable Limit of Insurance. If the applicable Limit of Insurance is exhausted by payment of Costs, Damages and Claims Expenses, the obligations of the Insurer under this Policy shall be completely fulfilled and extinguished.

F. Any sub-limits shown in the Declarations or added by endorsement to this Policy shall be part of and not in addition to the applicable Limit of Insurance shown in the Declarations, and shall reduce such applicable Limit of Insurance.

VII. RETENTION

A. The liability of the Insurer shall apply only to that part of Costs, Damages, and Claims Expenses which is in excess of the applicable Retention amount shown in Item 4 of the Declarations. Such Retention shall be borne uninsured by the Named Insured and at the risk of all Insureds.

B. With respect to Insuring Agreement B, the Insurer will pay the actual Business Interruption Loss, Contingent Business Interruption Loss and Extra Expenses incurred by an Insured:

1. once the applicable Waiting Period shown in Item 4B of the Declarations has expired; and
2. which is in excess of the applicable Retention amount shown in Item 4B of the Declarations.

The Waiting Period and Retention amounts shall be computed as of the start of the Interruption in Service.

Any Business Interruption Loss or Contingent Business Interruption Loss incurred by an Insured during the Waiting Period, and resulting from an Interrelated Incident with Extra Expenses, shall reduce and may exhaust any applicable Retention.

C. A single Retention amount shall apply to Costs, Damages, and Claims Expenses, arising from all Incidents or Claims alleging an Interrelated Incident.

D. If a single Incident or Claim, or Interrelated Incidents are subject to different Retentions, the applicable Retention shall be applied separately to each part of the Costs, Damages, and Claim Expenses, but the sum of such Retentions shall not exceed the largest applicable Retention.

IV. SPOUSES, COMMON LAW PARTNERS, ESTATES AND LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES

Coverage under this Policy shall extend to any Claim for any Incident made against:

Coverage for the Extended Reporting Period shall be only for Claims first made or Incidents first discovered during such Extended Reporting Period and arising from Incidents taking place prior to the effective date of such termination or non-renewal. C. The Extended Reporting Period is non-cancelable and the entire premium for the Extended Reporting Period shall be deemed fully earned and non-refundable upon payment.

Board Member, Fairbanks

Marion Blanton 6/18/19

Leah S. Mannweiler was an equity partner at Krieg DeVault LLP (the "Firm"). She is retired from the Firm but continues to receive retirement benefits from the Firm. She has served as counsel to Fairbanks Hospital for many years, and also serves as counsel to Hope Academy. The Firm provides legal representation from time to time to numerous lending institutions which do not involve Hope Academy or Fairbanks Hospital. Other third parties which or whom are represented by the Firm may provide services to Hope Academy from time to time, and the Firm may provide legal services to those other third parties, but Mrs. Mannweiler is not and was not involved in providing legal services to any such third parties. Further, should any conflict of interest for the Firm arise with respect to Hope Academy, that conflict, after full disclosure, would be resolved in accordance with the Rules of Professional Responsibility, for which resolution could result in withdrawal of the Firm from the matter and recommendation of the use of other outside counsel.

Follow-Up Interviews – October-November 2014
Final Report Completed – December 2014

The Association of Recovery Schools Framework Review is designed to assess whether a recovery school is meeting the dual goals of providing a high quality education and supporting students' recovery from drug and alcohol abuse. The Accreditation Review Protocol is based on the Accreditation Framework for Association of Recovery School Members, which is used to determine a school's success relative to a common set of indicators, as well as school-based goals. Consistent with the Association of Recovery Schools Framework, the following four core areas and questions are examined to determine a school's success:

School Organization:

1.1 Business Planning: Does the high school operate with a revised strategic business plan that provides for a reasonable level of organizational autonomy and is created for long-term survivability and viability?

1.2 Board of Directors: Does the school have a functional and involved Board of Directors?

1.3 School Leadership: Does the school have a recognized and fully trained leader or leaders who operate with a level of autonomy and flexibility within the larger organizational system?

1.4 Community Partnerships: Does the school establish collaborative partnerships with local schools, treatment centers, and other community resources to create a coordinated system of support?

1.5 Public Relations & Privacy Issues: Does the school have a plan to promote the school and its programs while respecting the privacy and safety of its students and families?

1.6 Program Evaluation: Does the school regularly evaluate the academic and therapeutic programs for continuous program improvement?

School Community:

2.1 Target Population: Does the school have a clearly defined eligibility criteria aligned with the mission to support recovery from substance use and co-occurring disorders?

2.2 Enrollment Diversity: Do the school's admission and recruitment procedures reflect intentionality around enrolling a diverse student body?

2.3 Transition Planning & Support: Does the school have clear procedures for transitioning students from traditional school, community or treatment settings into the recovery high school setting?

2.4 Climate & Culture: Does the school utilize constructive rather than punitive practices that aim to generate and restore a sense of well-being among students and staff?

2.5 Parent Engagement: Does the school actively engage parents, guardians and families, with parents/guardians are recognized and involved as partners in the education and recovery process? Does the school provide training and support for families to promote the healthy growth and academic achievement of each student?

2.6 Sensitivity to Differences: Does the school create policies and procedures that promote sensitivity to human differences, and are responsive to individual student's developmental needs?

Recovery Practices:

3.1 Recovery Supports: Are recovery supports and relapse prevention measures meeting the needs of students?

3.2 Recovery Climate: Does the school provide a recovery-oriented school climate that promotes collegial relationships among faculty, students, and their families?

3.3 Recovery Assessment: Does the school collect data for initial screening, progress monitoring, and outcome measures to assess and improve short and long-term results for students?

3.4 Recovery Staff Evaluation & Professional Development: Is the therapeutic staff appropriately trained for their current positions, and does the school perform regular performance evaluation to improve the quality of recovery staff and provide professional development in areas salient to the recovery community?

3.5 Relapse Prevention: Does the school have services available which help support the students' plan to abstain from substance use and recover from co-occurring disorders, from intervention through recovery maintenance and relapse prevention?

3.6 Recovery Transition: Does the school have criteria and plans in place to help students transition smoothly from the recovery supports provided by the high school in order to maintain their sobriety?

Educational Practices:

4.1 Diploma: Does the school offer credits leading to a state-recognized high school diploma and does the school offer all courses needed to graduate?

4.2 High Quality Curriculum & Instruction: Does the school provide a high quality curriculum and classroom instruction of high quality?

4.6 Post-Secondary Transitions: Does the school have criteria and plans in place to help students transition smoothly from the recovery high school to the student's next educational or workforce setting, preparing the student for the broadest selection of reasonable post-secondary options?

COMPLETION OF THE ACCREDITATION FRAMEWORK REVIEW

The purpose of the Association of Recovery School Accreditation review is to present to the school and the Association of Recovery Schools with a professional judgment on conditions and practices at the school, which are best provided through an external perspective. This report uses multiple sources of evidence to understand the school's performance. Evidence collection begins before the visit with the review of key documents and continues on-site through additional document review, classroom visits and interviews with any number of stakeholders. Findings provided by the site visit team can be used to celebrate what the school is doing well and prioritize its areas for improvement. It is the task of the site visit team to report on the pre-identified indicators of the Accreditation Framework and give to the Association of Recovery School Board of Directors information to aid them in accreditation decisions.

The outcome of this review will provide the school with written report that includes a judgment and supporting evidence on various aspects of the school, based on a rubric of indicators developed for each of the four core questions and sub-questions in the Accreditation Framework. The assessment system utilizes the following judgments:

- Does not meet standard
- Approaching standard
- Meets standard

The Evaluation Process

Association of Recovery Schools' staff engaged in a number of evidence-collecting activities. The focus of this evaluation was to gauge perceptions of key stakeholders at the school in relation to the areas of the accreditation framework that are part of the evaluation. ARS conducted focus group discussions with students and staff, as well as interviews with the school administration. These focus groups and interviews were conducted over the course of the site visit in March 2014. Classroom observations were performed on site using the classroom observation instrument provided by ARS. The on site observations lasted approximately 30 minutes, and over half of the teaching staff was observed once. The school hired a new principal in the summer, and subsequently made substantive programmatic changes. For this reason, follow-up interviews were conducted and additional documents reviewed in fall 2014.

In the following report, standards and indicators are listed with relevant evidence given related to the performance criteria. Following the discussion of each indicator, a summary of strengths and areas for attention are provided for the framework questions.

Final Accreditation Determination

There are 6 standards in 4 areas, for a total of 24 standards. A school must have at least 12 standards receiving "meets standard" (shown in this report by green highlight), and must not receive "does not meet standard" (shown in this report by yellow highlight) on more than 8 standards. There can be as many standards receiving "approaches standard" (shown in this report by red highlight) as the math will allow based on the cumulative number meeting and not meeting standards.

Executive Summary

The ARS Accreditation Team recommends accreditation for Hope Academy based on document review, site visit, and student/staff interviews. Overall, the team found Hope to have an exemplary program in many areas, including business organization, Board and parent engagement, and data collection. As a charter school, Hope is required to undergo many levels of accountability review, and the school has clearly made improvements based on these processes. The school also exhibited willingness to revise practices based on the ARS summary meeting at the conclusion of the site visit. When a new principal was hired during the summer, areas of concern (specifically around the recovery climate and programming) were addressed. Upon follow-up analysis, it was evident that many areas of concern had become areas of strength.

Standards Evaluation

There are 6 standards in 4 areas, for a total of 24 standards. Hope Academy meets 18 standards, is approaching 3 standards, and does not meet 2 standards, and thus meets ARS requirements for accreditation.

The two standards not met are:

- 2.2 – Enrollment Diversity
- 3.6 – Recovery Transition

The three standards approaching are:

- 2.6 – Sensitivity to Differences
- 4.3 – Data-Driven Instruction
- 4.5 – Special-Education Services

The following chart captures all of the indicators, and color-codes met (green), not-met (red), and approaching (yellow). The full report then elaborates on each indicator and the evidence supporting the team's conclusions.

Final Report

School Organization

1.1 Business Planning: Does the high school operate with a revised strategic business plan that provides for a reasonable level of organizational autonomy and is created for long-term survivability and viability?
Evidence: Budget, 5-year plan, School Improvement Plan, Org chart
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) operates with organizational autonomy from sponsors, particularly in the area of school leadership; b) this autonomy is reflected in the mission statement; c) the school possesses a comprehensive 5-year plan; d) the school has a budget that is realistic and attainable; e) has realistic enrollment projections; f) has a clear plan to adapt to leadership change.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy was founded by Fairbanks Hospital. Both organizations run as 501c3 non-profit organizations, and the Fairbanks CEO is at the top of both organizational charts, and Hope board members typically serve first as Fairbanks board members. The COO for Hope also serves as the Director of Adolescent Services for Fairbanks. Hope operates in the Fairbanks facility, with the Fairbanks Intensive Outpatient Program offices located on the same floor with school. However, the Fairbanks board has allowed a reasonable level of autonomy to the Hope Academy board, and this begins with a mission statement for Hope that is specific to the school and distinct from that of Fairbanks. While nobody actually cited the Hope Academy mission statement word-for-word, everybody from board member to administrator to students and staff had a consistent understanding of Hope's mission. Hope has its own principal and staff, though a few staff work part-time for both organizations. The sharing of staff, facilities, and other resources serves as an area of efficiency rather than as a restriction. One could visit Hope Academy and not realize that all of these organizational overlaps exist.

Regarding the Hope budget, it appears the charter school arrangement has worked out well. Fairbanks originally planned for 120 students at Hope, but that number has been pared down to around 60. Because students bring their public school funding with them, the Hope Board has not had to raise as much money as it would have if the school had been completely private. According to the Hope Board, Fairbanks has "sunk lots of money into Hope", and has recently hired a development person to help find ways to financially support Hope. When enrollment dips below the break-even number of 60, Fairbanks helps cover the shortfall. Because the two organizations are technically distinct non-profits, these funds appear as a "loan" on the financial statement. There is currently a $500,000 receivable on the Fairbanks budget, but Fairbanks writes off these funds each year. According to the Hope Board, there is "no dispute on the (Fairbanks) Board about writing that off". The Fairbanks Board believes Hope is "an asset for community", and thus remains committed keeping Hope financially viable. This relationship between the two organizations is commendable, and seems likely to sustain Hope in the coming years, so long as new Board members continue understanding the financial situation similarly.

While the designated enrollment of 60 seems reasonable within the existing staff and facility resources, the fact that the school technically runs a deficit on the Fairbanks books when the number drops below 60 appears to have generated some implicit need to keep enrollment as high as possible. Staff and students openly wondered if the administration accepted and held onto students not committed sobriety due to financial constraints. The administration and the Board did not explicitly state this to be the case, but certainly people wondered aloud if this was happening. If so, this appears to be no different than many of the recovery schools who need to maintain enrollment to keep operating. The school has programming (i.e., the Supportive, Therapeutic, Action-focused Recovery Room, or "STARR" Room) in place to work with students not ready for Hope, but will need to continue working to make that program stronger in this way (will be addressed in more detail later in the report). The Board seems committed to doing whatever is necessary to cover the annual budget gaps, including the recent hire of a new development staff member for that purpose. Also, according to Hope staff and board members, Fairbanks has plenty of financial resources to support Hope so long as its board remains committed to do so.

Regarding leadership change, Hope is not overly reliant on one person for its existence. Thus, a typical organizational leadership search process will be sufficient for Hope. While there was no plan presented to the accreditation team outlining this process, the administration and board appear prepared to handle staff and administration changes as they arise. The Hope board has term limits built into its bylaws, so succession there is by design. Rachelle Gardner was a founder of the school and serves as its COO, but she in not over-identified with the organization. In staff and student interviews, no one person was mentioned regularly as being a sustaining figure, i.e., "we would have to close without her/him". Some staff were seen as more essential than others, but it did not appear the school would be at-risk should one of them leave.

The one indicator lacking in Standard 1.1 is "the school possesses a comprehensive 5-year plan". While the Board and administration intend for the school to exist five years from now, and have no apparent doubts this will be the case, there was no concrete five year strategic plan for how to attain the continued viability of the school. Staff is in place, and ideas for fundraising are being generated, but this plan seems to be more perceived than real. The school has goals and a purpose, but is encouraged to generated an actual plan for a sustainable future.

1.2 Board of Directors: Does the school have a functional and involved Board of Directors?
Evidence: Organizational chart, employee handbook, interviews, focus groups; school documentation, focus groups, interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The Board of Directors: a) has members with divergent areas of expertise that benefit the school b) receive regular updates from the school leader(s); c) operates with financial oversight of school; d) regularly evaluates and provides feedback to school leadership; e) the diversity of the Board reflects the school and the local community; f) the Board of Directors has a well-defined relationship with the school leader.	Meets Standard

The Board of Directors represents and area of strength for Hope Academy. Fairbanks Hospital and Hope Academy each have 501c3 status, and two Hope board members first served on the Fairbanks board. The Fairbanks board appoints members for the Hope board. The intention is to try to have at least one Fairbanks board member on the Hope board. Still, the boards are distinct, and the Hope board operates with autonomy. There are 12 members on the Hope board with divergent interests, representing areas of relevance for the school, such as education and recovery. It appears the diversity of the Board reflects the school and the local community, as least as far as professional backgrounds and experience. It is recommended the Board consider more racial/ethnic diversity, as all 12 members are white. There is gender balance, however, as 6 are male and 6 are female.

The board evaluates and provides feedback for the COO, who evaluates the school leadership. One of parents who helped start the school is on the current Board, and her son was one of the original students.

The Board is a governing board, and they strive to have knowledge of issues, programs, and concerns. The Board meets bi-monthly and receives reports from the school leadership. Both the school leaders and Board members agreed that the Board does not micromanage the school. The Board of Directors has a well-defined relationship with the school leaders. School leaders attend board meetings, and there appears to be mutual respect.

Financial oversight is a primary purpose of the Board, and according to one board member, in the early 2000s, the Fairbanks Board "got professionalized", and went from borrowing money to having $10 million in the bank. The Board states its main concern is enrollment, because the student dollars represent financial stability. It is important to note that currently, the two Boards are trying to figure out how best to handle deficits on the balance sheet. Over the last few years, funds from per pupil allocations have not fully covered the costs of the school, and Fairbanks has provided funds to Hope to help the school remain open. According to the Hope Board members, Fairbanks essentially "writes off funds each year", but there is currently a $500,000 receivable in the Fairbanks budget. While it would be preferable for Fairbanks to see Hope as a "loss leader", it is encouraging that Fairbanks has no dispute about writing off the debt. Clearly, the Fairbanks Board values the school.

1.3 School Leadership: Does the school have a recognized and fully trained leader or leaders in both academic and therapeutic programs who operate with a level of autonomy and flexibility within the larger organizational system?
Evidence: Organizational chart, employee handbook, interviews, focus groups; school documentation, focus groups, interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school possesses a leader trained in either therapeutic or educational content; b) the school leader is provided with qualified support staff in areas they are not trained in; c) all school leaders have appropriate certification and training; d) the school provides leadership with professional development; e) the school has fully defined job descriptions for all leadership positions with leadership roles and responsibilities distinct and well understood f) the school director operates with autonomy regarding issues of treatment and education.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy meets the standard by possessing leaders trained in both therapeutic and educational content. The new principal of the school is a licensed educator with more than 20 years in Indianapolis Public Schools. She started as a science teacher, but has also taught math, science, and computers. She has experience in a variety of setting, including magnet schools and Title I programs, as an Assistant Principal and a Principal. She has worked in Elementary, Middle, and comprehensive High Schools. She was an Alternative School administrator for 6-7 years.

Therapeutic leadership is provided by a well-credentialed professional with a doctorate and multiple Master's degrees. However, there is not a licensed substance abuse professional. There is a licensed school counselor on-staff, but she is not an administrator. The presence of licensed school teachers and a recovery coach helps mitigate the absence of specific training/licensure/experience in recovery, though no teacher is currently in recovery either. Still, the school leaders to have appropriate education and clinical licensure. The main concerning is recovery-based training. Leaders have access to professional development as needed, and Hope leaders have been active in the Association of Recovery Schools since before the school opened. It is notable that Hope is one of the few schools who regularly bring multiple staff representatives to the annual ARS conference.

School leaders clearly understand their job descriptions, roles, and responsibilities and articulate them well. The school director operates with autonomy regarding issues of treatment and education, though the COO provides direct oversight.

1.4 Community Partnerships: Does the school establish collaborative partnerships with local schools, treatment centers, and other community resources to create a coordinated system of support?
Evidence: List of Collaborations, community resources, school and treatment partners, MOU's with collaborators, org chart for system of support, interviews and focus groups
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school has collaborative and meaningful partnerships with local schools; b) has collaborative and meaningful partnerships with local treatment centers; c) has collaborative and meaningful collaborations with local mental health providers; d) has established MOU's or other legal agreements with collaborative partners; e) collaborative partners provide materials and personnel; f) local resources are leveraged to provide the best possible services for students; g) the school is a good community partner and offers services to the local community.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy has collaborative and meaningful partnerships with local treatment centers and local mental health providers, most obviously Fairbanks Hospital. About 25% of referrals come from outside of Fairbanks, so the school is not exclusively dependent upon Fairbanks for enrollment. One concern in this area is the fact that Hope's budget is so dependent upon enrollment to break even. Should referrals from Fairbanks decline, the school will be impacted profoundly. For this reason, diversifying referral sources should be a priority. Collaborating more with local schools could help establish relationships and referrals flows.

As a charter school, Hope has established MOU's and other legal agreements with local and state governments and has a substantial number of legal agreements in order to establish funding arrangements. The main collaborative partner providing materials and personnel is Fairbanks Hospital, especially with regards to recovery support programming. There is much overlap between staff, programs, and even clients. About 75% of Hope students have come from Fairbanks, and about 50% of Hope students later receive treatment services from Fairbanks. Indiana Wesleyan University has a large addictions program, which provides a number of interns to assist with the therapeutic programming at the school, as well as to conduct research and evaluation.

Fairbanks not only helped start the school, but also provides physical spaces for the school to operate. Students also eat lunch in the same cafeteria as treatment center patients (though at different times). This is an excellent example of how local resources are leveraged to provide the best possible services for students.

Hope Academy is a good community partner, offering and utilizing the following services in partnership with the local community:

- Art with A Heart (AWaH). For the past four years Hope Academy has had an active partnership with AWaH, a community wide program that uniquely integrates and reinforces academics within the artistic experience. Hope students take art each semester under instruction provided by AWaH.
- Community Health Network. Community Health Network has been an active partner for over the past six years in providing Hope students direct health services.
- Agape. Agapé is a unique therapeutic resource for individuals, families, schools, medical and mental health professionals. For the past year Hope has partnered with Agape in providing students horse training and riding experiences.
- Civic Theater. A relationship was made that allowed students to receive both on campus and off campus coaching and acting experience with Civic theater staff.
- Indiana Wesleyan University's Behavioral Sciences and Psychology and Addictions Studies programs. Each year Hope Academy selects two student interns for a two full days a week practicum internship. Also, each year Hope Academy and IWU do a recovery high school research project where the institutions have applied and been awarded funding for a Research Student Internship at Hope.
- Indiana University, Purdue, University at Indianapolis (IUPUI). Each year two to three masters level school counselor interns serve at Hope Academy.

- Hamilton County Humane Society. Knowing the benefits to adolescent addicts of giving care to animals, Hope's science teacher has as apart of the biology curriculum started hands on projects with the local Humane Society.
- Second Helpings. Each day, Second Helpings volunteers and staff rescue prepared and perishable food from wholesalers, retailers and restaurants -- preventing unnecessary waste. Hope Academy students have done drives for the organization, with a Hope student graduating from their Chef training program.
- LINK. A Fairbanks post-treatment, activity based, coached, youth recovery group. Many Hope Academy students attend.
- Speak at Schools. Hope students share their experience and hope with other students across the area.
- Duke Tumato. Duke Tumato of the music group REO Speedwagon (and others) joins weekly with Hope Students to play together guitar and talk recovery.
- St. Louis De Montfort Catholic Church Food Pantry. Students participated in annual food drive.
- Christmas Cards for Servicemen. Students participated in a special area program to send individually written Christmas card to service personnel in war zones and abroad.

1.5 Public Relations and Privacy Issues: Does the school have a plan to promote the school and its programs while respecting the privacy and safety of its students and families?
Evidence: Parent materials, privacy statements, public relations documents, FIRPA and HIPAA policy statements
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school has a comprehensive and professional public relations plan; b) has adequate emergency PR response procedures; c) the public relations plan promotes the school to the local community as well as to potential students; d) the school has adequate documentation and procedures for HIPAA; e)the school has adequate documentation and procedures for FERPA.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy has done an excellent job promoting the school to the local community as well as to potential students. Despite there not being strong adolescent treatment provision in Indiana, it is apparent the community has an awareness of the school and its mission. Local government, including the mayor's office, is aware of the program and has championed it. Recently, the Office of National Drug Control Policy attended the 2014 commencement ceremony, and Hope is has national prominence for its program. A newly designed website is easy to utilize and provides information about the school. One issue stated by staff is a belief that the community does not realize the school is free, and prevailing beliefs that students must go through Fairbanks first. These are images the school is trying to clarify and correct.

Hope has adequate and detailed emergency public-relations response procedures. The policy manual has explicit directions for how to handle media inquiries, including how to appoint a media spokesperson and procedures for students and staff to participate in public relations and media. There is a consent procedure and form for audio and videotaping, as well as clear procedures for how to report child abuse while protecting the student and how to safely use the Internet.

Unlike Fairbanks, Hope Academy is an educational program and thus is not governed by HIPAA. Still, the school requires consent to share info with anyone (therapists, treatment, probation officers, etc.), even though not bound by HIPAA regulations. As an academic institution receiving public funding, the policy manual does however provide for adequate documentation and procedures for FERPA.

The one deficit here is a comprehensive and professional public relations plan. While the school does have marketing materials, a functioning website, and has developed a national reputation, the accreditation team was not provided with a comprehensive public relations plan. There not evidence that there is a planned, cohesive process for how to market the school and promote its programs and successes, which suggest the various procedures and materials operate independently and organically (i.e., are created as needed or in reaction to an issue), rather that as part of a cohesive, constructive, and progressive plan. The school is urged to develop a comprehensive public relations plan to better carry out its vision and cultivate its image to the local community.

1.6 Program Evaluation: Does the school perform regular performance evaluations to improve overall staff quality and plans created to identify and address staff training needs?
Evidence: School documentation, focus groups, interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) the school disaggregates achievement and recovery data by student, class and for the entire school for the purpose of quality improvement; b) student assessment data is systematically analyzed for the entire school in order to identify gaps in educational performance; c) student recovery data is systematically analyzed for the entire school in order to identify gaps in recovery supports and relapse preventions.	Meets Standard Program evaluation is an area of particular strength for Hope Academy. Hope is one of the first recovery high schools to collect both academic and therapeutic outcomes data in a systematic way, using the GAIN for therapeutic outcomes and formative assessments for academic outcomes. The school reviews NWEA scores three times per year to examine growth from one point to the next. Summative end-of-year assessments in Algebra 1 and English 2 are mandated by the state as well. As a charter school, Hope must also participate in the Mayors Office Accountability system, which involve quarterly visits from an evaluation team to review program governance, finance, and curriculum. These visits compile data for charter renewal every 7 years. Hope sends reports on graduation rates and attendance to state Department of Education as well.

Staff receive one formal observations each semester with the principal. They also submit a reflective, self-evaluation, using the same rubric. Because the school is so small; staff report "everybody always knows what everybody is doing", which suggests informal assessment are perpetual. Teachers report the evaluation system "feels fair."

The school administration noted they have used data to make changes, such as when they saw a deficit in planning and time management, all students received a new backpack. Data have informed curriculum decisions as well. With the amount of data available, however, it is recommended that Hope continue to find more ways to utilize the data for program improvements, especially in the area of recovery supports.

School Community

2.1 Target Population: Does the school have a clearly defined eligibility criteria aligned with the mission to support recovery from substance use and co-occurring disorders?
Evidence: Admission materials, student handbook, admission policies
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) the admissions requirements clearly reflect the stated mission of the school; b) the school has clearly documented admission procedures: c) admission materials clearly define those admissions requirements; d) the admission materials are available in multiple formats; e) admission criteria contain substance abuse treatment requirements; f) admission criteria contain age and educational progress requirements; g) the school's admission requirements do not place an undue burden on applicants; h) lottery procedures (if needed) are simple and are fair to all applicants.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy's admissions requirements clearly reflect the stated mission of the school: "to provide a safe, sober, and challenging school experience for students who share a commitment to educational achievement and personal growth." Students first fill out an application. As a charter school, all students who wish to be admitted must be allowed to enroll. Once the school enrollment reaches 60 enrollment, students need to enter a lottery. While the school cannot deny students desiring admission, the emphasis of recovery support programming allows students to opt out if they are not willing to comply with expectations.

Through the intake process, students learn about the expectations of the school, and the school learns where students are at with their own recovery journey. Hope will request records from the student's prior school to understand academic record. The school also conducts a battery of social-emotional-behavioral testing. Each student has a checklist of people one needs to meet with at intake: office staff, school nurse, guidance counselor, recovery coordinator, and school administration. Through the intake procedure determines the student's alcohol/drug use and treatment history compared to the general population, though there is not a concrete rubric. Each prospective student completes a questionnaire with personal information, and each parent completes a "parent pledge" to encourage their child's recovery and education, and to be a positive role model. Students sign a pledge to be committed to recovery, to remain drug and alcohol free, and to work a recovery program. They also agree to report to staff about other students who are suspected to be using. Students expelled from other schools due to zero tolerance policies often apply for admission, and the school usually refers those students into treatment. A health history is also collected. The intake process can take from a couple days up to 5 days, but appear to be straightforward and do not place an undue burden on applicants.

The basic admission materials are available both in hard copy and online at http://www.hopeacademyrhs.org/enrollment. The online version informs prospective students, "You will have the opportunity to meet with the school's administration, ask questions and take a tour. Hope Academy is tuition-free, and is a great choice for young people who are seeking support for long-term recovery as well as parents who want to be involved in their student's academics and sobriety. If you are looking for a high school with small class sizes, caring teachers and staff, accountably and recovery support, Hope could be the answer." According to a recent charter review available online, the enrollment procedures, including lotteries, have been deemed fair and accessible:

> The admission and enrollment practices of Hope Academy meet the requirements of Indiana's charter school law. The Mayor's Office has received no complaints from parents regarding the school's enrollment practices. The school conducts extensive outreach to parents, including community fairs, a website, billboards, and yard signs throughout the community. The Mayor's Office receives copies of Hope's enrollment policies and marketing plans. The school has implemented a lottery system and gives preference to siblings of current students, as required by law. (http://www.indy.gov/OEI/CharterRenewal/Documents/HA%20Renewal%20Report%202012.pdf)

2.2 Enrollment Diversity: Do the school's admission and recruitment procedures reflect intentionality around enrolling a diverse student body?
Evidence: Admission materials, student handbook, admission policies
The school presents significant concerns in three of the following indicators: a) the admission materials are not available in multiple languages; b) the student handbook contains language promoting diversity; c) the diversity of the student body is comparable to that of the local school district.	Does Not Meet Standard

Enrollment diversity appears to be a challenge for Hope Academy, despite being free to students. None of the three indicators for this standard were apparent.

a) The admission materials are not available in multiple languages.

While the admission materials are available online and in hard copy, the only versions supplied to the accreditation team were in English. It is recommended the school at least offer to translate the materials, or present the materials in another language.

b) The student handbook does not contain language promoting diversity.

This indicator is intended to be pro-active and explicit. The Student & Family Handbook does mention a value of "respect" for others, and contains an anti-harassment policy that includes racial harassment (among multiple types of possible harassment). Promotion of diversity, though, is not explicitly stated in the handbook, nor is diversity defined so that students and families would feel welcomed. There is simply no language promoting human diversity. It is recommended the school more proactively attend to human diversity in its various forms in its literature.

c) The diversity of the student body is not comparable to that of the local school district.

As Hope Academy is a charter school with open enrollment not technically bound by a local school district, students come from multiple school districts. It is thus more reasonable to compare race and ethnicity enrollment data with that of the state. In Indiana public schools, about 70% of all students are White, but at Hope, publicly available data report about 90% of Hope students are White. While these numbers fluctuate throughout the year, this represents a significant difference that Hope administration is encouraged to address. If compared to the Indianapolis Public Schools, this number is even more concerning, as the enrollment in that urban district is only 23% White.

2.3 Transitional Planning & Support*: Does the school have clear procedures for transitioning students from traditional school, community or treatment settings into the recovery high school setting?
Evidence: School documents, focus groups, interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school has procedures in place to ensure that a student's prior educational records are obtained in a timely manner; b) the school has procedures in place to ensure that a student's prior treatment and placement records are obtained in a timely manner; c) student educational and recovery records/history is available to all members of the educational and therapeutic staff that are relevant; d) baseline assessments are gathered when a student enrolls and that data is shared with staff.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy has procedures in place to assist students with smooth transitions into and out of the school. The school has procedures in place to ensure that a student's prior educational records are obtained in a timely manner. At intake, a student's prior school records are obtained, though it is not a standard practice to contact prior counselors. In the case of a student with a special education certification, transition planning is mandated.

Regarding therapeutic transitions, Hope does have procedures in place to ensure that a student's prior treatment and placement records are obtained in a timely manner. The intake process requests consent forms so staff can communicate with prior treatment programs. As 75% of Hope students are referred through Fairbanks, there is a natural continuity of care for the vast majority of students. It is not clear how much of this information is directly communicated to staff, but relevant information is available to staff as needed. No staff member expressed feeling as though they lacked salient information to assist a new student.

A number of baseline assessments are gathered when a student enrolls. Again, while the data is available to staff as needed, it appears most therapeutic intake data is not used to assist the therapeutic program of the students. The focus of the school is academics, and formative assessments do assist in academic planning. Regarding transitional planning, there appears to be plenty of data available, both internal and external, but the focus in student assistance/placement is academic. It is recommended the school do more to help with recovery supports and transitions.

2.4 Climate & Culture*: Does the school utilize constructive rather than punitive practices that aim to generate and restore a sense of well-being among students and staff??
Evidence: School documents, focus groups, interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school: provides a discipline policy that is responsive rather than punitive; b) expectations and outcomes for staff behavior are clearly outlined in the employee handbook; c) expectations and outcomes for student behavior are clearly outlined in the student handbook; d) discipline policy is in line with philosophy of treatment; e) the discipline policy is fully implemented in the daily life of the school.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy strives to respond to disciplinary issues in a way that is responsive rather than punitive. The first paragraph of the discipline section in the handbook is about utilizing restorative practices, and this is evident in the school. Administrators, staff, and students all echoed this sentiment, and noted that they felt the expectations were clear. We were not provided with a handbook that outlined expectations and outcomes for staff behavior, so this would be an area of improvement. In interviews, staff did seem aware of their expectations. Formal observations are done each semester, and staff also does a reflective self-evaluation using the same rubric. As one teacher said, "The school is so small, everybody always knows what everybody is doing." This allows more informal intervention to keep employees issues from escalating into something requiring more formal action. Staff reported their evaluation system "feels fair."

The student handbook has exhaustive detail, outlining responses for very specific incidents, and varying for first offense, second offense, etc. On the one hand, the responses seem punitive (i.e., suspension, expulsion, etc.) However, across the top of each page is the statement, "Minor behaviors will be handled by the classroom teacher utilizing restorative practices. Continuous behavioral issues will be referred to Administrative Staff for disciplinary action." This suggests the punitive responses will be employed only when restorative practices have not kept minor behaviors from escalating into major offenses. Staff noted, "It can be exhausting to deal with all the issues students have, because you do want to help them...they want to talk and talk." They affirmed that staff tries to follow restorative discipline with students, and thus they try to handle most issues in the classroom. For bigger issues, teachers will often involve therapeutic staff first, and then move onto administrators, which is evidence the discipline policy is in line with philosophy of treatment.

Staff did express there is some "defiance" around putting cell phones away, and even gave an example of a student getting suspended for a day due to excessive cell phone usage. The sentiment though was more that, "Kids might say we are too light on them." One staff member noted he had not given a detention since his first year in the school, and staff felt suspension was reserved for times a "student is so toxic to the community they need to stay home for the day." Discipline is progressive, meaning it takes awhile to build up to a suspension. Students noted that the main behavioral issues were public displays of affection ("PDA") and not being in class. Students felt discipline was individualized, and one student expressed, "There is lots of leeway based on who you are. Teachers will be one way with one student, but different with another." For this reason, teachers felt students often tried to pit one teacher against another, but there was staff cohesion and "we are supportive of one another." Students felt the students assigned to the STARR Room were "quarantined from others, and that is helpful." Some teachers agreed the individualization lead to inconsistent enforcement, and one stated, "They go to talk with someone higher, and they get what they want." Some teachers felt the administration did not always carry out discipline decisions that staff has come up with. Overall, the staff felt the disciplinary system worked best when there was a meeting with teacher, student, and administrators, in part because this cut down on the triangulation.

2.5 Parent Engagement: Does the school actively engage parents, guardians and families, with parents/guardians are recognized and involved as partners in the education and recovery process? Does the school provide training and support for families to promote the healthy growth and academic achievement of each student?
Evidence: School documents, parent interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school frequently communicates with parents; b) information shared with parents is relevant and timely; c) parents feel welcome to visit school; d) the school provides support for parents to be part of their child's recovery; e) the school provides easy to understand academic and sobriety data; f) the school provides information in a variety of modes, including both paper and electronic communications.	Meets Standard

Parent engagement appeared to be an area of particular strength. Parents overwhelmingly asserted the school had had a positive impact on their family. One parent went so far as to say the Hope experiences were "all positives". Most agreed that communication had been virtually "non-existent" in prior schools, but there communication at Hope was both frequent and varied. Examples include regular emails, texts, and phone calls, and a "fabulous" website. One example of this communication was an incident where a parent received a text from her daughter about having a "bad day". The mother proceeded to call the school, left a voicemail, and she heard back from the principal "in 20 minutes". Another example was when a teacher texted a student to check in after a friend had overdosed. While the text was to a student, the parents felt this was evidence of trying to communicate beyond the school day, which provided a helpful support to parents.

The school tries to place some boundaries around the sharing of information in order to give parents a chance to turn the academics over to professional. Grades are not available online, and though academic progress reports are generated every two weeks, these are only sent home if a grade falls below a "C". As one parent said, "no news is good news." Therapeutic data compiled by the clinical specialist is also provided to the family.

An attendance letter is provided at the end of every term. However, the small size of the school allows for instant communication, such as a text or email if a student is not in school. There are student-led conferences twice year to discuss academic and therapeutic issues.

According to administrators and staff, some parents are "highly engaged", and some "not at all". One staff member said parental involvement came in extremes. "They are either all in or all out." Other the communication about students, parents were involved with fundraising, running special events, and chaperoning. There is a parent open house as well. Still, staff felt parents could be more involved in ways, such as the 8am-9am "unsupervised time" before school starts or a parent "booster club"

Administrators follow FERPA regulations with regards to academic records, and though the school is not bound by HIPAA, they secure signed consent from parents to share information with anyone (such as therapists, treatment providers, and probation officers). This has created an environment of trust from the parents. As one staff member explained, some parents have "treatment fatigue, and they thank God their child is in school".

2.6 Sensitivity to Differences*: Does the school create policies and procedures that promote sensitivity to human differences, and are responsive to individual student's developmental needs?
The school presents significant concerns in two of the following indicators: a) school policies are not in place that promote the acceptance of diversity among students, including gender, race, ethnicity and sexual orientation; b) responses to violations of the schools policies are not fully documented and clearly outlined; c) the school response to violations are not in line with the severity of the violation.	Approaches Standard

Hope Academy has clearly stated policies for harassment, sexual harassment, and bullying. This along with the small school environment and restorative principals is intended to create a climate of acceptance. A dress code is in place to remove as much as possible stratification around income and communication of gang affiliation. The bullying policy in particular delineates that ALL bullying is prohibited, not just harassment for "sex, race, color, national origin, marital status, or disability."

While harassment is prohibited, though, no policies explicitly "promote acceptance" of such diversity. According to administrators, the school has both low-income families and high- income families, but "not much in between". The school has little racial diversity and few students with physical disabilities, so violations to this effect would be minimal. The harassment and bullying policies suggest any discriminatory practices would be documented and addressed based on the case. The discipline policy has six pages dedicated to explaining consequences for 25 different behaviors, and only two would apply to human differences (one for bullying/harassment and the other for disrespectful language). Policies that promote sensitivity to human differences and documentation procedures for discriminatory violations are not explicit, however. This area thus seems to be one in need of more specificity and intentionality rather than waiting for a more diverse student body or an incident of some sort requiring a reactionary procedure.

Recovery Practices

3.1 Recovery Supports: Are recovery supports and relapse prevention measures meeting the needs of students?
Evidence: School documents, focus groups and interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school staff reports that they are providing recovery supports and relapse preventions measures that meet the needs of their students; b) the students believe that the current recovery supports and relapse preventions are meeting their needs; c) there are clear and regular lines of communication between staff members regarding student needs for support and prevention measures; d) students report that they are making progress in their recovery efforts.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy hired a new principal following the visit of the accreditation team, and concerns regarding recovery supports appear to have been addressed. Subsequent interviews with Hope Academy administration and documentation from students indicate Hope Academy has buttressed its recovery supports adequately. The school staff concurs that recovery supports and relapse prevention are meeting the needs of students. The clinical staff includes a "clinical specialist", a recovery coach, and a school counselor. They collaborate regular with teachers, administrators, and support staff to form a team-based approach for students. The new principal reported the school has a "healthy balance" between academics and recovery. "They are almost embedded in each other." One of the primary issues concerning reviewers during the visit was student feedback that suggested the current supports were not meeting every student's needs. While they acknowledged the school's mission to be a drug-free environment that fosters recovery, many students expressed that the school was too lenient on relapsers, and basically students were responsible to themselves. Some representative quotes included,

- "If you screw up, it is on you. Most of the student body do not give a damn. They don't care about recovery... From people who are in recovery, you get a lot of support."
- "Quite a few people say the right things. I don't say anything to people who relapsed, because 'it is none of my damn business...People don't usually get the lesson unless they learn it themselves...There is a level of respect for individual's journeys. Calling people out will make you look like a snitch."
- "I relapsed, passed a drug screen, and when I said it, nothing happened, but I just moved my owl down....If you are honest about it, do not have to do an unpacking. (Half of these 6 have relapsed and not done an unpacking."
- "(Policy says) if you lie, you will get expelled. But people lie all the time and don't get expelled."

With new leadership, there has been an apparent culture change. Some representative comments from letters written for a class assignment following the hiring of a new principal (and some programmatic restructuring) include:

- "Hope Academy is a great environment for young people to get and stay clean. The staff is always there to lend a helping hand, and so are the students."
- "The staff at Hope are a huge part of my sobriety. They are constantly checking in on me to make sure I'm doing well. If I'm even the slightest bit down they notice immediately and do anything they can to help me. We get drug tested often, and it is very important to teenagers in early sobriety to have that kind of accountability. We have a recovery coach who is 7 years clean himself, and due to that he can provide us with insight that not many other people would be able to give us. We have a program for students who are struggling and who have recently relapsed, and it is extremely helpful. We have a mental health doctor who specializes in addiction."

These comments suggest the staff is not only supportive, but that students are progressing in their recovery. There are also renewed efforts to communicate with staff, including a Tuesday afternoon meeting with staff called the "Recovery Culture Leadership Team".

3.2 Recovery Climate: Does the school provide a recovery-oriented school climate that promotes collegial relationships among faculty, students, and their families?
Evidence: School documents, focus groups and interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school provides a strong recovery community; b) relationships between staff and students are respectful and collegial; c) the school incorporates an intake process that involves faculty, students, and their families; d) recovery policies and supports are clearly defined for students and families as part of the intake process; e) recovery related talk is modeled and supported by school staff; f) there are opportunities for students and staff to provide positive feedback and support as part of the school culture.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy provides a strong recovery community, which has improved significantly since hiring a new principal. One student said, "The community is welcoming and kind." Another student wrote this description of the climate, which supports not only substance use recovery but recovery from a co-occurring disorder:

> In all my years of school, I have never been able to talk to my teachers the way I do now. I have good relationships with every one of my teachers, and I know they are always there for me. I feel comfortable telling them things, because I know they will accept me for who I am or what I've done. Our school is also unique because of something very useful called the Serenity Room. It's a room students can go to if they need a little break to think about things or calm themselves down, I like the Serenity room because it actually gives kids a chance to cool down instead of blowing up on someone. The classes are also very helpful, and normally not too boring, which is good for people like me who have ADHD. The last thing that makes Hope Academy unique is our community circle that we have every Monday and Friday, because it gives students a chance to talk about what's going on in their lives and just check in with everyone, which is cool because no other school does that.

As this student writes, the relationships between staff and students are respectful. It is not uncommon to here that teachers, administrators, and peers accept students for who they are. The small size of the school also means the function is more familial than organizational.

Hope's intake process involves faculty, students, and their families, and the recovery policies and supports are clearly defined for students and families as part of the intake process. As one administrator said, students get the message during this process, "This staff cares about me. That is the piece that keeps them here...We will not give up on you." Consequently, one student reported, "This is the first sane place I've been."

Even though there are no licensed alcohol & drug professionals on the staff, the recovery coach has over 7-years of sobriety, and professional development helps teachers and administrators learn about substance use disorders and the recovery process. Consequently, recovery related talk was evident in the school.

The small size and openness of administrators also provides an environment in which students feel comfortable speaking their minds to administrators and staff. While this seems more organic than formal, it appears to be effective. Feedback given to the new principal after a few months indicates both the recovery climate and the school's willingness to grow. One student said, "This isn't how we did things last year." According to the principal, the students understood "we were not just being mean. We really cared for them." Another student had said early on, "I'll have her out of a job in two weeks", but came to the principal later and said, "I'm glad you're still here."

3.3 Recovery Assessment: Does the school collect data for initial screening, progress monitoring, and outcome measures to assess and improve short and long-term results for students?
Evidence: School documents, focus groups, interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school collects screening data that are reliable and fully implemented; b) performs active progress monitoring; c) collects outcome measures that are reliable and implemented well; d) data is provided to teaching staff and counselors on a regular basis; e) data is actively used to improve student outcomes.	Meets Standard

Assessments represent an area of particular strength for Hope Academy. Because as a charter school Hope must admit all students who want to enroll, the school makes every effort to determine the proper fit for a student. As part of the intake, staff will determine whether to place a new student in the STARR Room or in the Hope general population. As part of intake, students and parents fill out an application, and then students undergo a battery of testing with the clinical specialist. According to administrators, the intake process tells about expectations of school, trying to determine where students are with their own recovery journey. This process can take from a couple days up to 5 days as they try to determine how best to support a student.

The school attempts to use robust instruments, such as the GAIN, which allows the school to collect reliable follow-up data as well. Beyond regular urinalysis, the school performs active progress monitoring, especially during the first 90 days. Most recently, the school has implemented SoberSystems, a trademarked mobile app. Its website describes the app as "a Mobile Recovery Management application designed to strengthen an individual's commitment to recovery through accountability, goal setting and daily check-in." Students answer 9 questions every morning, and that information goes into a database. Staff can gauge if students have relapsed or are struggling. The principal called this "a lifeline for the student." Each Tuesday afternoon the "Recovery Culture Leadership Team" meets to monitor student progress. This team involves the Recovery Coach, School Counselor, Nurse, Clinical Specialist, and Principal. When a student relapses, the Clinical Specialist will lead an "Unpacking" exercise to determine the root cause of the relapse. The full staff meets every Tuesday morning and Thursday afternoon, with the Thursday afternoon focus being "who is struggling; who needs help."

One long-standing feature at Hope is the "Recovery Wall" display, which is monitored by the recovery coach. This wall displays the length of sobriety each student has, and it is updated weekly, or after a relapse. While data are provided to teaching staff and counselors on a regular basis, teachers did express they wished they were kept abreast of more details surrounding student issues on a day-to-day basis. Still, it does appear that the information collected is actively used to support students case-by-case, and ultimately to improve student outcomes.

3.4 Recovery Staff Evaluation & Professional Development: Is the therapeutic staff appropriately trained for their current positions, with ongoing professional development in areas salient to its school community, such as mental health and therapeutic practices, cultural competence, and adolescent development?
Evidence: School documentation, focus groups, interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The therapeutic staff members are appropriately licensed in their respective fields; b) deployed in sufficient number and in positions to maximize their contributions to the school; c) regularly evaluated using a well designed performance evaluation system; d) the performance evaluation system is understood by all staff; e) the staff receives regular feedback from the performance evaluations; f) the staff receives professional development in evidence-based best practices in substance abuse and co-occurring disorders.	Meets Standard

A main strength in this standard lies in the evaluation system, which applies to all staff and is described in more detail in section 1.6. Additionally, professional development is provided at the beginning of every year, at least, over a course of a few days. The clinical specialist and professors/researchers from Indiana Wesleyan have studied recovery and Hope Academy in particular, and they provide staff trainings. These professional development opportunities allow staff who may not be in recovery themselves (such as the principal) to understand the recovery process and how adolescent development impacts that process.

The clinical specialist is considered the therapeutic coordinator, and is an excellent resource for the community. He has two masters degrees and a doctorate in Psychology and Theology and is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker. Staff unanimously praised his contributions. The chief operating officer for Fairbanks, and one of the school's founders and chief designers, is a Certified Addiction Counselor in Indiana. The school counselor has a masters degree in school counseling. The recovery coach has over 7-years of sobriety, and is essentially the coordinator of the recovery monitoring in the school. While he is not licensed or certified, at the time of the accreditation site visit, he was pursuing certification. When the enrollment is at capacity, it is questionable whether these staff members represent a sufficient ratio, as the clinical specialist and COO are not full-time in the school. This leaves the recovery support staff function to the recovery coach and the school counselor, who acknowledges her training is more academic than recovery-based. Additionally, the new principal does not have a clinical background or certification either. Considering the co-occurring disorders prevalent in a recovery school population, having another person with a clinical mental health certification available to students on a full-time basis could be an area of improvement in the coming years.

3.5 Relapse Prevention: Does the school have services available which help support the students' plan to abstain from substance use and recover from co-occurring disorders, from intervention through recovery maintenance and relapse prevention?
Evidence: School documents, focus groups and interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school has services available to support students with a licensed substance abuse counselor available to students on a daily basis; b) has mandatory, random drug testing occurs on a regular basis; c) processes for all students to develop and monitor their own plans of recovery are in place; d) has peer support and psycho-educational groups occur on a regular basis; e) has specific policies are in place to support relapsed students; f) students are provided with access to mental health professionals on a regular basis.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy does an excellent job monitoring for relapse, and has interventions in place once a student does relapse. During the accreditation visit, some students questioned how serious the school was about intervening and removing students who might be actively using. As described in indicators 3.1 and 3.2, however, the new principal has led a culture change in which students seem much more positive about the recovery supports. As an accountability measure, the school does mandatory, random drug testing on a regular basis, with procedures clearly outlined in the policy manual. The school can also do indicated screening for students suspected of using.

A number of processes are in place for students and staff to monitor plans of recovery. For students in their first 90-days, the SoberSystems application is utilized (see indicator 3.3). Students complete audit sheets that allows the recovery coach to maintain a "dashboard" indicating relapse, drug screens, not going to meetings or enough meetings, not meeting with sponsor, etc. The Global Appraisal of Individual Needs is used to screen new enrollees, and the school administers it as a follow-up four times per year. An Indiana Wesleyan interns then monitors GAIN data for "red flags". Specific issues aren't necessarily shared, which was something teachers wished they had more specifics about, but for students, there are plenty of opportunities to monitor progress on recovery plans.

Hope Academy has multiple opportunities for peer support, and psycho-educational groups occur on a regular basis.

- Monday and Friday "community circle" groups used to be facilitated by the recovery coach, but this year the circles have been turned over to the students, and the coach now assigns students to lead the group. The coach oversees it.
- The recovery coach leads and assists with basic skills classes, and he manages the 90 in 90 app system and the recovery wall display.
- The STARR Room used to function basically as in-school suspension or "a place to sit". Now, it is used as a "transition room for students struggling with recovery and academics". Only kids in the STARR room are those that are assigned there. Length of stay is 15 days, during which time teachers bring academics, and the recovery coach drops in two days/week.
- One Friday each month is now called "Community Friday". During these days, students have a round robin of sessions, and then do a recovery activity (such as a speaker). This is followed by a group activity, such as problem solving, trivia, "Recommitting to Hope Student" pledge, trust activity, etc. These Fridays features small group team building.

Students who relapse are allowed to stay in enrolled if they honestly report their relapse. Multiple relapses may lead to transition into the STARR Room or removal from the school on a case by case basis. Students during the accreditation visit expressed concern that students were allowed far too many relapses without consequences, though it appears this has been improved. One feature of Hope that is unique but powerful is the Unpacking exercise, created and facilitated by the clinical specialist. Students who have relapses participate in an Unpacking in order to (according to a PowerPoint presentation):

- To facilitate a personal deconstruction (i.e., "to take apart or examine in order to reveal the basis or composition with the intention...of exposing biases, flaws, or inconsistencies", Merriam-Webster, 2007) of a problematic event.
- To re-engage a youth with his or her memories of the specified event;
- To help the youth reconstruct the event as a flow of experiential units ("units of happenings")—"What happened?" "And then what happened?" "And then what happened?" and so forth.
- To have the youth relate from memory thinking and feelings associated with each of the experiential units.
- To have the youth make "holistic" observations as to the direction, cohesiveness, and outcome of his or her behavior.
- To have the youth evaluate his/her behavior in the event to personal beliefs, values, goals, dreams and aspirations? Clarify the discrepancies.
- To clarify motivation for behavior change, points for possible change, and challenges to making changes.

These unpackings have allowed the school to create typologies around student relapses that have informed the school's responses and expectations.

As stated in indicator 3.4, while students are provided with access to mental health professionals on a regular basis, the ratio of students to full-time licensed/certified clinical mental health professionals could be decreased. In the absence of enough therapeutic staff members, teachers or other unqualified staff may fill in gaps. However, students did express that they feel emotionally supported at the school, and even that the school has "saved" their lives in some cases. The school does not have a licensed substance abuse counselor available to students on a daily basis, though the COO who is active in running the school is a Certified Addiction Counselor, the recovery coach is pursuing certification, and Fairbanks Hospital has numerous licensed addictions staff available on the grounds for consult.

3.6 Recovery Transition: Does the school have criteria and plans in place to help students transition smoothly from the recovery supports provided by the high school in order to maintain their sobriety?
Evidence: School documents, focus groups and interviews
The school presents significant concerns in three of the following indicators: a) the school does not work with students to design a transition plan for recovery supports after high school; b) the transition plan is not a logical extension of the current recovery plan the student is under; c) the recovery plan does include information abt recovery supports in the community that student will have easy access to; d) the recovery plan does not include access to mental health professionals when needed.	Does Not Meet Standard

Transitions are addressed in the academic area (college night, FAFSA preparation, applications, etc.), but in the recovery area, it appears little formal programming is in place. At intake, the school collects school records, consent forms, and discipline records, though it is not a standard practice to contact prior counselors. When a student leaves the school, an exit interview must be conducted as required by state policy, but these interviews require specific questions that must be copied for each interview. The purpose of the exit interviews appears to be more for school improvement and accountability than for assisting student transitions. Students with IEPs also require transition planning per their certified disability, but this is unlikely to be recovery specific.

In the area of recovery, Hope Academy does not work with students to design a formal transition plan for recovery supports after high school, and there is no transitions plan that is a logical extension of the recovery plan a student may be following while enrolled. Students would obviously be aware of recovery supports in the community should they remain in the area after leaving the school. Should they plan to relocate, however, the school does not have a formal procedure for linking students into recovery supports or mental health professionals in their new community.

Graduates who stay in the area are welcome to come back, and this can be a way to help transition into a less structured environment. Former students, however, are advised not to come back during day because it can be a distraction. Outside school hours, though, former students have been peer tutors and run 12-step meetings. The administration says the Hope has a "good cadre of alums", and the school has considered formalizing positions and titles.

The absence of criteria and plans to help students transition smoothly from the recovery supports provided by the high school in order to maintain their sobriety is an area needing attention, and thus these indicators do not meet the standard. We recommend developing a formal procedure for helping students concretely plan steps to take care of their recovery either when they transfer to another high school, enroll in college, or enter a full-time workplace.

Educational Practices

4.1 Diploma: Does the school offer credits leading to a state-recognized high school diploma and does the school offer all courses needed to graduate?
Evidence: School documents, focus groups, interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school offers credits leading to a high school diploma; b) the core courses needed are offered with enough frequency to allow a student to graduate on schedule; c) all courses are offered on site or at a convenient location for students; d) The school curriculum is aligned to Common Core e) the school offers accelerated coursework or opportunities for advanced students or appropriate remediation for students who are struggling.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy is a charter school in Indianapolis, and as such must meet the academic standards to offer credits leading to graduation. The school offers credits leading to a high school diploma, and the school receives regular review of its curriculum and instruction from state and district officials. One of the strengths is Hope's facility. While the facility is linked by a walkway to Fairbanks Hospital, the school classrooms, administrative offices, and meeting spaces are physically distinct. The STARR Room is offset from the regular classrooms, and students do not interact with Hope Academy general population. This means students are able to take classes without concern about encountering students who may be actively using/selling drugs during the school day. The setting offers many spaces for instruction, and classrooms are comfortable and modern. Students are able to receive all academic and therapeutic services on-site. They do share cafeteria space with the hospital, but do not use at the same time as patients.

According to the school administration, Indiana adopted common core, but then repealed it. Still, the state has a 7-year cycle on approved curriculum, and each year Hope Academy submits to a review. This review consists of curriculum maps along with scope & sequence reports. Hope's teachers use these standards as guidelines for developing their coursework, though they do have a lot of autonomy. Because of the class sizes, there are opportunities to accelerate or remediate as needed. Seems there are opportunities to systematize this a bit more, however.

4.2 High Quality Curriculum & Instruction*: Does the school provide a high quality curriculum and classroom instruction of high quality?
Evidence: School documents, focus groups, interviews, curriculum review
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school provides a quality education that includes a rigorous curriculum that is focused on core learning objectives across the curriculum; b) the curriculum is systematically reviewed to ensure there are no gaps in student knowledge: c) quality classroom lessons that are appropriately paced; d) the school provides lessons that are rigorous; e) classroom materials are available for quality instruction; f) lessons that are differentiated according to student learning styles; g) classroom lessons have clear goals and outcomes.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy provides a high quality curriculum and classroom instruction of high quality. Everyone associated with the school believes the mission has two foci, recovery and education. Because it is a state-approved charter school, the school is expected to provide a quality education that includes a rigorous curriculum focused on core learning objectives across the curriculum. While the accreditation team did classroom observations and interviews, we also relied on state accreditation review documents. This suggests the Hope faculty is meeting its obligations in the academic area sufficiently to meet state graduation requirements. In fact, it appears Hope Academy may be more rigorously and systematically observed than many other recovery high schools based on Indiana's accountability requirements.

Classroom observations revealed quality lessons that were appropriately paced. The only item consistently absent based on the classroom observation rubric was the posting of learning objectives. Classroom observers found the curriculum was implemented according to its design, was aligned with state standards that were outlined on lesson plans, and had sufficient and appropriate materials. The pace and content were of appropriate rigor. Instructors also used strategies like small groups, peer-to-peer, and teacher led discussions to differentiate instruction and engage a wide range of student interests, abilities, and learning needs.

4.3 Data-driven Instruction*: Is the school curriculum and classroom instruction data-driven?
Evidence: Classroom observations, document review, lesson plans and curriculum maps
The school presents significant concerns in two of the following indicators: a) does not use standardized and/or classroom assessments that are accurate and useful measures of established learning standards/objectives; b) these assessment results are not received by classroom teachers in a timely and useful manner to influence instructional decisions; c) assessments do not have sufficient variety to guide instruction for a wide range of student learning abilities; d) frequency or use of assessments is not sufficient to inform instructional decisions effectively; e) assessment results are not used to guide instruction or make adjustments to curriculum.	Approaches Standard

Hope Academy does use standardized and/or classroom assessments that are accurate and useful measures of established learning standards/objectives. Two primary standardized assessments are used: state End-of-Year (EOY) assessments (in Algebra 1 and English 11) administered annually, and the Northwest Evaluation Association's (NWEA) Measures of Academic Progress (MAP), which is administered three times per year. The EOY assessments are summative, while the NWEA assessments are intended to be formative and measure student progress. Administrators look at NWEA scores three times per year to gauge growth from one assessment to the next.

Hope can be commended for using the NWEA program, as it allows for a variety of assessments across curricular areas that is more flexible than the state mandated EOY assessments. Also, by administering three times/year, teachers have the opportunity to utilize the outcomes in a formative way. This, however, is an area in need of growth to meet this standard. The frequency or timing of assessments could inform instructional decisions more effectively. Teachers do not meet regularly to discuss teaching and learning, and there was no evidence that assessments were used regularly to guide instruction. It is recommended the school consider how better to use the assessments to impact student instruction.

4.4 Teaching Staff Evaluation & Professional Development: Is the teaching staff appropriately trained for their current positions, and does the school perform regular performance evaluation to improve the quality of instruction? Does the school provide professional development in areas salient to the education community?
Evidence: Classroom observations, document review, Special Education File review; IEP audit
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The teaching staff members are appropriately licensed in their respective fields; b) and are deployed in sufficient number and in positions to maximize their contributions to the school; c) staff is regularly evaluated using a well designed performance evaluation system; d) the performance evaluation system is understood by all staff; e) the staff receives regular feedback from the performance evaluations; f) the staff receives professional development in evidence-based best practices in education.	Meets Standard

The teaching staff members meet Indiana's requirements to teach in a charter school, and they are deployed in sufficient number and in positions to maximize their contributions to the school. During the accreditation visit, the following six teachers were on staff:

- One teacher taught Art, Special Education, and provided instruction for students at Fairbanks Hospital two-hours/day. This teacher had been at Hope Academy for three years.
- One teacher taught Math, co-hosted a guitar club. This teacher had been at Hope Academy for three years.
- One teacher taught Social Studies. This teacher had been at Hope Academy for six years.
- One teacher taught English and coordinated the newspaper. This teacher had been at Hope Academy for one year.
- One teacher taught Science. This teacher had been at Hope Academy for three years.
- One teacher taught in the STARR Room, but taught Art and served as a permanent substitute at Hope.

A main strength in this standard lies in the evaluation system, which applies to all staff and is described in more detail in section 1.6. Additionally, professional development is provided at the beginning of every year, at least, over a course of a few days, and teachers reported receiving useful feedback from this system. The State of Indiana mandates the use of the RISE Evaluation model, and the State allowed charters to modify the rubric. Hope Academy wrote a modified RISE. Hope also asks teachers to reflect upon their own practice. Staff stated that they understood the system and found it fair.

The one area of this standard in need of improvement is around professional development. The school supports teachers going to conferences, but teachers felt it can be a struggle to do this. They also felt more could be done to inform them of relevant conferences coming up. Teachers indicated that they do not participate in regular professional development focused on evidence-based practices in teaching and learning as individuals or as a team. Most of the professional development time is spent on issues related to adolescent development and substance abuse and not teaching and learning. Additionally, the Wednesday student accommodation meeting does not include the special education teacher even though approximately 1/3 of the students have IEPs. One thing missing that would also be helpful, according to teachers, would be the opportunity to get lesson plans and curriculum from other teachers.

4. 5 Special Education Services: Does the school have educational and behavioral plans in place to address the spectrum of student exceptionality?
Evidence: School documents, focus groups, interviews
The school presents significant concerns in two of the following indicators: a) the school does not have a special education staff that is well-trained and appropriately licensed; b) all student IEP's are not up-to-date and do not contain the appropriate signatures; c) student goals and educational outcomes are not designed for each student; d) student testing and assessment are not up to date; e) students with IEP are not making adequate academic progress; f) Special Education staff are not receiving appropriate training and professional development opportunities in the area of special education; g) school policies and practices are not designed to provide promote the best outcomes for exceptional students.	Approaches Standard

Hope Academy had an experienced and certified special education teacher, and the school kept all student IEP's up-top date with appropriate signatures. The special education teacher came in two times a week for 10 hours total (Tuesday and Thursday). On Tuesday she participated in an all-staff meeting which focused on general announcements/updates. Meeting on student accommodations occured on Wednesday, but because she was not at the school on Wednesdays, the special education teacher did not attend. The special education teacher provided support for the other teachers that provided teachers with a Basic Skills curriculum. She also provided support for teachers in the STARR room, reviewing student performance and accommodations. She indicated teachers were skilled at providing differentiated instruction.

At the beginning of the school year Ms. Rooks sends out overview and accommodations for all the students with IEP's. As students enroll during the year she sends them out individually. This communication is done mostly electronically and due to limited time there is little direct communication with teachers about student performance.

The vast majority of services were provided to students in class. Only two students were receiving services outside of the classroom. The special education teacher determined these students "Homebound." She provided direct instruction to these students four hours a week.

The special education teacher reported that her biggest challenge was related to not having enough time to provide all of the necessary services on a 10 hour per week schedule. After taking care of administrative responsibilities there was little time for direct instruction or teacher support. Due to her limited time the special education teacher's efforts were directed mostly on administrative tasks such as conducting IEP meetings for new students.

Every new student was required to have a case conference within the first ten days. The team reviewed three files. All files were constructed similarly and contained all the necessary information including the following:

- Parent contact log
- Release of information
- Recent school administrative hearings –expulsion, manifestation
- Current IEP including testing data and previous IEP conferences
- Progress monitoring
- Transition folders
- Feedback from teachers on student performance
- Student academic report cards and progress reports

This standard is approaching success in that two areas are inadequate. First, the special education teacher spends minimal time working directly with the students or engaging in discussions and strategies to support the learning of exceptional students. And second, while there was no evidence students with IEPs were not making adequate academic progress as required by the State and the student's IEP, school policies and practices are not designed to provide promote the best outcomes for exceptional students. Although experienced and certified, the special education teacher only works on staff 10 hours a week. There was very little training provided by Hope Academy for the special education teacher, and any training she received was done on her own initiative and not connected to Hope Academy. Suggestions for improvement in this area include:

- Expand Special Education teacher's hours from current amount of 10. This would allow the special education teacher to spend additional time supporting the students' learning needs in addition to the administrative/curriculum tasks she currently completes.
- Special education teacher should participate in Wednesday meeting where student accommodations are discussed.
- Special education teacher should have more access to professional development opportunities.

4.6 Post-Secondary Transitions: Does the school have criteria and plans in place to help students transition smoothly from the recovery high school to the student's next educational or workforce setting, preparing the student for the broadest selection of reasonable post-secondary options?
Evidence: School documents, focus groups, interviews
The school presents concerns in one or fewer of the following indicators: a) The school provides a counselor who is trained to provide career and post-secondary advice; b) opportunities exist to explore post-secondary options; c) opportunities exist to explore workforce opportunities; d) workforce development training is available; e) ACT and SAT prep are available.	Meets Standard

Hope Academy employs a master's level school counselor who is assists with college and career transitions. As part of her master's program, she received training in career and post-secondary advice. In addition, the special education teacher provides transition planning as required per IEPs.

According to the administration, most students go to community college as a next step, though some will look at 4-year college. Some students also pursue the military.The school participates in a college night, and the school counselor assists with preparation of the FAFSA and college applications.

Workforce development training is available through the basic skills class. In addition, financial literacy is a state requirement.

The administration reports that about 30-40% of students take the ACT/SAT while enrolled at HOPE, but Hope does not off a specific prep course for those tests. Due to the small size of classes, students could receive assistance for these tests in regular course work. Test prep is something the school could consider adding, however.

To Whom It May Concern,

I would like to take this opportunity to express my support for Hope Academy's charter application. I believe Hope Academy has provided a valuable educational option to families in the Indianapolis area who are looking to prepare their children early in their academic track while also getting them the treatment they need, and I have no doubts that they will continue to do so.

Hope Academy provides a much needed service to the Indianapolis area, having served more than 700 students in the past 13 years. It is Indiana's only fully accredited recovery high school for teens who are in recovery from substance-use issues. Hope Academy is a public, tuition free institution that has received national recognition for its innovative education model for students in recovery. Their mission is to provide a safe, sober, restorative and challenging school experience for high school students recovering from alcoholism and/or drug addiction who have made a commitment to personal recovery, have a desire to learn, want to attain a high school diploma and are willing to be an active part of a school community of like-minded students and faculty. Given that nearly 80% of all young people in recovery return to drug use within a year of returning to a traditional high school, Hope Academy operates as a proven alternative that will help keep our young Hoosiers on the right track.

Thank you for your consideration of this letter, and for your work in authorizing high-quality charter schools that provide valuable educational options to Hoosier families. If you have any questions regarding my support for Hope Academy's application, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Dear Mr. McAlister,

In 2006, Fairbanks embarked on a new educational endeavor. As a nationally recognized substance use health provider, we saw a need to provide comprehensive support to adolescents on their journey toward sobriety. In order to achieve this aspect of our mission, we worked with the City of Indianapolis to start Hope Academy (Hope). We are proud that Hope was one of the first charter schools in Indiana to receive bi-partisan support. More importantly, we are proud to be the incubator and home of the only recovery high school in Indiana and one of 5 nationally accredited recovery high schools. In addition to being an innovative educational model of excellence, Hope has also done larger community work set forth by Fairbanks' mission. In the attachments section you will find numerous examples of Hope teaching about adolescent and teen substance usage via public media outlets.

As Indiana faces one of the most devastating substance abuse crises in its history, Hope's educational experience is more important to our future than ever before. As you will see from our prospectus, Hope has developed, tested, and proven that a comprehensive educational program is a critical piece to ensuring that adolescents and teens recover from substance usage. Ensuring that students across Indianapolis have access to a high quality experience that is steeped in both education and sobriety has always been our goal. We believe over the last 13 years we have created something on the north side that is critical to ensuring that the entire city of Indianapolis recovers from the manifestation of the opioid crisis. Fairbanks is pleased to share that in order to broaden the scope and impact of Hope Academy, we have chosen to launch Hope into its own organization, The Hope Academy, Inc. We believe that Hope's mission and services are uniquely positioned to serve the city in a more impactful way given the level of substance uses we see across the city.

As a medical and educational provider, we at Fairbanks have established a reputation for high quality services and a strong organization backbone. We are engaged in strategic actions specific to a smooth and seamless transitional phase. Rachelle Gardner, Hope's current COO, along with the Hope Academy board, are leading the school through this transitional phase. I am pleased to support their plan for moving forward. I believe Hope will be able to ensure that students across the city of Indianapolis have authentic access to a high quality educational experience via the model we have nurtured over the past 13 years.

Rachelle Gardner,

Indianapolis Classical Schools is supportive of Hope Academy as it pursues a new charter through the Mayor of Indianapolis.

Schools are being asked to address many student challenges above and beyond education. It is not uncommon for students to come to school carrying challenges, burdens and behaviors that require specialized expertise that stretch all those charged with meeting the demands of 21st century education. Consequently, collaboration and partnership with organizations like Hope Academy that have expertise and experience in a particular subspecialty can fill the need for both the student and the school. The recovery school model focuses on academics while providing education and skill building around recovery from the impact of substances. Hope Academy is a pathway to help students who are facing suspension and or expulsion due to substance use in school. It is an alternative to suspension and expulsion for students struggling with substance use.

We consider Hope Academy a valuable partner to provide our students in critical need of special supports with a more suitable environment to aid their recovery and drive academic success.

Please accept this letter as an indication of our enthusiastic support of Hope Academy as they pursue a new charter. We believe that Hope Academy is a necessary partner for all schools to use as an alternative to suspension and expulsion and assist in making sure the students struggling with substance use have a safe and supportive environment focused on academic success.

To Whom It May Concern:

I write this letter to express my adamant support for Hope Academy, and urge you to share in this support by approving their request for authorization.

Hope Academy is one of the best schools in Indiana that offers quality education options to high school students in recovery. The safe, supportive environment Hope creates grants its pupils the rare opportunity to continue both their education and their recovery without compromising one form of growth for the other. The needs of students in recovery vary from those of traditional students. By helping to fulfill their unique demands, Hope empowers its students to regain control of their futures in a way that many other schools cannot.

The work this organization does is immensely valuable to both the Indianapolis community and the state, which is why I've supported their efforts for several years. I've helped ensure language in the state budget that provided additional appropriations for Hope students under the alternate daily attendance formula. This formula is just one of many ways Hope works to ensure the success of its pupils.

Providing the support and recognition requested by Hope is essential in aiding their mission to serve Indiana students in recovery. I appreciate your time and consideration of this important matter. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions, or if I can be of assistance to you.

Dear Mr. McAllister,

Please accept this letter of support for Hope Academy and its application to continue as an Indianapolis Mayor's Office sponsored charter school. Hope has been a member of the Association of Recovery Schools (ARS) since 2006. The school was one of the first to successfully complete our national accreditation process. Hope Academy successfully supports students as they promote academic and recovery success.

As an early member of the ARS, Hope has led the charge in bringing the need for recovery schools to the national level, including collecting, analyzing and presenting data relevant to adolescent substance use disorder. The data collected by Hope Academy has brought to light the relevance between academic and personal success that comes with sobriety, further demonstrating the need for recovery schools. Rachelle Gardner, the Chief Operating Officer and founder of Hope Academy has served on the ARS board as both the chair and as current past chair, assisting with providing vision and direction for recovery high schools across the country.

We are proud to include Hope Academy in our portfolio of recovery schools. Hope serves as a high quality model for other emerging recovery schools that desire to provide a positive environment that includes both recovery supports and a rigorous academic curriculum.

The Association of Recovery Schools looks forward to Hope's continued success and partnership with the Mayor's Office, as one of its top charter schools.

Sincerely,

PROJECT OVERVIEW

Hope Academy (Hope) is a Charter School serving students in grades 9-12 in addiction recovery. Hope is co-located with Fairbanks addiction recovery center at 8102A Clearvista Parkway on the northeast side of Indianapolis. Hope occupies the entire second floor, approximately 16,000 SF of space, of the Fairbanks building. In the fall of 2020, Fairbanks plans to expand into the space presently occupied by Hope. And Hope plans to increase enrollment beyond the capacity of their current space. As such, Hope is searching for space to accommodate their programming and future growth needs.

Project Narrative

Hope started in 2006 with support from the Fairbanks Foundation. Authorized through the Office of Education Innovation, the mission of Hope is to provide a safe, sober, and challenging academic experience for high school students in addiction recovery. Hope is the only high school in the State of Indiana with the environment, support, and curriculum specifically designed and dedicated to serving students in recovery.

Because of the lack of such schools in the area, Hope's enrollment includes students from throughout the region. To allow for better access, Hope is searching for a building that is centrally located and along a bus route. And Hope believes it can increase its enrollment from 48 students to 100. Hope's current location can accommodate up to 60 students.

Hope has already identified prospective sites and has fostered a relationship with the University of Indianapolis. Hope may be able to co-locate on the University of Indianapolis campus and provide its students with access to college credits and a more immersive experience. IFF can use its connections in the schools sector and Indianapolis market in tandem with its feasibility process to assist Hope with identifying a building that fits their model and is financially feasible. IFFRES's fee for this scope of work is fully subsidized by the Walton Family Foundation will pay 100%

SCOPE OF WORK & RESPONSIBILITIES

IFF Real Estate Solutions (IFFRES) seeks to assist Hope with achieving its project goal, and proposes the outlined Scope of Work as follows.

1. IFFRES Scope of Work Phases I & II
   Scope of Work I – Financial Feasibility Analysis

   a. Project kick-off meeting with Hope's key staff and Board, as appropriate, to confirm project goals, process, and scope of work.
      i. Review existing materials, including Hope's strategic plan, authorization proposal, five-year financial projections and any other documents and reports that have been completed and that may be relevant to the project;
      ii. Space Planning Needs Assessment
         1. Tour existing facility;
         2. Confirm facility parameters, including anticipated number of classrooms; projected size of the facility based on programs, clients, current and projected staff; building requirements; and building amenities based on target programs; and additional classrooms and other spaces required to accommodate growth; and
         3. Based on existing floor plan, determine square footage needs for each program and administrative space required in the new facility.
      iii. Confirm target location/areas;

   b. Market Analysis
      i. Conduct market research in Hope's target area to determine a range of purchase prices and lease rates for facilities that meet the school's needs.

   c. Prepare Development Budgets: Assess the financial implications of the project on Hope:
      i. Assess programs and whether revenues are in place or will be in place to support facility operations;
      ii. Assess financial capacity/systems;
      iii. Review operating projections and previous financial performance;

iv. Prepare a pro forma for facility or facilities using Hope's operating projections which will include occupancy costs and determine whether the facility or facilities will be financially viable; and
v. Determine how much debt, if any, Hope could afford for the project.

d. Summary of Findings from Scope
   i. Compile findings from space planning, financial analysis, and market analysis into memo format for review and distribution with facilities committee;
   ii. Review findings, determine affordability and discuss options for ownership or leasing; and
   iii. Discuss process and work scope for phase II

Dear Rachelle:

Attacking the drug crisis is an important pillar in Governor Eric Holcomb's agenda. On the day he was inaugurated, he appointed me to serve as the state's Executive Director for Drug Prevention, Treatment and Enforcement and called for an "all hands on deck" approach to address the current crisis and to take steps to reduce the risk of a future crisis of similar magnitude that might arise from the misuse of addictive substances.

The position I hold was created to coordinate, align, and focus the relevant resources of all the state agencies that affect substance abuse and misuse issues and to seek ways to leverage the state's resources with those of other sectors, including business, higher education, health care, philanthropic, faith-based and community-based organizations to have the greatest possible positive impact.

Helping high school students with substance use disorders receive evidence-based care and quality education is a priority. The learning environment provided by Hope Academy, coupled with peer support activities, aligns with our goal of helping students through recovery. I write to pledge $137,000 from the State of Indiana to support recovery programming at Hope Academy during the 2020-2021 school year.

I look forward to partnering with you as we seek to help more young people live happy, full and productive lives in recovery. Thank you for your vital work to combat the drug crisis and help Indiana youth maximize their potential.

Dear Mr. ~~McAllister~~, Patrick

As Indiana faces one of the most devastating substance abuse crises in its history, Hope Academy's educational experience is more important to our future than ever before. I believe Hope Academy is playing a critical role in ensuring that the entire City of Indianapolis recovers from the impact of the opioid crisis, and it is uniquely positioned to serve the city in a more powerful way given the level of substance abuse we see today.

Schools are being asked to address many student challenges above and beyond education. It is not uncommon for students to come to school carrying burdens and behaviors that require specialized expertise that stretch all those charged with meeting their needs. Collaborations and partnerships with organizations like Hope Academy that have expertise and experience in a particular specialty can fill the need for both the student and the school. The recovery school model focuses on academics while providing education and skill building around recovery from the impact of substances. Hope Academy is a pathway to help students who are facing suspension and or expulsion due to substance use in school. It is also an alternative to suspension and expulsion for students struggling with substance use.

Please accept this letter as an indication of support for Hope Academy as they pursue a new charter. I believe today, just as I did in 2006 when I authorized Hope Academy initially, that Hope Academy is a necessary partner for all schools to use as an alternative to suspension and expulsion, and to assist them in making sure the students struggling with substance use have a safe and supportive environment focused on academic success.

Thank you for considering my views and please do not hesitate to contact me if you would like to discuss them further.

Sincerely,

Indianapolis Charter School Board

Dear Board:

I am writing in support of Hope Academy's application seeking a new charter with the City of Indianapolis Office of Education Innovation.

Hope Academy is an asset to our community and state, as the only high school in Indiana specifically addressing the needs of those students recovering from drug and alcohol use. It is a prime example of the reason that charter schools exist: to serve the needs of students who cannot be successful in their home school. Specifically, Hope has served hundreds of students over the last 13 years meeting both their recovery needs and providing them with a high quality education.

Their decision to move off the Fairbanks campus and move into the IPS district is a loss to my district but a gain for the rest of our community. Centrally locating the high school will allow for far more students to access the services provided by Hope across the city of Indianapolis. This move will be particularly helpful in providing access to students in recovery in underserved areas of our community where transportation to its current location may be an obstacle.

Hope Academy has changed the lives of hundreds of students in central Indiana over the last 13 years. Their decision to more centrally locate will help students and families not only in my district but in communities all over our city. I am pleased to submit this letter in support of their new charter application and I urge the board to vote in approval.

Thank you,

Carey Hamilton

September 30, 2019

Dear Mr. Riggins and the Indianapolis Charter School Board:

As a long-time Charter School advocate, I support the application of Hope Academy for a new seven-year charter. We are one of the few communities in America who have a recovery school. From my standpoint, it is important that we have a diverse offering that meets the needs of our families in Indiana. I am impressed by the Board of Directors and the plans proposed for the school going forward. I am aware that Fairbanks will no longer be a financial guarantor. However, I feel that the Board Chair and others will find a substitute to back your endeavors. The budget currently proposed is built around sixty students. I am confident that the Board can recruit that many students, and probably more. Since I have been a member of this Board in the past, I am aware that one of your concerns is the financial capabilities of the plan. I feel confident that the Board and financial leadership can achiever a level of activity which will provide a sustainable model.

Thanks very much,

Dear Mr. McAllister,

We at the Center for Innovative Education Solutions (CIES) are pleased to be writing in support of Hope Academy Inc.'s charter school proposal. We are pleased to be partnering with Fairbanks to support the launch of Hope. Fairbanks has created a nationally recognized model of educational innovation on the city's far northside. We share their belief that their services need to be more authentically accessible to students across the city.

Additionally, we are looking forward to working with Hope as they transition into a free standing organization. We are specifically engaged in supporting Hope with financial services. We look forward to serving as their partner in operating a fiscally sound school.

Please feel free to contact me for additional information regarding my support for Hope's charter prospectus.

Kenneth Riggins, Chairman
Indianapolis Charter School Board

Dear Chairman Riggins,

I am writing in support of Hope Academy's application for a Charter. Hope is—as I think the Charter Board will see—a unique school, with a mission and a track record that distinguishes it from other applicants.

For the past 14 years, Hope Academy has educated teens who are in recovery from substance abuse. To the best of my knowledge, it is the only recovery high school in Indiana, and one of only 7 schools in the country to be accredited by the Association of Recovery High Schools.

The school operates with small class sizes and highly individualized instruction, elements which have been critical to success with this particular student population. But its current location is inconvenient for many students who could benefit from attendance, makes transportation difficult, and has hampered Hope's visibility. Hope currently serves students from all of Marion County; however, as an innovation school, the Academy will be visible to, and likely to enroll, more IPS students.

I have visited the school and been impressed with the curriculum, the teachers and other staff members, and the progress of the students with whom I spoke. I hope the Board will give every consideration to Hope's application.

Re: Hope Academy's new design charter school application

Dear Indianapolis Charter School Board members:

I write in support of Hope Academy's application for a new design charter school to be located in Indianapolis, IN. Hope Academy is Indiana's only fully accredited recovery high school for teens in recovery from substance use issues. Since 2006, Hope Academy operated as an independent recovery high school operated by Fairbanks under the charter authority of the Mayor of Indianapolis. I've been told that because of a change in focus, Fairbanks is unable to continue its partnership with Hope Academy, necessitating this new design charter application.

Leaders at Hope Academy tell me that with this new charter, they will have the opportunity to broaden the school's impact on the greater Indianapolis/Central Indiana community. Over the past 13 years, more than 700 students have been served and have experienced academic and recovery success. The goal is to build on the proven academic and recovery success for students facing significant substance use challenges as well as to expand the service area by moving to a more centrally located campus that would provide greater accessibility to a more diverse student population.

I have visited the school on numerous occasions and have been impressed with the staff and their commitment to providing a safe, sober, restorative and challenging school experience for high school students recovering from alcoholism and/or drug addiction. I respectfully request that you give this new design charter school application full and fair consideration consistent with all applicable rules, laws and regulations.

Sincerely,

Susan W Brooks

Hamilton, Boone Madison Special Services is supportive of Hope Academy as it pursues a new charter through the Mayor of Indianapolis. Our schools are being asked to address many student challenges that negatively impact academic performance. At least one third of our students enter our school doors with significant stress and anxieties due to a variety of significant, although common risk factors. Due to these factors, stress behaviors occur that require expertise that stretch educators as they strive to meet the demands of 21st Century education. Consequently, collaboration and partnership with organizations, like Hope Academy, that have expertise and experience in a particular subspecialty can fill the need for both the student, community and the school. The recovery school model, used by Hope Academy focuses on academics while providing education and skill building around recovery from the impact of substances. Hope Academy is a pathway to help students who are facing academic, and social emotional challenges and possible suspension and or expulsion due to substance use in school. It is an alternative to suspension and expulsion for students struggling with substance use. We consider Hope Academy as a partner when appropriate, to provide our students with a more suitable environment to support both their recovery and academic success.

Please accept this letter as an indication of our enthusiastic support of Hope Academy as they pursue a new charter. We believe that Hope Academy is a necessary partner for all schools to use as an alternative to suspension and expulsion and assist in making sure the students struggling with substance use have a safe and supportive environment focused on academic success and long term recovery.

Sincerely,

Terri Miller, Ph.D, Assistant Director

Dear Mr. McAllister,

I write on behalf of the University of Indianapolis (UIndy) in support of the charter school proposal submitted by the Hope Academy Inc. The University has enjoyed a positive relationship with Fairbanks for many years, and we are excited about the opportunity for Fairbanks to proceed with the launch of the Hope Academy.

Fairbanks has created a nationally recognized model of educational innovation on the city's far northside. We share Fairbanks' concern that their services need to be more authentically accessible to students across the city. Specifically, we believe all students deserve a high quality, publicly accessible education option designed specifically to support students navigating substance usage disorder (SUD). In 2017, Dr. Katie Kivisto, Associate Professor in UIndy's College of Applied Behavioral Sciences, published her work about the impact of Hope Academy's educational model. Her study on the obstacles of addiction and long-term recovery for teenagers was funded by a $300,000 NIH grant (see attached). Dr. Kivisto's work highlights the need for the Hope Academy and its unique educational model.

In the future, we look forward to collaborating further with the Hope Academy as it transitions into an independent organization. Because UIndy's School of Education and UIndy's Center of Excellence in Leadership of Learning (CELL) are engaged in strategic collaborations with a number of education institutions, we can use these experiences to offer encouragement to the Hope Academy as its innovative opportunities more fully evolve. We also look forward to exploring potential opportunities with the Hope Academy that might extend beyond those offices and align with our expertise in other areas including the health sciences.

Please feel free to contact me directly to further discuss our support for the initiatives of the Hope Academy.

Sincerely,

Robert L. Manuel
President

As the parents of a former student and graduate of Hope Academy, we are writing to request your approval of the Hope Academy Charter.

Our son graduated from Hope in 2009. He had been a patient at Fairbanks and we had heard about this new school but we were skeptical. How could such a small school with limited resources balance a Core 40 education and recovery program? It was one of few alternatives for us. He had been expelled from his high school and we had already spent so much money on treatment, a private school was not a feasible option. Our son would agree that it was the best decision we could have made. He thrived in the supportive environment and attentive teachers who helped him catch up after missing so much school. He learned recovery tools which he uses to this day. Our son admits he may never have graduated from high school if it were not for Hope. In fact, he credits his experience there with saving his life.

We attended the initial Charter School hearing and understand your concerns. We have confidence that the leadership, staff and supporters will guide, manage and fund this school. Hope Academy is vitally important to children and their families as they navigate the life and death consequences of drug and alcohol abuse.

I cannot imagine this alternative school to not be available for students like our son. My husband and I have donated time and money to support Hope Academy and we plan to do so in the long-term future. We pray it will be there.

Thank you,

Tricia Zachidny

Budget Narrative

	Question	Briefly Describe Proposed Activities
1	Detail your contingency plans should you experience a budget shortfall, low student enrollment or other operational difficulties. Are there any expenditures that are essential to the model that cannot be cut under any circumstances?	In the event that Hope Academy were to experience a budget shortfall, all expense areas would be evaluated to determine areas for costs reductions. This would include an evaluation of teacher positions, administrative support roles, transportation costs and other overhead areas. Some teacher positions, such as special education, cannot be eliminated as well as some recovery supports. In addition to reducing expenses, new funding sources would be identified and philanthropic efforts would continue to cover any shortfall. In addition to reducing expenses, Hope Academy continuously works to engage new funding partners to ensure financial sustainability. Our philanthropic and grant activities have outperformed our budget expectations for the past 3 years and on pace to exceed budget expectations this year as well.
2	Explain how the school will make certain that sufficient funds are available to cover a) any special education costs incurred, and b) any transportation costs necessary to ensure the school will be both open and accessible	Hope Academy comes with a strong history of successful philanthropic and grant funding support. These efforts are ongoing and will continue during the new charter. In addition to continued and increased philanthropic activities, Hope Academy is seeking partnerships with various sponsors to provide funding and/or supports that would offset some overhead included in the budget. Those include, but are not limited to, transportation, space (rent and maintenance), technology and administrative support. In addition, Hope Academy has the following financial commitments: * A local health care entity pledge of $250K contribution contingent upon the receipt of the charter to be received in July 2020. * Tom Wood Family Foundation $50K pledge for each year for school years 2020-2021 and 2021-2022 contingent on receipt of $250K. * Grant from the State of Indiana for $137K to be received during school year 2020-2021. * Net working capital transfer from The Recovery High School at Fairbanks $100K to be received in September 2020.
3	Explain your rationale for the enrollment projections you made on the attached budget documents	Based on actual recent experience, it was determined that a Year 1 September count of 34 was reasonably achievable. Incremental increases of students were added across the 5 years based on potential partnerships with IPS and other local school systems as an alternative to suspension/expulsion of students for drug and alcohol use. For example, in 2018, IPS alone had 74 students suspended for drugs and/or alcohol. Based on our 14 year history and expertise serving students impacted by substance use, we know that about 10% of those suspended students would be appropriate candidates for the type of school environment provided by Hope Academy. Our projections for the following years assume continued growth of students seeking a sober learning environment not only from IPS but surrounding school corporations.
4	Please include any additional details necessary for understanding your strategic budgeting priorities.	The proposed five year budget reflects a focus on the execution of specific strategies to increase enrollment as outlined in the Student Recruitment and Enrollment section of the application as well as on current and future philanthropic support. Funding commitments totaling more than $300K have been received as detailed below and in the budget narrative, with receipt of the funds expected on or before July 1, 2020' This will allow Hope Academy to commence operations for the 2020-21 school year with at least 60 days of cash on hand, which will compensate for the unfavorable timing of the Alternative Education funding. Alternative Education is earned (based on) the average daily attendance for the school year (July-June) but is paid in the following August, therefore, creating a timing issue with cash. Concerns regarding cash flow and funding sources have been alleviated with the procurement of $300K of funding noted in line #2 above. The contributions from Fairbanks and Tom Wood Family Foundation will allow Hope Academy to commence operations with more than 60 days of cash on hand ($300K). This will compensate for the unfavorable timing of the Alternative Education funding. Alternative Education is earned (based on) the average daily attendance for the school year (July-June) but is paid in the following August, therefore, creating a timing issue with cash flow.

D. Call 911 to notify the police of the threat and the fact that evacuation will be to the far end of the employee parking lot in the back of the main building and give a cell phone number for police to contact school personnel.

E. Notify the School Director/Principal/designee.

II. Principal/Designee

A. Make decisions as to evacuation, relocation and student management.

III. Evacuation of the Building

A. Evacuation will be accomplished by accessing the overhead paging system and announcing a "Code Black" and the location 3 times.

Policy and Procedure

Policy Number: H 3	Title of Policy: Lockdown Due to A Violent Intruder (Active Shooter)	Page 1 of 1
Effective Date: 7/15	Supersedes: 1/14

POLICY

Hope Academy will ensure the safety and well-being of all persons present in the building or on the grounds during any incident that requires a lockdown.

Definition: A lockdown is a response to a violent intruder that necessitates intervention required to maintain student and staff safety.

NO TALKING – OUT OF SIGHT- LIGHTS OUT – CLOSE BLINDS

PROCEDURE

A. Any staff member who becomes aware of the presence of a violent intruder who might endanger the school staff or students will immediately notify the School Director/Principal/designee.

B. The Director/Principal/designee will immediately notify staff via overhead page, cell phone, e-mail or other expedient method and assign the following:

1. Classrooms and the doors to any adjoining rooms are locked at all times.
2. Furniture should be placed in front of the classroom door as a barricade.
3. Teachers are to take a head count to determine that all persons are accounted for.
4. Teachers are to keep students away from the classroom door.
5. Teachers are to explain the situation to the students and maintain calm.
6. Designated individual is to call 911.
7. If possible, designated individual is to to send an "all" e-mail notifying all staff of the intruder and include a description of the individual, if known. The e-mail should also state that 911 should be called if the intruder is located; pushing a panic button is also an acceptable way to summon the police.
8. It is also acceptable to access the overhead paging system and announce "Active Shooter" and the location 3 times.
9. If students are out of the classroom, a designated staff member locates the students and quickly brings them to the nearest room and notifies administrator of the location via group texting on personal cell phones.

C. No persons are to enter or leave the school until it is deemed safe to do so by the local police department or other civil authority.

D. Evacuation will not occur unless deemed necessary and at the direction of the local police department or other civil authority.

E. An all clear is to be communicated from the police to the principal/designee who will then notify the teachers via cell phone to ensure the validity of the call.

F. Designated school staff will notify parents/responsible parties of this event.

Hope Academy
Policy and Procedure

Policy Number: H 6	Title of Policy: Fire Plan	Page 1 of 2
Effective Date: 7/08	Supersedes: 3/06

POLICY

A fire in a school is a serious threat to safety. Therefore, any person who discovers smoke or fire, no matter how small or insignificant, must immediately remove people from danger, pull the nearest fire alarm and implement the fire plan.

I. General Information

1. Fire alarm pull stations and portable fire extinguishers are located throughout the building.
2. An automatic sprinkler system is connected to the fire alarm system.
3. There are ceiling-mounted smoke and heat detectors located throughout the building
4. When activated, the fire alarm system automatically transmits an alarm to a monitoring service. Unless notified to the contrary, the monitoring company will immediately notify the fire department of the alarm details.

II. Fire Extinguisher

To use a Class A-B-C fire extinguisher: P-A-S-S

1. Pull the pin in the handle.
2. Aim the hose at the base of the flames.
3. Squeeze the lever in the handle to activate the dry chemical discharge.
4. Keep the canister in an upright position and slowly sweep the discharge across the base of the flames to cover all of the burning material and thus smother the fire.
5. The dry chemical extinguisher has a smothering effect on fires and the chemical dust in the air can also make it difficult to breathe. Therefore, never discharge an A-B-C extinguisher towards other people and, after putting out a fire with a dry chemical extinguisher, make sure people stay clear of that area, particularly people with respiratory problems.

III. Fire Alarm System Operation

1. When an alarm pull station or automatic fire detection device senses fire/smoke, a loud buzzer will sound to notify personnel of a fire. Wall-mounted visual alarms will begin flashing in synchronization with the audio alarms.
2. In the event the alarm system is not functioning, the person first noting the fire should access the overhead paging system and announce: "Code Red" and the location of the fire three times.

IV. Procedure

R - Rescue
A- Alarm
C- Contain
E- Extinguish or evacuate

1. Assemble all students and staff and proceed to the stairwell door furthest from the fire location; complete a head count.
2. Staff should check all rooms, closets, bathrooms to ensure that everyone is accounted for.
3. Close doors and turn off lights.
4. Do not assemble patients in classrooms or other areas within the building that do not have an exit to the outside.
5. Never assume that students, staff, or visitors are safe until there is absolute confirmation of the fact they are secure.
6. Staff and students are to slowly and quietly proceed down the stairwell and out the door into the parking lot where another head count will be taken.
4. Staff and students are to wait for further instructions from the School Director/designee or Fire Department personnel.
5. If students are out of the classroom, a designated staff member locates the students and brings them to the assembly site and/or uses the school "walkie-talkies" to notify staff of the relocation.

VI. Notification of all clear

1. The School Director/Principal/designee or Fire Department Personnel will declare an all clear when it is safe for staff and students to return to their areas. During evacuation, all personnel will remain outside the building until the all clear is given.
2. If re-entry into the building is not possible, students will be sent home.
3. Designated school staff will notify parents/responsible parties if students are sent home.
4. School staff will maintain a list of when, with whom/how a student leaves the school.

   a. Thunderstorm Watch
   b. Thunderstorm Warning

   d. Tornado Warning
2. Warnings of severe or potentially severe weather conditions will be issued by the National Weather Service (NWS) Station KEC-74 (162.55MHz).
3. These messages may be received via outdoor sirens emitting a three to five (3-5) minute steady sound, weather-alert radios, regular radios, television sets and/or via the Internet. If an alert is broadcast, listen for information and instructions. The regular radio should be turned to WIBC FM 93.1 (operates 24 hours a day). TV sets should be turned to Channels 6, 8 or 13.

5. Relocate to one of the quad rooms on the first floor of the building and complete another head count.
6. Students/staff are to stand/sit on the floor with backs against the walls.
7. Weather-Alert Radios will remain on the "weather" setting.

      1. If bleeding is not severe, wash with soap and water;
      2. Apply a sterile compression dressing;
      3. If bleeding is severe, apply pressure with a sterile dressing, elevate the injured site and transfer to emergency room.

III. Electric Shock
   A. Injury resulting from the passage of electric current through the body.
      1. Separate the individual from the current source;
         a. Cutting off the current by turning off the switch or unplugging the appliance, OR
         b. Removing the person from the contact with the current.

      1. Immobilize the affected area;
      2. For severe contusions to the extremities, elevate and apply snug elastic bandage;
      3. Transfer to emergency room if indicated.

V. Investigation of Foreign Objects
   A. Contrary to popular belief, unless actual obstruction or danger of perforation is present, foreign bodies in the respiratory and alimentary tracts do not represent urgent danger.
      1. If obstructed airway (the individual cannot talk, respiratory distress, or cyanosis) perform Heimlich maneuver and/or CPR;
      2. Dial 911;
      3. Try to determine size, shape, nature, and number of object(s) ingested;
      4. Transfer to emergency room.

A. The signs and symptoms of these two medical conditions are similar, and often it is difficult to determine which physiological condition is responsible for the affected individual's present status.

1. Give juice with sugar and observe for an improvement in clinical status in 5-10 minutes;
2. Review individual's history of eating, exercise, last insulin dosage, possibility of infection, and onset of symptoms;
3. Transfer to emergency room.

VII. Anaphylaxis or Anaphylactic Shock

A. Usually develops within a few seconds or minutes after exposure to the allergen, but may be delayed for a few hours. This condition can be rapidly fatal despite treatment attempts. The individual may complain of a sense of uneasiness, then become agitated and flushed. Palpitations, paresthesia, pruritus, throbbing in the ear, coughing, sneezing, and dyspnea are other typical complaints. The signs and symptoms of shock may develop within one to two (1-2) minutes.

1. Position the affected individual to avoid aspiration of vomitus and secretions.
2. Trained staff member will prepare and administer EpiPen 0.3mg per manufacturer directions.
3. Dial 911 for EMS.
4. Maintain an airway and cardiac function. Perform CPR if indicated.
5. If injected allergen is responsible, place a tourniquet above the injection site to minimize systemic effect.

VIII. Cardiac/Respiratory Arrest

1. Initiate CPR or perform Heimlich maneuver if airway blockage is suspected;
2. Dial 911;

IX. Over-dosage

A. Accidental or Intentional

1. Try to determine when, how much, and what was taken

5. If the initial dose of Narcan is ineffective a second dose may be given 2-3 minutes after the first dose.

8. Complete occurrence report.
9. Report Narcan use to Indiana Department of Education per Senate Bill 392.

Specimens registering below 90.5° F or above 99.8° F, or appearing diluted or adulterated, or an oral body temperature that is 1.8 ° F different from the temperature of the specimen will be invalid and the student must provide another specimen as soon as possible.
10. If the specimen is diluted or the urine creatinine ratio is less than 20 mg/dl after results are received, the student will be called again for testing as soon as possible.
11. The testing laboratory will report the results of the testing to the School Nurse and he/she will then report to the Recovery Team with results. Recovery team is comprised of Principal, Chief Operating Officer, Guidance Counselor, Recovery Coach and School Nurse.

Hope Academy
Policy and Procedure

Policy Number: H 22	Title of Policy: School-Provided Access to Electronic Information, Services, and Networks	Page 1 of 3
Effective Date: 6/06	Supersedes: NEW

Position Statement:

Freedom of expression is an inalienable human right and the foundation for self-government. Freedom of expression encompasses the right to freedom of speech and the corollary right to receive information. Such rights extend to minors as well as adults. Schools facilitate the exercise of these rights by providing access to information regardless of format or technology. In a free and democratic society, access to information is a fundamental right of citizenship.

In making decisions regarding student access to the Internet, Hope Academy considers its own stated educational mission, goals, and objectives. Electronic information research skills are now fundamental to prepare citizens and future employees. Access to the Internet enables students to explore thousands of libraries, databases, bulletin boards and other resources while exchanging messages with people around the world. The school expects that faculty will blend thoughtful use of the Internet throughout the curriculum and will provide guidance and instruction to students in its use. As much as possible, access from school to Internet resources should be structured in ways that point students to those that have been evaluated prior to using the Internet. While students will be able to move beyond those resources to others that have not been previewed by staff, they shall be provided with guidelines and lists of resources particularly suited to learning objectives.

The purpose of school-provided Internet access is to facilitate communication in support of research and education. To remain eligible as users, students' use must be in support of, and consistent with, the educational objectives of Hope Academy. Access is a privilege, not a right. Access entails responsibility.

Outside of school, families bear responsibility for the same guidance of Internet use as they exercise with information sources such as television, telephones, radio, movies and other possibly offensive media.

Rules of Use:

1. Students utilizing school-provided Internet access must first have the permission of, and must be supervised by, Hope Academy's professional staff. Students utilizing school-provided Internet access are responsible for good behavior online just as they are in a classroom or other areas of the school. The same general rules for behavior and communications apply.

2. Users should not expect that files stored on school-based computers will always be private. Electronic messages and files stored on school-based computers may be treated like school lockers. Administrators and faculty may review files and messages to maintain system integrity and ensure that users are acting responsibly.

3. The following uses of school-provided Internet access are not permitted:
   a. to access, upload, download, or distribute pornographic, obscene, or sexually explicit material;
   b. to transmit obscene, abusive, sexually explicit, or threatening language;
   c. to violate any local, state, or federal statute;
   d. to vandalize, damage, or disable the property of another individual or organization;
   e. to access another individual's materials, information, or files without permission; and
   f. to violate copyright or otherwise use the intellectual property of another individual or organization without permission.

4. Any violation of school policy and rules may result in loss of school-provided access to the Internet. Additional disciplinary action may be determined at the building level in keeping with existing procedures and practices regarding inappropriate language or behavior. When and where applicable, law enforcement agencies may be involved.

Disclaimer:

Hope Academy makes no warranties of any kind, neither expressed nor implied, for the Internet access it is providing. The school will not be responsible for any damages users suffer, including, but not limited to, loss of data resulting from delays or interruptions in service. The school will not be responsible for the accuracy, nature, or quality of information stored on school diskettes, hard drives, or servers nor for the accuracy, nature, or quality of information gathered through school-provided Internet access. The school will not be responsible for personal property used to access school computers or networks or for school-provided Internet access. The school will not be responsible for unauthorized financial obligations resulting from school-provided access to the Internet.

Information to Parents:

Parents of students enrolled in Hope Academy shall be provided with the following information:

1. Hope Academy is pleased to offer its students access to the Internet. The Internet is an electronic highway connecting hundreds of thousands of computers and millions of individual users all over the world. This computer technology will help propel our schools through the communication age by allowing students and staff to access and use resources from distant computers, communicate and collaborate with other individuals and groups around the world, and significantly expand their available information base. The Internet is a tool for life-long learning.

2. Families should be aware that some material accessible via the Internet may contain items that are illegal, defamatory, inaccurate, or potentially offensive to some people. In addition, it is possible to purchase certain goods and services via the Internet which could result in unwanted financial obligations for which a student's parent or guardian would be liable.

3. While the intent is to make Internet access available in order to further educational goals and objectives, students may find ways to access other materials as well. Even if the school instituted technical methods or systems to regulate students' Internet access, those methods could not guarantee compliance with the school's acceptable use policy. That notwithstanding, the school believes that the benefits to students of access to the Internet exceed any disadvantages. Ultimately, however, parents and guardians of minors are responsible for setting and conveying the standards that their children should follow when using media and information sources. Toward that end, Hope Academy makes the school's complete Internet policy and procedures available on request for review by all parents, guardians, and other members of the community; and provides parents and guardians the option of requesting for their minor children alternative activities not requiring Internet use.

NOTICE: This policy and all its provisions are subordinate to local, state, and federal statutes.

Policy and Procedure

Policy Number: H 24	Title of Policy: Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)	Page 1 of 1
Effective Date: 7/09	Supersedes: 6/06

POSITION STATEMENT

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) (20 U.S.C. § 1232g; 34 CFR Part 99) is a Federal law that protects the privacy of student education records. The law applies to all schools that receive funds under an applicable program of the U.S. Department of Education. FERPA gives parents certain rights with respect to their children's education records. These rights transfer to the student when he or she reaches the age of 18 or attends a school beyond the high school level. Students to whom the rights have transferred are "eligible students."

Parents or eligible students have the right to inspect and review the student's education records maintained by the school. Schools are not required to provide copies of records unless, for reasons such as great distance, it is impossible for parents or eligible students to review the records. Schools may charge a fee for copies.

Parents or eligible students have the right to request that a school correct records which they believe to be inaccurate or misleading. If the school decides not to amend the record, the parent or eligible student then has the right to a formal hearing. After the hearing, if the school still decides not to amend the record, the parent or eligible student has the right to place a statement with the record setting forth his or her view about the contested information.

Generally, schools must have written permission from the parent or eligible student in order to release any information from a student's education record. However, FERPA allows schools to disclose those records, without consent, to the following parties or under the following conditions (34 CFR § 99.31):

School officials with legitimate educational interest;
State Consolidated Education Data Systems (SEAs);
Other schools to which a student is transferring;
Records or information from records which have been de-identified and cannot be linked to a specific student;
Specified officials for audit or evaluation purposes;
Appropriate parties in connection with financial aid to a student;
Organizations conducting certain studies for or on behalf of the school;
Accrediting organizations;
Outsourcing functions that would otherwise be performed by employees to contractors, consultants, and other outside parties provide the outside party is under the direct control of the agency/institution and is subject to all applicable FERPA requirements;
To comply with a judicial order or lawfully issued subpoena;
State and local authorities, within a juvenile justice system, pursuant to specific State law;
Appropriate parties, including parents, whose knowledge of the information is necessary to protect the health or safety of a student or another individual if there is a significant and articuable threat to the health or safety of a student or other individual considering the totality of the circumstances.

 the basis for the decision that a health or safety emergency exists must be recorded in the student's record.

Each request for access to and each disclosure of information must be recorded in the student's record including the names of the additional parties to which the receiving party may re-disclose the information on behalf of the agency or institution.

Schools may disclose, without consent, "directory" information such as a student's name, address, telephone number, date and place of birth, honors and awards, and dates of attendance. However, schools must tell parents and eligible students about directory information and allow parents and eligible students a reasonable amount of time to request that the school not disclose directory information about them.

Schools must notify parents and eligible students annually of their rights under FERPA. The actual means of notification (special letter, inclusion in a PTA bulletin, student handbook, or newspaper article) is left to the discretion of each school.

Policy and Procedure

Policy Number: H 31	Title of Policy: Harassment and Bullying	Page 1 of 2
Effective Date: 8/13	Supersedes: New

Harassment

Harassment of any type has no place in the school setting. The school will endeavor to maintain a learning and working environment that is free from harassment. Hope Academy expects administrators and supervisors to make it clear to students and staff that harassment in the school building, on school grounds, and at school functions will not be tolerated and will be grounds for disciplinary action up to and including suspension or expulsion of students and termination of employment for employees.

Harassment may include, but is not limited to, sexual harassment, racial harassment or harassment because of a physical condition or disability. It may also include, but is not limited to, hostile, demeaning or intimidating behavior or conversation.

Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment is a violation of policy for any student or member of the Hope Academy staff who harasses another student or staff member through conduct or communications of a sexual nature. Sexual harassment may include, but is not limited to, unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, sex-oriented verbal "kidding," repeated remarks to a person with sexual or demeaning implications, unwelcome touching, patting, pinching, or repeated brushing against another's body.

Sexual harassment is a form of sex discrimination which violates Section 703 of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. It is policy of the school to maintain a learning and working environment that is free from sexual harassment. Hope Academy prohibits any form of sexual harassment.

It shall be a violation of this policy for any student or employee of the school to harass a student or employee through conduct or communication of a sexual nature as defined by this policy. Hope Academy will act to investigate all complaints and to discipline any student or employee of the school. Violators may be suspended, expelled, and/or terminated.

Bullying/Cyber bullying

Hope Academy is committed to providing a safe, positive, productive, and nurturing educational environment for all of its students. The school encourages the promotion of positive interpersonal relations between members of the school community. Bullying behavior toward a student whether by other students, staff, or third parties is strictly prohibited and will not be tolerated. This prohibition includes physical, verbal, and psychological abuse as provided herein. The school will not tolerate any gestures, comments, threats, or actions which cause or threaten to cause bodily harm or personal degradation. This policy applies when a student is on school grounds immediately before or during school hours, immediately after school hours, or at any other time when the school is being used by a school group; off school grounds at a school activity, function, or event; traveling to or from school or a school activity, function, or event; or, using property or equipment provided by the school.

Bullying as defined in State law means overt, repeated acts or gestures, including verbal or written communications transmitted, physical acts committed, or any other behaviors committed by a student or group of students against another student with the intent to harass, ridicule, humiliate, intimidate, or harm the other student. This type of behavior is a form of harassment, although it need not be based on any of the legally protected characteristics, such as sex, race, color, national origin, marital status, or disability. It would include, but not be limited to, such behaviors as stalking, intimidating, menacing, coercion, name-calling, taunting, making threats, and hazing.

Reporting Incidents of Bullying

Any student who believes s/he has been or is currently the victim of bullying should immediately report the situation to the school principal. The student may also report concerns to a teacher or counselor who will be responsible for notifying the appropriate administrator. Complaints against the school principal should be filed with the Chief Operating Officer.

Every student is encouraged, and every staff member is required, to report any situation that they believe to be bullying behavior directed toward a student. Reports may be made to those identified above.

All complaints about bullying behavior shall be promptly investigated.

If the investigation finds an instance of bullying behavior has occurred, it will result in prompt and appropriate disciplinary action. This may include expulsion for students. Individuals may also be reported to law enforcement officials.

The complainant shall be notified of the findings of the investigation, and as appropriate, that remedial action has been taken.

Retaliation against any person, who reports, is thought to have reported, files a complaint, or otherwise participates in an investigation or inquiry concerning allegations of bullying is prohibited and will not be tolerated. Such retaliation shall be considered a serious violation and independent of whether a complaint is substantiated. Suspected retaliation should be reported in the same manner as bullying. Making intentionally false reports about bullying for the purpose of getting someone in trouble is similarly prohibited and will not be tolerated. Retaliation and intentionally false reports may result in disciplinary action as indicated above.

Confidentiality

To the extent appropriate and/or legally permitted, confidentiality will be maintained during the investigation process. However, a proper investigation will, in some circumstances, require the disclosure of names and allegations.

Policy Number: H 32	Title of Policy: Use of Wireless Panic Fobs	Page 1 of 1
Effective Date: 1/14	Supersedes: 12/13

POLICY: As a safety measure, wireless fobs that are worn around the neck have been issued for use by the school secretary, school administrator, and designated school staff in the event of an emergency. If the school administrator will be absent from the building, the fob designated for that person will be given to another staff member. When activated, the fob sends a silent alert to the monitoring company that a burglary is in progress. Once received, the monitoring company will NOT contact the school office to verify the signal; the company will automatically summon the police to the 8102A Clearvista Parkway location. The fob is to be used only if the staff member feels he/she is in immediate danger:

1. Person in the area with a weapon.
2. Person approaching the area with a visible weapon.
3. Person in the area who is threatening harm with or without a weapon.

Once activated, the main fire alarm panel in the maintenance area in the 8102 building will emit a beeping noise and the alarm will be displayed on the panel as a Priority 2 alarm. The remote fire alarm panels in the nurse's station and the Access Center will not beep.

If a staff member leaves the building with a fob, he/she must return the fob immediately upon discovery or notification.

PROCEDURE:

1. Press the button on the fob and hold for 2 seconds and wait for the police to arrive.
2. An incident report will also be completed and turned in to the school administrator whenever the fob is activated.

TO RESET THE SYSTEM:

Environmental Services staff will be responsible for resetting the system.

1. Go to the control panel in the small room right outside the Krieg boardroom.
2. Open the cover on the panel.
3. Press 1-2-3-4.
4. Press 1-2-3-4 again.
5. The system is now reset and the beeping at the main fire panel will stop.
6. The system will continue to operate even if not reset.

Hope Academy
Policy and Procedure

Policy Number: H 35	Title of Policy: Animal Assisted Therapy at Hope Academy	Page 1 of 2
Effective Date: 8/18	Supersedes:

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:
The mission of Animal Assisted Therapy (AAT) at Fairbanks/Hope Academy is to provide Adolescents with an evidence-based, alternative therapy to increase engagement and willingness to make changes for recovery. The benefits to the patients include the following:

- Engagement in the treatment process and motivation to make healthy changes
- Reduction in stress and anxiety
- Introduction of appropriate physical touch in a therapeutic and healthy manner
- Social support and attachment
- Development of responsibility for something other than oneself.

The AAT program involves a dog which is owned by Fairbanks. Fairbanks is responsible for veterinary costs and all other costs related to grooming, flea and tick treatments, bathing, and obedience training.

Copies of the dog's vaccination records are kept on the inpatient units and with the Director of Quality Improvement.

Liability insurance does not exclude this program and is checked annually.

A disclosure and informed consent form describing AAT is provided to all students. The disclosure includes information about the dog: training and credentials, the relationship of the dog to the school and the types of activities involving the dog in which a student may choose to participate. The consent form also informs the student of his or her right to request that the dog not be present during the school day. The form will be signed by the student and the parent/guardian.

A therapy animal kit is kept at Fairbanks and includes a scooper and waste bags for excrement. The housekeeping department stocks stain/odor remover for indoor accidents. The cleaner is safe for people, animals and the environment and does not discolor carpeting or flooring. The kit also includes toys, treats and food as well as grooming supplies. Meeting the dog's daily needs (feeding, exercise, grooming, playing, toileting) is the responsibility of the students with guidance from the Hope staff. The service dog will remain on the adolescent unit or at the school at all times. The students and staff are educated on proper hygiene (hand washing) before and after interaction with the dog. New students receive training during orientation to the program.

The boundaries for the dog are the quads, classrooms and Hope office hallway. The dog is not permitted to leave these boundaries other than for toileting and entering or leaving the unit/building.

The dog will use designated entrances when entering and leaving the building and is on a leash at all times when not on the unit or in the school area. In case of snow, entry may be through any of the Fairbanks entrances that are cleared and passable.

Staff receives orientation to the program including the mission, expectations, etc. during unit orientation. Staff will participate in continuing obedience training with a professional dog trainer.

In case of injury, the dog will be safely secured in his/her crate or in an office as soon as possible in order to manage the situation and avoid any additional harm to the animal and/or humans. If a human is injured, the nursing department will be contacted to determine the need for medical care and to provide direction. An incident report will be completed. The incident will also be reported to the Director of Adolescent Services and COO of Hope Academy. If a student is injured, family members will be notified of the circumstances and there will be no more therapy work involving the dog for the remainder of the day. Any sponsoring organization to which the owner belongs (e.g. Delta Society) will be notified of the event as well. If the dog is injured, the vet will be notified and suggestions for care will be followed at the owner's expense.

Any patients with severe dog allergies will be reported to staff. When appropriate, the dog will be removed from the areas on which the allergic student is attending.

HOPE ACADEMY
TUBERCULOSIS EXPOSURE CONTROL PLAN

This program has been designed to provide procedures and guidelines to protect employees against exposure to the tuberculosis bacteria. The plan offers a systematic method addressing the following points:

I. Authority

II. Risk Assessment

III. Employee Screening, Evaluation, Counseling, Management

IV. Reporting

I. AUTHORITY

The Board of Directors of Hope Academy has delegated supervisory responsibility for the TB Infection Control Program to the Safety/Infection Control Committee (SICC) of Fairbanks. The Committee has the authority to implement and enforce TB infection control policies. The Infection Control Nurse is assigned as the TB contact person who is responsible for the day-to-day operation of the Program.

II. RISK ASSESSMENT

Hope Academy classifies itself as a low-risk facility based on:

a. no clusters of PPD test conversions in staff; and
b. no person-to-person transmission of TB has been detected;

III. STAFF SCREENING, EVALUATION, MANAGEMENT, COUNSELING ***

TB skin tests are administered by nurses who have been trained in accordance with the Indiana State Board of Health guidelines; documentation of training is contained in the employee's personnel file.

1. New staff are required to provide documentation of a negative TB test in the prior 30 days; they then receive a second TB skin test.
2. If they can not provide documentation, they will be required to receive a 2-step TB test (TB skin test done and then repeated in 1-3 weeks).
3. Staff with a documented history of positive TB skin test, documented adequate treatment for disease, or documented adequate preventive treatment for infection, are exempt from skin testing. However, they must provide proof of a negative chest x-ray.
4. Staff are skin-tested whenever they are exposed to a person with active TB. The test is then repeated in 10 weeks to determine conversion status.
5. TB skin test/chest x-ray results. are contained in the medical file maintained on each staff member.
6. TB skin test results are reviewed by the Infection Control Nurse for monitoring of positive results, test conversions, and/or clusters of infection.

 In the event of a shortage of TB sera, annual testing of staff will involve completion of a screening questionnaire. Based on the questionnaire results, staff with suspected TB will be sent for a chest x-ray. The staff member may not return to work until results of the x-ray have been received. If the x-ray is positive for TB, steps outlined below are followed.

EVALUATION/MANAGEMENT OF STAFF WITH POSITIVE PPD RESULTS OR ACTIVE TB

1. Staff with newly recognized positive PPD test results or PPD test conversion receive a chest x-ray and clinical examination.
2. If the history, clinical exam, or chest x-ray are compatible with the presence of TB, additional diagnostic testing may be performed.
3. If symptoms compatible with TB are present, the staff member is excluded from the workplace until either:
   a. active TB is ruled out;
   b. a diagnosis of active TB is established, the staff member is being treated, and it is determined that he/she is not infectious.
4. Staff members who do not have active TB are evaluated for preventive therapy.
5. PPD converters complete an annual questionnaire regarding symptoms of disease.
6. All positive skin test results are reported to the Board of Health for follow-up.
7. Staff must provide proof of compliance with Board of Health recommendations (e.g. medication) on a routine basis (e.g. quarterly).

COUNSELING

1. Because of the increased risk for rapid progression from latent TB infection to active TB in HIV or otherwise severely impaired immunity, during new employee orientation, and annually, thereafter, staff are informed that the Indiana State Board of Health recommends that staff at risk for HIV/HBV/HCV should voluntarily seek counseling and testing for HIV/HBV/HCV.

IV. REPORTING OF POSITIVE TB SKIN TESTS

1. All cases of positive TB skin tests are reported promptly to the Indiana State Department of Health (ISDH); Fairbanks will follow recommendations made by the ISDH.
2. All cases of positive skin tests in staff (with the exception of pre-placement screening), are recorded on the OSHA 300 log and are reported to Fairbanks' Worker's Compensation carrier because there is a presumption of work-relatedness.

HOPE ACADEMY
BLOODBORNE PATHOGENS
EXPOSURE CONTROL PLAN

Definitions:

Bloodborne Pathogens means pathogenic microorganisms that are present in human blood and can cause disease in humans. These pathogens include, but are not limited to, Hepatitis B Virus (HBV), Hepatitis C Virus (HVC) and Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV).

Contaminated means the presence or reasonably anticipated presence of blood or other potentially infectious materials on an item or surface; these materials may not be visible to the naked eye.

Contaminated Sharps means any contaminated object that can penetrate the skin including, but not limited to, needles, scalpels, and broken glass.

Engineering Controls means controls that isolate or remove the bloodborne pathogens from the workplace and safer medical devices such as sharps with engineered sharps injury protections and needleless systems.

Occupational Exposure means reasonably anticipated skin, eye, mucous membrane, or parenteral contact with blood or other potentially infectious materials that may result from the performance of an employee's duties.

Other Potentially Infectious Materials means:

1. The following human fluids: semen, vaginal secretions, cerebrospinal fluid (CFS), synovial fluid, pleural fluid, pericardial fluid, peritoneal fluid, amniotic fluid, saliva in dental procedures, any body fluid that is visibly contaminated with blood and all body fluids in situations where it is difficult or impossible to differentiate between body fluids.

Needleless Systems means a device that does not use needles for a) collection of bodily fluids or withdrawal of body fluids after initial venous or arterial access is established; b) the administration of medication or fluids; or c) any other procedure involving the potential for occupational exposure to bloodborne pathogens due to percutaneous injuries from contaminated sharps.

Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) is specialized clothing or equipment worn by an employee for protection against a hazard. General work clothes (e.g. uniforms, pants, shirts, blouses) not intended to function as protection against a hazard are not considered to be personal protective equipment.

Regulated Waste means liquid or semi-liquid blood or other potentially infectious material; contaminated items that would release blood or other potentially infectious materials in a liquid or semi-liquid state if compressed; items that are caked with dried blood or other potentially infectious materials and are capable of releasing these materials during handling; containing blood or other potentially infectious materials.

Sharps with Engineered Sharps Injury Protections means a nonneedle sharp or a needle device used for withdrawing body fluids, accessing a vein or artery, or administering medications or other fluids with a built-in safety feature or mechanism that effectively reduces the risk of an exposure incident.

Standard Precautions is an approach to infection control. According to the concept of Standard Precautions all human blood and certain human body fluids are treated as if known to be infectious for HIV, HBV, HCV or other bloodborne pathogens.

Work Practice Controls means controls that reduce the likelihood of exposure by altering the manner in which a task is performed.

Exposure Plan

Exposure Control Plan:

During new employee orientation, employees will be provided with an Exposure Control Plan designed to eliminate or minimize employee exposure.

Exposure Determination:

Based upon recommendations from the U.S. Department of Labor, and guidelines from the Department of Health and Human Services, a work hazard category has been assigned to each position title.

Category I
Description
Tasks That Involve Exposure to Blood, Body Fluids, or Tissues
All procedures or other job related tasks that involve inherent potential for mucous membrane or skin contact with blood, body fluids, or tissues, or a potential for spills or splashes are Category I tasks.

Category I tasks include: blood drawing, intramuscular injections, exposure to infectious waste, greater potential for exposure to blood and body fluids than other categories. Clean up of blood spills and/or other body fluids, primary responders to psychiatric and/or medical emergencies.

Category II
Description
Tasks That Involve No Exposure to Blood, Body Fluids, or Tissues, But Employment May Require Performing Unplanned Category I Tasks
The normal work routine involves no exposure to blood, body fluids, or tissues, but exposure or potential exposure may be required as a condition of employment. Appropriate protective equipment is readily available to every employee engaged in Category II tasks.

Category III
Description
Tasks That Involve No Exposure to Blood, Body Fluids, or Tissues, and Category I Tasks Are Not a Condition of Employment
The normal work routine involves no exposure to blood, body fluids, or tissues (although work situations can be imagined or hypothesized under which anyone, anywhere, might encounter potential exposure to body fluids). Persons who perform these duties are not called upon as part of their employment to perform or assist in emergency medical care or first aid, or to be potentially exposed in some other way. Tasks that involve handling of implements or utensils, use of public or shared bathroom facilities or telephones, and personal contacts such as handshaking are Category III tasks. Category III tasks include minimal potential for exposure to blood and body fluids.

Staff placed in Category III are NOT to become involved in direct patient care or clean-up of blood/body fluid spills.

Methods of Compliance

All employees will practice Standard Precautions to prevent contact with blood or other potentially infectious materials.

Standard Precautions

1. Blood and body fluid precautions will be used consistently.
2. All employees will use barrier precautions (gloves, gowns, masks/eye shields) to prevent exposure to skin or mucous membranes when contact with blood or other potentially infectious materials is anticipated.
3. Disposable items (single use) will always be replaced as soon as practical when visibly contaminated or torn, punctured, or when their ability to function as a barrier is compromised. Disposable items will not be washed or decontaminated for reuse.
4. Hands or skin surfaces will be washed immediately and thoroughly if contaminated with blood or body fluid. Hands will also be washed after removing protective gloves.
4. Safety precautions will be followed to prevent injuries caused by needles or other sharp objects.
6. All sharps will be placed in rigid, red, puncture-proof containers, or rigid, puncture- proof containers of a different color that are marked with a biohazard label.
7. Pregnant employees will be especially familiar with and strictly adhere to precautions to minimize the risk of HIV transmission.

Engineering and Work Practice Controls

Engineering and work practice controls will be used to eliminate or minimize employee exposure.

1. Eating, drinking, smoking, applying cosmetics or lip balm, and handling contact lenses are prohibited in work areas where there is a reasonable likelihood of occupational exposure.
2. Food or beverages will be consumed only in a safe, designated area. Food and drink will not be kept on counter tops or bench tops where blood or other potentially infectious material is present.
3. Employees will wash hands immediately or as soon as feasible after removal of gloves or other personal protective equipment. Antiseptic hand cleaners, waterless soap, or towelettes, in conjunction with a clean cloth or paper towels, will be used if handwashing facilities are not available.

4. Employees will wash their hands or any other skin with soap and water or flush the mucous membrane with water immediately or as soon as possible following contact with blood or other potentially infectious materials.

   Handwashing facilities are located in the bathrooms and in the science lab area.

5. Smoking is not permitted within the facility.

6. Contaminated needles or other contaminated sharps will not be bent, recapped, sheared, broken, or removed. Immediately, or as soon as possible after each use, contaminated sharps will be placed in containers which are puncture resistant, leak resistant, and properly labeled. All glass and hard plastics (intact or broken), which are to be discarded, are to be treated as sharps.

   The only exception to this rule is a student or staff member who is self administering medication (e.g. insulin). In these cases, needles can be recapped by the student or staff member and then placed in the appropriate container.

   A sharps container is located in the nurse's office and is mounted 52-56 inches from the floor to minimize needlestick risk.

7. Any blood or body fluid-related accident (e.g. needlestick, blood or body fluid splatter or splash to the mucous membranes) will be reported immediately to the School Director/Principal/designee and the Safety Specialist/designee.

8. Equipment which has been contaminated with blood or other potentially infectious materials will be decontaminated before being serviced or shipped unless it can be shown that decontamination of the equipment is not feasible. Equipment, or portions thereof which are not decontaminated, require that a warning label be affixed.

9. Staff members who are breast-feeding may store breast milk in communal refrigerators or freezers if the milk is stored in a separate container that is labeled accordingly.

Personal Protective Equipment:

1. Gloves, pocket masks, gowns, masks/eye shields.
2. Personal protective equipment will be used for all occupational exposure situations unless:
   "Under rare and extraordinary circumstances the employee uses his/her professional judgment that, in a specific instance, its use would have prevented delivery of healthcare or public safety services or would have posed an increased hazard to the safety of the employee."
3. Situations in which personal protective equipment was temporarily or briefly declined will be investigated and documented to determine if changes can be instituted to prevent future occurrences.
4. Appropriate personal protective equipment will be readily accessible and will be kept in "mess kits." These kits will contain:
   a. one pair disposable gloves
   b. one disposable gown
   c. one disposable mask with face shield
   d. 8 grams of absorbent powder
   e. one clear, disposable bag
   f. one disinfecting towelette
   g. one absorbent towel
   i. one scoop/scraper
   j. 2 twist ties
   k. one antimicrobial hand wipe
   l. instructions.

   These kits are located in the nurse's office.

5. First aid supplies are available in the nurse's office.

6. Gloves will be worn when it can be reasonably anticipated that the employee may have contact with blood, other potentially infectious materials, mucous membranes, and non-intact skin.

7. Hypoallergenic gloves, glove liners, powderless gloves, and other similar alternatives will be readily accessible to employees who are allergic to the gloves normally provided.

   Hand lotion containing petroleum products or mineral oil shall not be applied prior to donning gloves as these products may cause deterioration of the glove.

8. Cleaning, laundering, repairing, replacing, or disposal of personal protective equipment will be provided at no cost to the employee.

9. Personal protective equipment will be utilized when working with potentially infectious materials.

   Disposable protective gloves will be used during handling of contaminated disposable items and during direct physical care to students.

   It is recommended that employees wear at least two (2) pair of disposable gloves due to the possibility that viruses can permeate a wet glove within 15 minutes.

10. If a garment(s) is penetrated by blood or other potentially infectious material, the garment(s) must be removed immediately or as soon as feasible.

11. Personal protective equipment will be removed prior to leaving the work area where there is reasonable likelihood of occupational exposure.

Regulated Waste Management:

The following guidelines will be followed to meet the federal guidelines; however, if the Indiana medical/biohazardous waste regulations are more stringent, then the Indiana regulations will be followed.

1. Contaminated sharps will be discarded immediately or as soon as possible in containers which are closable, puncture resistant, and leakproof on the sides and bottom.

2. The sharps containers will be easily accessible to personnel and located as close as possible to the areas where sharps are used.

3. The sharps containers will be maintained upright throughout their use, replaced routinely, and not be allowed to be more than three quarters (3/4) full.

4. During replacement or removal from the work area, the sharps containers will be closed to prevent the spillage or protrusion of contents during handling, storage, transport, or shipping.

   The sharps container will be placed in a secondary container if leakage is possible.

5. Full sharps containers will be packaged in a corrugated fiberboard box or equivalent rigid container (provided by the contracted disposer). When the box is full, it will be closed, labeled with the name, address, and phone number of the facility, and picked up by the contracted disposer.

6. Items used to clean up spills of blood or body fluids (e.g. cloths, paper towels), will be sealed in red plastic bags and placed in a corrugated fiberboard box, or equivalent, (provided by the disposer). When full, the box will be closed, labeled with the name, address, and phone number of the facility, and picked up by the contracted disposer. Infectious materials collection boxes are located in designated areas of the facility.

Deliberate failure to comply with Standard Precautions and or approved methods for handling infectious waste will result in progressive disciplinary action.

Housekeeping Practices

The work site will be maintained in a clean and sanitary condition.

Housekeeping:

1. All equipment and environmental and working surfaces will be cleaned with an absorbent material and decontaminated after contact with blood or other potentially infectious material.

2. A solution of an EPA-approved germicide that is labeled as tuberculocidal or with specific inactivation claims against HIV and HBV will be used to clean surfaces that have been contaminated with blood or other body fluids. The solution will remain in contact with the contaminated area for the amount of time recommended by the manufacturer.

3. The process of decontamination will be conducted after completion of all procedures on surfaces are overtly contaminated or after the spill of blood or other potentially infectious material; at the end of the work shift if the surface may have become contaminated since the last cleaning.

4. Broken glassware must be handled with the aid of a mechanical device (e.g. brush and dust pan, tongs, or forceps).

Hepatitis B Vaccination:

Hepatitis B Vaccine

1. Employees who have occupational or inadvertent exposure will be provided, at no cost, the Hepatitis B vaccine series, as well as post exposure evaluation and follow-up, including laboratory testing.

   Vaccinations are administered on site.

2. Protocol for the above procedures will be performed under the supervision of the Medical Director of Fairbanks Hospital, Inc. and provided in accordance with the recommendations of the U.S. Public Health Service, the Centers for Disease Control or other designated authority.

3. The Hepatitis B vaccination will be offered to employees by the School Safety Specialist during general employee orientation. The initial vaccination will be administered within 10 calendar days of initial assignment, after the employees have received information on the following:

   a. efficacy of the vaccine;
   b. safety of the vaccine;
   c. method of administration;
   d. benefits associated with vaccination;
   e. acknowledgment of free vaccine.

4. The Hepatitis B vaccine and any future booster(s) will be available to employees who have an occupational or inadvertent exposure; unless they have previously received the complete Hepatitis B vaccine series or the vaccine is contraindicated for medical reasons.

5. An employee who initially declines the Hepatitis B vaccine will be allowed to receive the vaccine at a later date.

6. Category I and II employees who either accept or decline the Hepatitis B vaccination will be required to sign a statement.

   Category III employees who accept the Hepatitis B vaccination will be required to sign a statement.

7. Post vaccination testing for the presence of antibodies will be completed for all employees who receive the vaccination series 1-2 months after the third dose. Antibody titers will also be drawn on employees who have been vaccinated elsewhere and can not provide proof of having had the titer drawn.

   Those employees with no response to the initial series will be offered a second series and then are re-tested for antibody levels 1-2 months after the third dose. Non-responders to the second series will be considered susceptible to HBV infection.

Post-Exposure Evaluation and Follow-Up

Following a report of an exposure incident, Hope Academy will make a confidential medical evaluation immediately available to the employee and will follow-up on the incident.

The employee will be seen at Med-Check (a division of Community Hospitals, Indianapolis) or Community Hospitals- North emergency room.

Med Check/emergency room will follow established CDC guidelines for post-exposure evaluation and follow-up. These guidelines may include:

a. A baseline health history will be taken within 2 hours of the exposure.

b. The exposed employee's blood will be collected and tested after consent is obtained for determination of HIV and/or Hepatitis B, or C status.

c. The employee will be offered repeat blood testing 6 weeks post-exposure and on a periodic basis thereafter (12 weeks and 6 months after exposure).

d. Follow-up of the exposed employee will include counseling, medical evaluation of any acute febrile illness that occurs within 12 weeks post exposure, and use of safe and effective post-exposure measures according to recommendations for standard medical practices.

The employee and Hope Academy are provided with a written report of the medical evaluation.

Information and Training

Training:

1. A training program will be provided for all employees during working hours. This training will include:
   a. videotape;
   b. written materials.

2. The training will be provided before an initial assignment to a task involving a potential occupational exposure and annually thereafter.

3. Additional training will be provided when modification of tasks or procedures affects the employee's occupational exposure.

4. The training program will include:
   a. information on the Bloodborne Pathogens regulation and a copy of same;
   b. epidemiology and symptoms of bloodborne diseases;
   c. modes of transmission of bloodborne pathogens;
   d. access to a written copy of Hope Academy's Exposure Control Plan and an explanation of the plan;
   e. methods for recognizing tasks and other activities which may involve exposure to blood or other potentially infectious materials;
   f. methods of utilizing existing engineering controls, work practices, and personal protective equipment.

   c. procedures to follow in the event of an exposure;
   d. post-exposure follow-up;
   e. explanation of signs, labels, and/or color coding.

Record Keeping

Sharps Injury Log

1. Hope Academy shall document all sharps injuries on the OSHA 300 log. The log will document the type and brand of device involved in the incident, the department or work area where the exposure incident occurred, the route of exposure, HBV, HCV and HIV status of the source if known, and the circumstance under which the exposure occurred.

Employee Files

1. An accurate file will be maintained on each employee with occupational exposure; the file will contain the following:
    a. name and social security number;
    b. Hepatitis B vaccination status and dates;
    c. results of examinations, medical testing, and follow-up;
    d. copies of Agreement/Declination to Receive the Hepatitis B vaccine, Occupational Exposure Follow-up Forms: Employee and Medical.

2. All information contained in the employee file is confidential.

3. These files will be maintained for the duration of the employee's tenure plus 30 years.

4. In the event Hope Academy ceases operations, and there is no successor to retain the records for the proscribed period, Hope Academy will contact OSHA for direction on disposition of the records.

School will begin promptly at 9:00 a.m. and will be dismissed at 3:20 p.m. The Recovery Center facility has a lounge and coffee shop on the first floor that students may have access to before school. Students may arrive before school but are asked to arrive no earlier than 8:00 a.m. unless prior arrangements have been made.

When students enter the school in the morning, they are to come into the quads, where they will be supervised by the Recovery Team. Students may not leave and return prior to 9:00 a.m. without permission from staff. Parents will be notified if a student is non-compliant.

Hope Academy encourages students to schedule appointments before/after school or during Student Resources Time/Lunch. Scheduling at these times will limit students missed class time and give students the greatest opportunity for educational success.

Dismissal is at 3:20 p.m. on most days, 2:04 p.m. on Early Release Days. Students are supervised by a Hope staff member until 5:00 p.m. and are expected to comply with the direction of that staff member. Students are expected to be picked up by 5:00 p.m. Any special circumstances regarding this pick up time need to be approved by the principal. Failure to comply with the direction of either the Hope or Recovery Center staff will result in the inability of the student to stay in the building past 3:20 p.m.

Section I

School Visitors Policy

The School Board welcomes and encourages visits to school by parents, other adult residents of the community, and interested educators. In order for the educational program to continue undisturbed when visitors are present and to prevent the intrusion of disruptive persons into the schools, it is necessary to invoke visitor controls.

- The principal has the authority to prohibit the entry of any person to the school or to expel any person when there is reason to believe the presence of such person would be disruptive to the good order of the school. If such an individual refuses to leave the school grounds, or creates a disturbance, the principal is authorized to request from the local law enforcement agency whatever assistance is required to remove the individual.

Volunteers Policy and Procedures

Volunteers will be expected to follow the school's requirements as stated in the School Visitors Policy.

- All inquiries for volunteer services will be required to complete a Volunteer Interest Form. The form must be sent to the school or given to Volunteer Coordinator.

Section II

Student Resources Fee

Students will be charged an annual instructional fee for Recovery Materials, classroom supplies, testing materials, and/or other supplemental educational supplies. These fees will be collected at registration or upon enrollment. The total cost is $100.00 per semester. If a student enters Hope Academy after the second grade period during the semester, this fee will be prorated.

Textbook Fee

The textbook fee for all students is $25.00.These fees will be collected at registration or upon enrollment. The parent of a student enrolled in a public school who meets certain financial eligibility standards may have the fees for textbooks reduced by the school (IC 20-8, 1-9-3). Financial eligibility forms are available at the school office.

Drug Testing Fee

Parents are responsible for the cost of a maximum of 2 tests per month, regardless of the test results. The cost of each test is $20.00 therefore a maximum of $40.00 per month may be billed to the parent(s) of the student. Hope Academy has the right to give more than 2 tests per month but will cover the additional cost. If it is necessary for a student to have a UDS screen for spice or for confirmation, there will be an additional charge of $10 per test. Parents may also choose to pay an additional cost to have their student tested more frequently. Drug Testing Fees will be explained at registration.

*Any unpaid fees (Resource, Textbook, Drug Testing) will be sent to a collection agency for repayment. Please notify the school if necessary to avoid processing.

Early Release Days

As we strive to best serve our students and families, we feel that one way to continue to meet the needs of our students is through meaningful professional development. Our goal is to always provide supports and interventions that are research-based and are proven to work with our student population. Best practices in professional development include the imbedding of the training during the work day, as it allows for more continuous time for staff to participate in the activities. We will be following a model that is being implemented in many other schools and districts, which is the use of an early-release day schedule.

Students will be dismissed on certain Fridays at 2:04 p.m. These days have been identified on the one-page school calendar with all of the identified dates, holidays, etc. As always, we appreciate you as we work together to provide the necessary supports at school and at home to promote student success.

Academic Integrity

The core value of honesty is an integral part of Hope Academy. Honesty in word and deed remain critical to our success as a team. This includes, but is not limited to class resources, behavior tests, assignments, internet use and other class activities. Grades that are earned in classes will be based on the student's own work.

Plagiarism and cheating are dishonest and will not be tolerated. According to Webster's New International Dictionary of the English Language, to plagiarize is "to steal or purloin and pass off as one's own the ideas, words, artistic productions of another; to use without due credit the ideas, expressions or productions of another." Students are educated about plagiarism and notified of the obligations resulting from their actions. The following will occur if verification of plagiarism is found: 1st offense – loss of credit for the assignment. 2nd offense – loss of credit for the assignment. 3rd offense – the student will lose credit for the course for that semester.

Students who are taking a course while using the online software application, Edmentum, must not use other websites to obtain information to complete the Edmentum coursework. In the event that a student is found to complete their Edmentum coursework with the aid of online "cheating" websites, the following will occur:

1st offense – the assignment or test will be given a grade of 0 and will be locked. 2nd offense – the assignment or test will be given a grade of 0 and the test will be locked. 3rd offense – the student will lose credit for the course for that semester.

All Edmentum coursework must be completed in the Edmentum lab during assigned classroom times. Any work completed outside of the lab or assigned time will be considered cheating. In the event that a student is caught not following these expectations, the following will occur:

1st offense – the assignment or test will be given a grade of 0 and will be locked. 2nd offense – the assignment or test will be given a grade of 0 and the test will be locked. 3rd offense – the student will lose credit for the course for that semester.

Cell phone use is strictly prohibited during Edmentum instruction time. If a student is caught using a cellphone or similar device, the following will occur:

1st offense – the assignment or test will be given a grade of 0 and will be locked. 2nd offense – the assignment or test will be given a grade of 0 and the test will be locked. 3rd offense – the student will lose credit for the course for that semester.

Student work will be authentic and representative of their own effort and not a fabrication of other's work.

Community Days

Throughout the school year, students will participate in Community Days. The purpose of these days is to offer students an opportunity to build community, collaborate on projects, participate in service learning activities, and to offer special recovery activities. Attendance is required for all students, including December grads who are continuing to work on their Senior Capstone project.

Diploma and Graduation Requirements

As an Indiana Core 40 High School, students must complete a minimum of 40 credits. Requirements are graduation year specific and detailed information regarding these requirements may be obtained by contacting the school guidance counselor or visiting the following Department of Education Website: http://www.doe.state.in.us/core40/diploma_requirements.html

Hope Academy Graduation Requirements

In order to graduate from Hope Academy, a student must meet the Core 40 diploma requirements, complete a Senior Capstone project and pass the state required test in math and language arts, as determined by the Indiana Department of Education. Students must also complete the individual recovery requirements.

Students are encouraged to complete more than the minimum of Core 40 credits. Students should check admission requirements for specific colleges and universities or post-secondary programs, and work those requirements into their Senior Capstone project.

Some Core 40 courses may not be offered at Hope Academy. However, the guidance department will assist students in alternative arrangements, such as earning credits via on-line courses.

Each semester of enrollment all students are required to be enrolled in a minimum of four courses to be eligible for graduation. Exceptions to this requirement may be determined by school administration for students taking dual credit college courses.

Hope Academy requires for graduation that each student completes 8 semesters or equivalent of high school. Any student wanting to graduate in less than 8 semesters must petition the Principal.

To participate in graduation ceremonies, seniors must have earned all required Core 40 credits, must be in good standing with regards to recovery, behavior, and attendance and must participate in all of the graduation activities leading up to graduation, including the second semester Senior Capstone project.

Hope Academy's Valedictorian will be determined based upon their recovery and academic achievements. Length of sobriety and grade point average (G.P.A) will be used to determine eligibility.

Basic Skills Course

Students will be required to complete a Basic Skills course each semester at Hope Academy. This course will include the development of a Recovery Binder. Students may engage in career exploration, life skill training, financial literacy, service-learning, reflections regarding growth in academics and/or recovery, or other relevant content. The student may earn elective credit each semester. Additionally, students in the basic skills class will be meeting weekly with the Hope Academy Recovery Coach to assist in their goal setting, monitoring, and recovery progress. The basic skills grade earned will be a combination of the curricular and recovery assignments, as well as demonstration of leadership and the Hope Academy Core Values.

S.T.A.R.R. Program

The S.T.A.R.R. (Supportive, Therapeutic, Action-focused Recovery Room) Program at Hope Academy will offer students early in recovery and those that have struggled to maintain long-term sobriety additional recovery supports. More individualized education and an increased focus on recovery will be the foundation for the program. Hope Academy believes it is imperative students be provided with the opportunity and the support to be successful. Components of the program include: therapeutic recovery groups, additional art opportunities, individualized educational instruction, recovery coaching, and increased accountability. Students will be placed in the program via team recommendation and will be required to complete the program to return to the general school community.

Early Graduation Requirements

Early graduation is possible if all graduation and recovery requirements are met, and the student is in good standing with regards to recovery and discipline. Families may contact the guidance office for details and requirements. Early graduation is at the discretion of the school principal. All early graduates who wish to receive a diploma from Hope Academy, whether graduation after their 3rd year, or finishing their credits in December, must complete the Senior Capstone project. Students finishing in December will continue to be enrolled in a Basic Skills class for the second semester, and must complete the Capstone project, come in for a minimum of two UDS per month, turn in their meetings sheets documenting a minimum of two meetings per week, and show documentation of working with their sponsor.

Withdrawing from a Course

Students may withdraw from a course the first ten (10) days of a semester without penalty. After this time students will need to be granted permission from the director/principal. Students withdrawing after 10 days and without permission will be withdraw fail (WF) for the semester.

Credit

Course credit is awarded when a student has met all course requirements with a passing grade (see grading scale) for an individual course.

Grading System

Grades and credits are awarded on achievement at the following levels:

100%	A+
94-99 %	A
90 – 93%	A-
87 - 89%	B+
84 - 86%	B
80 - 83%	B-
77 - 79%	C+
74 - 76%	C

70 - 73%	C-
67 – 69%	D+
64 – 66%	D
Below 60%	F

Hope Academy operates on a 4.00 scale. Percentage grades will be converted to a Grade Point Average (GPA) for official course transcripts. Report Cards will be issued each 6 weeks and the semester grade will be calculated from three 6 week grading periods and a final examination. The Final grade is determined using the following formula- 2/7 for each six week grade period and 1/7 for the course final exam.

Homework Help

Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology's Homework Hotline provides free math and science homework help to Indiana students in grades 6-12. Students may call the Homework Hotline from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. (Eastern Daylight Time) toll free at 1-877-ASK-ROSE. It's a free service and a free call.
The program is funded by Lilly Endowment, Inc., 3M Corporation and Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology.

Tutoring assistance is also available both before and after school by appointment with the classroom teacher(s).

Section III

Recovery Requirements

All students at Hope Academy sign The Hope Academy Recovery Commitment to show their intentions and dedication to be a student in recovery at Hope Academy.

Along with the recovery commitment, students must comply with specific recovery expectations. The recovery requirements are stated as minimum expectations and Hope Academy staff has the authority to modify these requirements as needed to assist students with recovery issues.
Students are required to:

- Attend and show verification of attendance for a minimum of 2 Twelve-Step meetings a week. Attendance at the Monday/Thursday Young People's All Recovery meetings may count for one of those two meetings.
- Have a sponsor verified by Hope Academy staff, and make a minimum of 2 contacts weekly with this sponsor. Student will schedule an introductory meeting between the sponsor and Recovery Coach. Recovery Coaches will have consent to communicate with sponsor.
- Engage in the use of recovery tools and Basic Skills Recovery Binder.
- Report relapses within 24 hours to Hope Academy Recovery Coach.
- Be actively working one of the Twelve Steps, and share documentation pertaining to the step work during Basic Skills class.

New students will be given 7 days to attend their first meeting and 21 days to obtain a sponsor. Non-compliance may result in being assigned to the STARR program.

Non-Compliance of the Recovery Requirements

- The Recovery Coach will have an impromptu meeting discussing concerns with the student. At this time the Recovery Coach will identify the area of need and offer support, develop a plan for compliance, and reset goals for skill building and resource development.

- If noncompliance continues, the Recovery Coach will contact parent at which time the area(s) of non-compliance will be stated, and the written plan that was developed between the student and the Recovery Coach will be shared.

- If noncompliance continues, a conference with the student, parents, administrator, and Recovery Coach will be scheduled.

- Failure to complete and execute the written plan will result in the student being assigned to a before and/or after school meeting/service learning opportunity. If the non-compliance continues, other measures will be taken, up to and including removal from Hope Academy.

- In the event of a positive UDS or a report of a relapse, parents will be contacted by a Recovery Coach as soon as possible.

Section IV

Clinic

A clinic is provided for general first aid and other health-related issues. Students are to have permission from a classroom teacher to visit the clinic. In the clinic, the school nurse will assess the student's wellness and determine if the student needs to be sent home. A parent will be notified if it is determined the student is unable to attend class. Parents will be required to make arrangements for the student to be picked up or may give permission for them to transport themselves home.

Medication

Medication Policy

When it is necessary for a student to take medication during the school day, Indiana State Code 34-4-16.5-3.5 must be followed. No prescription medication shall be administered without the written and dated consent of the student's legal guardian and his/her physician. All prescription or nonprescription medication to be administered to a student must be accompanied by a parent/guardian's statement describing the medication, dosage and time for it to be administered to the student, and must be in the original pharmacy container. A student cannot have any medications in their possession while at school; all medications must be kept in the clinic of Hope Academy. A student found carrying over-the-counter medications or prescription medications while at school is subject to disciplinary action by school administration.

Medications must be transported to and from the nurse by a parent/guardian and will be kept in a locked storage unit at Hope Academy. Students will need to see the school nurse to take the appropriate medicines.

Drug Testing

Hope Academy is a school of choice. Choosing to attend this school means that students voluntarily agree to submit to drug testing in accordance with the school's established policy. To ensure an alcohol and drug free community, drug testing will occur on a weekly basis. The testing may include breathalyzers or urinary drug screens. Also, to ensure validity of urinary drug screens, all screens will be visually observed by a licensed professional. All test results regardless of outcome will be sent to parents monthly. Parents are responsible for the cost of a maximum of 2 tests per month, regardless of the test results. The cost of each test is $20.00 therefore a maximum of $40.00 per month may be billed to the parent(s) of the student. If it is necessary for a student to have a UDS screen for spice or for confirmation, there will be an additional charge of $10 per test. Hope Academy has the right to give more than 2 tests per month but will cover the additional cost. Parents will be notified by a recovery coach within 24 hours, upon verification of a positive test result. A urine drug screen will be considered positive if:

- The screen detects a banned substance.
- The screen is diluted as determined by the lab.
- The student fails to give a urine screen in 1 hour.

Urine Sample Collection Procedures

- The school nurse shall escort the student to the toilet facility.
- Once in the toilet facility the student must remove all clothing between the waist and knee, in order that the school nurse has an unobstructed view of sample provision. Sleeves should be rolled up so that the student's arms and hands are also clearly visible.
- The school nurse shall directly observe the student providing the urine sample, adjusting his/her position so as to have a clear view of the sample leaving the student's body.
- The volume of urine collected should be that specified by the relevant laboratory.
- Once a urine sample which satisfies the volume requirements has been collected, or the student has provided a partial sample and is unable to provide any more urine at that time, the school nurse shall escort the student back to the classroom.
- If the school nurse observes any unusual behavior by the student while witnessing the passing of the sample, the sample will be discarded and another sample will be collected.
- If a student wishes to wash his/her hands after passing the sample, the sample should be placed in cold storage by student or staff prior to washing hands.
- Students giving a partial or no sample will return to the clinic with the nurse and must comply within one hour of the original sample collection time.
- The principal will be contacted if the student is unable to give a urine sample within 60 minutes at which time a parent will be called and positive result will be determined.
- Students must attempt to provide a urine sample at the time the sample is requested. Student may request up to four 8 ounce glasses of water before providing a sample. Carbonated beverages or juice will not be allowed.

Section V

Attendance Policy and Procedures

Compulsory Attendance

Every child between the ages of seven (7) and eighteen (18) years is required to attend school. A student may not withdraw until the age of 18 and an exit interview is conducted. Students will be marked absent/excused if the following scenarios are validated:

- Student illness or medical, dental, or professional appointments with documentation
- Death in the immediate family
- Exclusion because of exposure to a contagious disease
- Required religious observance
- Court appointment
- Absences assigned for disciplinary reasons (example: suspension)

Students will be marked absent/unexcused if they are not present in school and one of the above criteria is not met. If the school office has not heard from a parent by end of the school day, the students will be considered truant (absent/unexcused). Truancy will result in disciplinary action. Teachers are not required to allow students to make up classroom work if the student is truant (absent/unexcused).

IN THE FOLLOWING EVENTS, STUDENTS ARE NOT COUNTED ABSENT IN ACCORDANCE WITH IC 20-8.1-3-18. AND THESE ABSENCES MUST BE PREARRANGED:

- Page or honoree in the Indiana General Assembly
- Subpoenaed court appearance
- Aide to a political candidate, a political party, or to a precinct election board on the date of an election
- National Guard Duty
- School-sponsored field trips, including approved and parent-accompanied higher education days

Attendance Reporting

The student's parent or guardian is expected to call the School Office (572-9440) before 10:00 a.m. of the day the absence occurs to notify the school. When calling, the following information is requested:

- The student's name
- Name of the person making the call and relationship to the student
- The reason, date & period(s) for the absence, if not for entire day.
- Contact phone number so the call may be verified.

If the parent or guardian does not have access to a phone, a note from a parent/legal guardian will be accepted on the day the student returns to school. If the absence is due to a medical, dental or other professional appointment, a note of verification from the professional appointment is required at which time the absence will be excused. The note should include the date, time and length of the appointment on professional letterhead with a phone number and address. The notes should accompany the student upon their return to school. Doctor's notes may be requested if the student has an extended illness.

The following reasons will be considered as excused absences:

- Student illness or medical, dental, or professional appointments with documentation
- Death in the immediate family
- Exclusion because of exposure to a contagious disease
- Required religious observance
- Court appointment
- Absences assigned for disciplinary reasons (example: suspension)

All phone calls must be received by the School Office within one hour of the start of school. If no phone call is received the absence will be marked as truancy. Efforts will be made to contact the parents if no call is received.

Early Dismissal for Professional Appointments

Students will not be allowed to leave school grounds without the knowledge and permission of a parent or guardian and permission from an administrator.

Students will not be allowed to leave school or miss class to run errands such as returning home for books or materials. When a student needs to leave school before the end of the school day, the following steps must be followed:

- The parent or guardian should call the school office 572-9440 or send a note to the school office.
- The school staff will write the student a pass to leave at the specified time.
- The student will show the pass to the teacher and report to the school office to sign out. All students leaving the building without permission or without signing out will be subject to the same consequences assigned for truancy.
- Students sent home from the Nurse's Office must sign-out in the school office. Before a student who has become ill or injured is sent home, the school will notify parents or guardians to arrange for transportation. In case of an injury which needs medical attention, an attempt will be made to consult with the parent or guardian for advice. Under no circumstances will the school allow another student to transport the ill or injured student. If a parent or legal guardian cannot be reached, the student will be taken to a doctor or the hospital. The school does not assume responsibility for payment of these bills.

Absences, Excessive

In the event of a student who has absences (excused and/or unexcused) in excess of five (5) days, the administration may recommend one of the following actions:

- No action necessary (work is updated, doctor notes turned in, student on track)
- Student will be required to serve detention (before or after school)
- Student will be suspended
- Students will be recommended for expulsion
- Students with an excessive amount of absences may lose the following privileges:
    - Loss of driver license until age 18
    - Revocation of work permit
    - Loss of driving privileges

School Interventions

- Day Five – a phone call or email will be sent to the parent/guardian notifying him/her of the absences along with the attendance policy and possible future obligations.
- Day Six – A conference with the student, parents, and administration will be scheduled at which time the family and school administration will discuss obligations as listed above.
- Day Seven – a letter will be sent home notifying parents and given to the student to inform them of the violation of the attendance policy.
- Day Nine – Parent will be contacted and notified that one more absence will result in an attendance hearing with the school.
- Day Ten – Parent will be contacted to schedule an attendance hearing with school administration at which time the student's attendance will be reviewed and a determination of obligations will be established.

College Visits and Pre-arranged Absences

- At the beginning of the 11th grade year each student may explore many post-secondary options.
- Students in grades 11 or 12 are allowed two higher education days, these absences must be prearranged.

- Occasionally, situations arise whereby students are required to be absent from school. On these occasions, the principal/designee may grant a prearranged absence if the request is appropriate and within timelines. A pre-arranged absence request form must be submitted at least five (5) school days in advance of the requested absence. A student may use no more than five (5) school days of prearranged absences per year. A pre-arranged absence request form may be found on our website. Students are responsible for making up all missed assignments; no assignments will be given in advance. Failure to request a pre-arranged absence five (5) school days in advance will result in an unexcused absence(s). Prearranged absences will not be approved on days the student's class is scheduled for final examinations, NWEA (MAP) and ISTEP testing days, achievement tests, or during student-led conference days, or days extending Thanksgiving break, Christmas break or Spring break.

Truancy Consequences – invalidation of driver's license

Indiana law states that under certain conditions a student may have his/her driving license suspended. The purpose of this law is to encourage student attendance and appropriate behaviors. Under Indiana Code section 18 IC 20-33-2-11 students must meet minimum requirements to qualify for the issuance of an operator's license or a learner's permit.

- Be at least thirteen (13) years of age but less than 18 years of age
- Must not be a habitual truant under the definition of IC 20-33-8-12. A child is defined as habitual truant student who is chronically absent, by having unexcused absences from school for more than ten (10) days of school in one school year.
- If a student is defined as a habitual truant they may not receive their operator's license or learner's permit until the age of 18.
- The governing body may determine that the individual's attendance record has improved to the degree the individual may become eligible to be issued an operator's license or a learner's permit before February 1 and October 1.
- The term suspension used in this policy is an out-of-school suspension as defined in IC 20-8.1-1-11.

A driver's license or a learner's permit may not be issued to an individual less than eighteen (18) years of age who meets any of the following conditions:

- Is a habitual truant under IC 20-33-8-12.
- Is under at least a second suspension from school for the school year under IC 20-8.1-5.1-8 or IC 20-8.1-5.1-9.
- Is under an expulsion from school due to misconduct under IC 20-8.1-5.1-8, IC 20-8.1-5.1-9, or IC 20-8.1-5.1-10.
- Has withdrawn from school, for a reason other than financial hardship and the withdrawal was reported under IC 20-8.1-3-24 (a) before graduation

If a person is less than eighteen (18) years of age and is an habitual truant, is under suspension or an expulsion, or withdrawn from school described in Section 1, IC 9-24-2, the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles shall, upon notification by the student's principal, invalidate the person's license or permit until the earliest of the following:

- The person becomes eighteen (18) years of age.
- One hundred and twenty (120) days after the person is suspended or the end of a term during which the person returns to school, whichever is longer.
- The suspension or expulsion is reversed after the person has had a hearing under IC 20-8.1-5.1.

Enforcement of Attendance Policy

The principal or designee shall:

- Designate any student as a habitual truant if the student's attendance records indicate such designation.
- If a student is designated as a habitual truant the principal may file a report to the appropriate agencies in order to assist with this issue. This will include legal authorities including the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. Indiana Code grants power to the state to remove or delay drivers' licensing of students who are habitually truant (I.C. 9-24-2-1)
- Review the student's attendance record no less than one time each school year to determine if the prohibition against receipt of an operator's license or learner's permit shall continue. At least one hundred and twenty (120) school days must have elapsed since the determination of designation in order to have a significant sampling from which to make a determination of improved attendance. This review will be made at the written request of the student or his/her parent or guardian.
- If the prohibition against receipt of the license or permit is removed, the principal shall notify the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles. The removal of the prohibition, however, shall not cause the number of truancy days to be erased for purposes of later determining that a student is a repeat habitual truant under this policy.

Tardiness

Students are expected to maintain a 95% attendance rate. Regular school attendance improves learning, establishes dependable work habits, allows students to take full advantage of educational opportunities and enhances a supportive recovery environment.

Students who are late to class will be counted as tardy. A student not in the classroom when the bell begins to ring will be considered tardy. Students who arrive at school after the tardy bell rings must sign in at the School Office.

Tardy Policy

For each individual class (periods 2-7):

- First offense – Verbal warning given by teacher and mark in attendance
- Second offense – Verbal warning given by teacher and mark in attendance
- Third offense – Verbal warning and parent contact by teacher, also mark in attendance
- Fourth offense – Verbal warning, parent contact, mark in attendance and referral to guidance counselor for contract
- Fifth offense – Verbal warning, parent contact, mark in attendance and referral to administrator for lunch detention
- Sixth offense – in/out of school suspension and/or after school detention

Lunch Detention will take place Tuesdays and Thursdays.

For tardies to school (entering Hope after 9:00 a.m.)

- First offense – Verbal warning given by principal or guidance counselor, teacher marks attendance when student comes to class with late pass from office
- Second offense – Verbal warning given by principal or guidance counselor, teacher marks attendance when student comes to class with late pass from office
- Third offense – Verbal warning and parent contact by principal or guidance counselor, teacher marks attendance when student comes to class with late pass from office
- Fourth offense – Parent conference with student, guidance counselor, and principal to develop an intervention plan
- Fifth offense – loss of driving privilege, possible suspension and/or after school detention

Section VI

Student Behavior

To help students develop appropriate behaviors, Hope Academy will apply the principles of Restorative Practices in the student behavior system. Restorative Practices are based on the premise that students will be more likely to make changes in their behavior when they are involved in the process and the focus remains on what is best for the community. The use of Restorative Practices is designed to be responsive to the behavioral needs recovering students bring to school.

The faculty and staff will use progressive and restorative discipline practices as a guide for determining the appropriate actions for a specific student. A student's behavioral needs will be evaluated in terms of how often the behavior has presented itself, the impact the behavior has had on the community, and the length of time the behavior has been occurring. The following steps will be taken during the restorative discipline process: Making affective statements, stating affective questions, having impromptu meetings/discussion, conducting a circle of concern, parent contacts, conferencing, and/or behavior transformation meeting. Additionally, students impacting the educational process or causing safety concerns may be removed from the classroom, removed from the school community, suspended, and/or recommended for expulsion.

Hope Academy staff and student have developed lists of Community Expectations. These expectations will be reviewed and modified each year. These documents will be visually displayed and will guide desired student behaviors.

With regards to some major disruptive behaviors, students may be suspended or expelled for engaging in any activity on or off school grounds if the activity may reasonably be considered to be an interference with school purposes or an educational function, or the student removal is necessary to restore order or protect persons on school property.
The grounds for suspension or expulsion apply when a student is:

- on school grounds, before, during, or after school hours
- off school grounds at a school event or activity
- traveling to or from school or school event/activity

Hope Academy Community Expectations

Arrival

To promote safety and punctuality, students are to enter the building in uniform without outside food or drink, at which time they are to proceed to their locker and prepare for the day. Students are to be mindful of the following when planning for the day: plan ahead as to not jeopardize being late by placing personal items in locker and making sure all materials needed for class are prepared to go. Remember to follow all community expectations for school areas such as hallways, lounge, and vending area.

Attendance

To respect the educational processes students are expected to have a 95% attendance rate. Having a high attendance rate is conducive to strong recovery and educational outcomes.

Dismissal

To respect the school environment, students and faculty will ready the classroom for the next day as presented by administration. For example, chairs will be stacked, paper and supplies are to be off the floor, and computers will be shut down and stored properly. Students will then leave the building in a respectful manner at 3:20pm.

Passing Periods

Student will be given 4 minutes to pass from one class to the next. During this time students are expected to follow the community expectations for each area. (lounge, hallway, restroom, and vending area) Students are expected to be on time for their next class. Students are not allowed on the first floor during this time and are to only use the bathrooms located in the south student hallway.

Restrooms

To promote a clean and safe environment, students will follow the community expectations for the restroom area. The restrooms will be monitored by peers and a staff member to promote a sense of pride in our community and facilities. Students are prohibited from using any kind of smoking device in any of the building restrooms.

Cafeteria

To respect the other groups and individuals that use the Fairbanks cafeteria, Hope Academy students and staff will gather at the office door and promptly proceed together to lunch at the appointed time. Travel to and from the cafeteria is to be quiet and respectful. When in the cafeteria, students are to be respectful of others eating and cafeteria staff by waiting in line, talking quietly, using appropriate table manners and when finished eating, put their trays in the racks. At no time are students allowed to use their cell phones while in the hospital at Fairbanks. Students must follow all guidelines established by Fairbanks with regards to sharing food, returning to food line for additional purchases, and purchasing protocols.

Leaving the Classroom

To respect the learning process and to minimize distractions, leaving the classroom is discouraged. However, if a student needs to leave a classroom for an important reason during class, students are to request permission and a pass will be assigned. Students may also be required to leave their cell phones with the classroom teacher when leaving the class.

Lockers/Backpacks

Each student will be given a locker to store personal items. To respect the school environment, all lockers are to be kept neat, clean, and organized. Personal backpacks, purses, and other devices used to transport materials to and from school WILL NOT be allowed in classrooms. Students will be given a Hope Academy Back pack that he/she will be required to carry to each class with necessary materials. Lockers are Hope Academy property and may be searched at any time.

Personal Space/Boundaries
The space of each student, faculty, and staff member shall be respected at all times. This included their physical space, psychological space, and possessions. Pushing, shoving, borrowing items without permission, and talking out-of-turn are all examples of personal space/boundary violations. Public displays of affection are limited to hand holding during non-instructional times.

Language
The use and development of appropriate language is a key factor in working personal recovery. To promote recovery, each member of Hope Academy will be expected to use language that is constructive, positive, and supports the core values of Hope Academy.

Addressing Faculty and Staff
To promote respect towards faculty and staff, students will address adults by using their surnames. (Example: Mrs. Smith)

Readiness for the Classroom
Students will be mindful of those things they need to do to be ready for class. This includes arriving on time, being dressed appropriately, having completed assignments, and having the necessary resources to complete that day's school work.

Food, Drink, and Snacks
To promote safety, cleanliness, and respect for our school environment, food will NOT be allowed in the classrooms and will be confiscated if visible in the classroom. Students may have snack food in the student lounge area. Students may bring in drinks that have been sealed and are unopen. Once inside the school, only these drinks will be allowed in the classroom, as long as there is a lid for the container. Coffee and/or drinks with unsealed lids from the café downstairs or from an outside vendor will not be allowed. Students may have the school provided coffee up to 8:55 a.m. in either the Serenity room or Quads. Students are expected to clean up areas where food and drinks are allowed.

Electronic Devices
To respect learning, minimize distractions, and to promote socialization in recovery, personal electronic devices will not be allowed in school. (Examples: iPods, MP3 players, or CD players, E-Readers/Tablets, IPads, laptops, and headphones) Items will be confiscated by staff and may be picked them up at the end of the day. After the third confiscation, parents will be required to pick up the devices.

Cell Phones
Cell phone use is not permitted during instructional or lunch time. Students will be encouraged to turn in their cell phones in the front office each morning and will pick them up at the end of the day. Cell phones will be confiscated if use is observed in the classroom or cafeteria. Confiscated phones may be picked up at the end of the day. After the second time a phone is confiscated, the phone must be picked up by a parent or guardian. Phones may be checked in at the office, left at home, or left in the student's vehicle during the school day. A community phone will be available for student use at designated times.

Computer Use
Computers have been purchased by Hope Academy for students to use for educational purposes. Students using the computers are to respect them as property of the school and maintain high standards of care while in use. Students using a computer for purposes other than educational activities may have computer use suspended. Activities include; using Facebook, YouTube, Streaming Music/Video, etc.

The Hope Academy dress code has been designed to provide a positive and consistent atmosphere that encourages learning and supports a culture of recovery. Families that accept enrollment in the school also accept the school uniform policy.

All students will adhere to the following guidelines for student dress:

- The school uniform is defined as: floor length tan, navy or black khaki style pants worn waist high, and a black, gray, purple, or white polo shirt of appropriate size. Hope Academy has polo shirts with the Hope logo available for purchase in the front office.
  - The uniform must be worn at all times.
  - Appearance is to be neat and well-groomed. (Students will notified and given 1 day to correct)
  - Only Hope Academy fleece jackets may be worn over the uniform if necessary.
  - Undergarments may not be visible.
  - Athletic shorts may not be worn under khaki pants.
  - Shirts worn under student polo shirts must be tucked in.
  - Shoes must be worn at all times.
  - House slippers are not permitted.
  - Student jewelry should not distract from the educational environment of Hope Academy.
  - Pant material may not be denim or stretch and should not be tight fitting.
- Students that come to school out of uniform will not be permitted in school.
- Students that are noncompliant during the school day will be removed from the community.
- To encourage Community spirit, there may be designated "dress down" or "themed dress" days that students may participate in during the year. The expectations for these days will always be communicated to students and parents (via email) prior to this day. In order to avoid exclusion from school on these days, it is recommended that the student bring their uniform in case they are not in compliance with the special attire as outlined for that day.

Students will be required to call home and/or develop a plan to get into uniform. If a student is out of uniform twice during a day, they will be sent home. Students missing class time due to improper uniform will be held to the tardy, attendance, and/or truancy school policy.

Tobacco

Hope Academy is a tobacco-free campus for all ages. Therefore, students attending Hope Academy are not allowed to possess or use tobacco products on school grounds. Examples include but are not limited to: cigarettes, chewing tobacco, vape devices, dip, snuff, etc. Indiana State Law prohibits the possession and/or use of tobacco products by students under the age of 18 therefore, the school will confiscate and discard tobacco products and legal action may be taken. Students are not allowed on the adult smoking patio.

E Cig Policy

The school prohibits the use of electronic nicotine delivery systems such as; electronic cigarettes, electronic hookahs, and other vapor emitting devices, with or without nicotine content, that mimic the use of tobacco products at any time. These devices will be confiscated and the parent/guardian will be required to pick up the devises from the school office for the 1st and 2nd offenses. For the 3rd and subsequent offenses, the devises will be kept until the last day of school when a parent/guardian may pick them up.

A detailed obligation chart has been included in the handbook and may be used by Hope Academy staff as a guideline for disciplinary obligations for inappropriate behaviors. The chart is only a guideline, as the administration will make all final decisions regarding disciplinary obligations regarding student behavior. The chart includes minimum and maximum obligations for specific behaviors. These obligations will be used in conjunction with the restorative practice techniques described above. The Hope Academy Administration has the right to modify obligations to ensure safety and the educational process.

Section VII

Parking Privileges

Parking on the Hope Academy/Fairbanks campus is available for students who possess a valid driver's license and are in good standing with Hope Academy administration. Students will receive a parking tag that must be displayed in the vehicle at all times. Parking spaces have been designated "Student Parking", and any student found parking in non-designated spaces may be subject to loss of parking privileges or the risk of their vehicle being towed. Parking on Hope Academy/Fairbanks campus is a privilege not a necessity and may be revoked for failure to comply with parking regulations, school policies, and community expectations. Please note: Hope Academy/Fairbanks is not responsible for damage or loss of contents incurred to a vehicle on school grounds. Vehicles are parked and left at the discretion of the owner and driver. Access to vehicles is prohibited during instructional hours – failure to adhere to this policy will result in possible loss of parking privileges.

Search of motor vehicle—A student may be denied the privilege of bringing a motor vehicle on school grounds unless the student, the owner of the vehicle, and the parents of the student consent to the search of that vehicle when there is reasonable grounds for that search. If possible, the student whose vehicle is to be searched shall be present at the time of the search. The search may be conducted by the school administration, or designee, or school officials may contact law enforcement for assistance.

Students are not to transport or have other students in their vehicles while on the school's campus. Students will only be allowed to ride with another student to or from school if written permission has been received by both parents (the parent of the driver, and the parent of the student who is riding with the driver).

Transportation

Hope Academy is committed to accessibility to all students and families who are in need of a recovery-focused educational experience. Our transportation plan will consist of the following:

- Hope Academy is located in an area of the city that makes ease of access to all students and families.
- Parents are encouraged to bring students to school or develop car pools.
- The school is located at 8102 Clearvista Parkway which is accessible to the IndyGo bus system. Hope Academy students can apply for a half fare card through IndyGo. Applications are available in the school office for submission to IndyGo.
- If a student has a valid driver's license his/her parent can complete a permission form for him/her to drive to school. Once the permission to drive to school is completed and returned to Hope Academy, the student will receive a parking permit to display in his/her car.
- Students riding the school bus must have a signed permission slip on hand and must follow all rules and regulations outlined.

Lost and Found

All lost articles are turned in at the office. Students who have lost items of clothing, books, money, etc., should claim them in the office. Unclaimed items will be given to charitable organizations at the end of each semester.

Severe Winter Weather / Winter Storm

It may be necessary for the school to close or delay opening upon occasion because of weather conditions. Please do not call the school or school officials if a closing seems possible. The following television stations will provide closing information for Hope Academy. Hope Academy will be listed on the closing messages as "Hope Academy". We do not follow any other school districts weather related closings.

Appendix B

Anti-Harassment and Anti-Bullying Policy

Harassment Policy

Harassment of any type has no place in the school setting. The school will endeavor to maintain a learning and working environment that is free from harassment. Hope Academy expects administrators and supervisors to make it clear to students and staff that harassment in the school building, on school grounds, and at school functions will not be tolerated and will be grounds for disciplinary action up to and including suspension or expulsion or students and termination of employment of employees.

Harassment may include but not limited to sexual harassment, racial harassment, or harassment because of a physical condition or disability. It may also include but is not limited to hostile, demeaning, or intimidating behavior or conversation.

Sexual Harassment Policy

Sexual harassment is a violation of policy for any student or member of the Hope Academy staff to harass another student or staff member through conduct or communications of a sexual nature. Sexual harassment may include, but is not limited to unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, sex-oriented verbal "kidding," repeated remarks to a person with a sexual or demeaning implications, unwelcome touching, patting, pinching, or repeated brushing against another's body.

Sexual harassment is a form of sex discrimination, which violates Section 703 of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. It is policy of the school to maintain a learning and working environment that is free from sexual harassment. Hope Academy prohibits any form of sexual harassment.

It shall be a violation of this policy for any student or employee of the school to harass a student or employee through conduct or communication of a sexual nature as defined by this policy. Hope Academy will act to investigate all complaints and to discipline any student or employee of the school. Violators may be suspended, expelled, and/or terminated.

Bullying/Cyber bullying

Hope Academy is committed to providing a safe, positive, productive, and nurturing educational environment for all of its students. The school encourages the promotion of positive interpersonal relations between members of the school community. Bullying behavior toward a student whether by other students, staff, or third parties is strictly prohibited and will not be tolerated. This prohibition includes physical, verbal, and psychological abuse as provided herein. The school will not tolerate any gestures, comments, threats, or actions which cause or threaten to cause bodily harm or personal degradation. This policy applies when a student is on school grounds immediately before or during school hours, immediately after school hours, or at any other time when the school is being used by a school group; off school grounds at a school activity, function, or event; traveling to or from school or a school activity, function, or event; or, using property or equipment provided by the school.

Bullying as defined in State law means overt, repeated acts or gestures, including verbal or written communications transmitted, physical acts committed, or any other behaviors committed by a student or group of students against another student with the intent to harass, ridicule, humiliate, intimidate, or harm the other student. This type of behavior is a form of harassment, although it need not be based on any of the legally protected characteristics, such as sex, race, color, national origin, marital status, or disability. It would include, but not be limited to, such behaviors as stalking, intimidating, menacing, coercion, name-calling, taunting, making threats, and hazing.

Any student who believes s/he has been or is currently the victim of bullying should immediately report the situation to the building principal. The student may also report concerns to a teacher or counselor who will be responsible for notifying the appropriate administrator. Complaints against the building principal should be filed with the Chief Operating Officer.

Every student is encouraged, and every staff member is required, to report any situation that they believe to be bullying behavior directed toward a student. Reports may be made to those identified above.

All complaints about bullying behavior that may violate this policy shall be promptly investigated.

If the investigation finds an instance of bullying behavior has occurred, it will result in prompt and appropriate disciplinary action. This may include up to expulsion for students. Individuals may also be referred to law enforcement officials.

The complainant shall be notified of the findings of the investigation, and as appropriate, that remedial action has been taken.

Retaliation against any person, who reports, is thought to have reported, files a complaint, or otherwise participates in an investigation or inquiry concerning allegations of bullying is prohibited and will not be tolerated. Such retaliation shall be considered a serious violation and independent of whether a complaint is substantiated. Suspected retaliation should be reported in the same manner as bullying. Making intentionally false reports about bullying for the purpose of getting someone in trouble is similarly prohibited and will not be tolerated. Retaliation and intentionally false reports may result in disciplinary action as indicated above.

Confidentiality—to the extent appropriate and/or legally permitted, confidentiality will be maintained during the investigation process. However, a proper investigation will, in some circumstances, require the disclosure of names and allegations.

    a. As used in this policy, "reasonable cause for a search" means any circumstances, which would cause a reasonable person to believe that the search of a particular person, place, or thing will lead to the discovery of:

No student shall lock or otherwise impede access to any locker or storage area except with a lock provided by or approved by the principal of the school in which the locker or storage area is located. Unapproved locks shall be removed and destroyed. The school reserves the right to conduct random locker searches, during which time all lockers will be searched.

3. The principal, or a member of administrative staff designated by the principal, may search a locker and its contents where either the person conducting the search or the person designating the search believes there is reasonable cause. Where the locker to be searched is assigned to a particular student and that student is on the school premises at the time of the search, the student shall be notified prior to the search and given the option to be present at the search.

4. The principal, a member of the administrative staff designated by the principal may search a student's vehicle on school premises when the person conducting the search has reasonable cause for a search.

        ii. Any object in the possession of the student such as a purse, backpack, gym bag, or cell phone, iii. A "pat down" of the exterior of the student's clothing.
6. Searches of the person of a student that require removal of clothing other than a coat or jacket shall be referred to a law enforcement officer in accordance with this policy. A person of the same sex as the student being searched shall conduct searches of the person of a student in a private room. At least one, but not more than three, additional persons of the same sex as the student being searched shall witness, but not participate, in the search. The parent or guardian of any student searched shall be notified of the search as soon as reasonably possible.

7. Anything found in the course of a search conducted in accordance with this policy which is evidence of a violation of the student conduct standards contained in the student handbook may, as deemed appropriate by school authorities, be:
    a. Seized and admitted as evidence in any suspension or expulsion proceeding if it is tagged for identification at the time it is seized and kept in a secure place by the principal or the principal's designee until it is presented at the hearing,
    b. Returned to the parent or guardian of the student from whom it was seized,
    c. Destroyed if it has no significant value, or
    d. Turned over to any law enforcement officer in accordance with this policy.

8. Anything found in the course of a search conducted in accordance with this policy which by its presence presents an immediate danger of physical harm or illness to any person may be seized and, as considered appropriate by school authorities, may be:

    b. Identify or dispose of anything found in the course of a search conducted in accordance with this policy.

Violations of the Law

Some student actions/behaviors are violations of the law and will be addressed as required by Indiana Code. If unlawful activities occur on school grounds (before, during, or after school) or at a school function regardless of location, Hope Academy may contact law enforcement. As a public high school, Hope Academy is required to inform students and their parents, in the student handbook, that Indiana law (IC 20-33-8 Student Discipline) defines actions that may result in suspension or expulsion of a student and the procedures for suspension, expulsion, and re-enrollment. These actions include, but are not limited to, bullying, possession of firearms, deadly weapons, or destructive devices, possession or use of alcohol/illegal drugs, or drug paraphernalia. Law enforcement officials may be contacted if students are engaging in unlawful activity. Students may be suspended or expelled for activity that may interfere with school purposes and education function. Students should have no expectation of privacy in the student's locker, locker's contents, book bags, cell phones, or personal belongings.

Appendix D

Technology Usage Policy

Use of technology is essential to the curriculum and learning at Hope Academy. Students may be held financially responsible for intentional damage to Hope Academy technology equipment.

Freedom of expression is an inalienable human right and the foundation for self-government. Freedom of expression encompasses the right to freedom of speech and the corollary right to receive information. Such rights extend to minors as well as adults. Schools facilitate the exercise of these rights by providing access to information regardless of format or technology. In a free and democratic society, access to information is a fundamental right of citizenship.

In making decisions regarding student access to the Internet, Hope Academy considers its own stated educational mission, goals, and objectives. Electronic information research skills are now fundamental to prepare citizens and future employees. Access to the Internet enables students to explore thousands of libraries, databases, bulletin boards, and other resources while exchanging messages with people around the world. The school expects that faculty will blend thoughtful use of the Internet throughout the curriculum, and will provide guidance and instruction to students in its use. As much as possible, access from school to Internet resources should be structured in ways that point students to those that have been evaluated prior to using the Internet. While students will be able to move beyond those resources to others that have not been previewed by staff, they shall be provided with guidelines and lists of resources particularly suited to learning objectives.

The purpose of school-provided Internet access is to facilitate communications in support of research and education. To remain eligible as users, students' use must be in support of and consistent with the educational objectives of Hope Academy. Access is a privilege, not a right. Access entails responsibility.

Outside of school, families bear responsibility for the same guidance of Internet use as they exercise with information sources such as television, telephones, radio, movies, and other possibly offensive media.

Students utilizing school-provided Internet access must first have the permission of, and must be supervised by Hope Academy's professional staff. Students utilizing school-provided Internet access are responsible for appropriate behavior online just as they are in a classroom or other areas of the school. The same general rules for behavior and communications apply.

Users should not expect that files stored on school-based computers will always be private. Electronic messages and files stored on school-based computers may be treated like school lockers. Administrators and faculty may review files and messages to maintain system integrity and ensure that users are acting responsibly.

The following uses of school-provided Internet access are not permitted:

- to access, upload, download, or distribute pornographic, obscene, or sexually explicit material
- to transmit obscene, abusive, sexually explicit, or threatening language
- to violate any local, state, or federal statute
- to vandalize, damage, or disable the property of another individual or organization
- to access another individual's materials, information, or files without permission
- to violate copyright or otherwise use the intellectual property of another individual or organization without permission
- to visit web sites that promote alcohol and drug use
- to access Facebook or other social media web site pages used for meeting, blogging and talking, and/or messaging friends

Any violation of school policy and rules may result in loss of school-provided access to the Internet. Additional disciplinary action may be determined at the building level in keeping with existing procedures and practices regarding inappropriate language or behavior. When and where applicable, law enforcement agencies may be involved.

Hope Academy makes no warranties of any kind, neither expressed nor implied, for the Internet access it is providing. The school will not be responsible for any damages users suffer, including, but not limited to, loss of data resulting from delays or interruptions in service. The school will not be responsible for the accuracy, nature, or quality of information stored on school devices, hard drives, or servers, nor for the accuracy, nature, or quality of information gathered through school-provided Internet access. The school will not be responsible for personal property used to access school computers or networks or for school-provided Internet access. The school will not be responsible for unauthorized financial obligations resulting from school-provided access to the Internet.

Parents of students enrolled in Hope Academy shall be provided with the following information:

- Families should be aware that some material accessible via the Internet may contain items that are illegal, defamatory, inaccurate, or potentially offensive to some people. In addition, it is possible to purchase certain goods and services via the Internet which could result in unwanted financial obligations for which a student's parent or guardian would be liable.

- While the intent is to make Internet access available in order to further educational goals and objectives, students may find ways to access other materials as well. Even if the school instituted technical methods or systems to regulate students' Internet access, those methods could not guarantee compliance with the school's acceptable use policy. That notwithstanding, the school believes that the benefits to students of access to the Internet exceed any disadvantages. Ultimately, however, parents and guardians of minors are responsible for setting and conveying the standards that their student should follow when using media and information sources. Toward that end, Hope Academy makes the school's complete Internet policy and procedures available on request for review by all parents, guardians, and other members of the community; and provides parents and guardians the option of requesting for their minor student alternative activities not requiring Internet use.

NOTICE: This policy and all its provisions are subordinate to local, state, and federal statutes.

Appendix E

FERPA (Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act)

Parents have the right to see all records that pertain to their individual student. The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act is a Federal law that protects the privacy of student education reports. Further information may be found in Appendix C.
If you desire to view your student's records, contact the school secretary or school director. Student records may not leave the office area. You will be given a private area to view the records. By law, student records must be kept confidential and viewed only by school personnel dealing with the student directly.

Non-custodial Parent Rights
Unless a court order is on file preventing a parent from visiting or receiving information concerning a student, non-custodial parents have the right to visit students, view records, and take part in communications regarding the student. Please contact the school director concerning any problems with custodial and non-custodial parents that would affect our school.

Special Education
Parents of students identified with disabilities have certain legal rights. Please contact the office for a copy of those rights and safeguards. Parents who suspect that a student may have a disability have the right to request testing and can do so by contacting the school director.

Communication
Hope Academy encourages participation of parents/guardians in the education process of their student. Achieving maximum progress for your student necessitates a close line of communication and understanding between teacher and parent. Parent-teacher conferences are the best means of accomplishing this. A teacher or parent/guardian can initiate conferences to discuss student achievement throughout the school year. Conferences held with teachers should happen outside of class time as to not disrupt teaching time. Conferences can be scheduled by calling the school office or by sending a note to the teacher.

Parents are welcome at school and should sign in at the office prior to visiting a classroom or meeting with a teacher. Visitors must sign in at the administration office. Classroom visits must be approved by the principal and may be limited at the discretion of the principal, in alignment with instructional activities.

Notification of Hope Academy's Standard Measurement Package

To continue to operate as a Mayor's Office public charter high school, Hope Academy is required to measure empirically student academic progress as well as student recovery engagement and growth—the school's two purposes as stated in its mission. To demonstrate student growth in these two areas Hope Academy students will take a battery of tests, questionnaires, and instruments that will give a picture of their academic and recovery standing.

Academic Measures

The academic measures consist of the Northwest Evaluation Association Measure of Academic Progress--MAP and the Indiana Department of Education (IDOE) mandated End of Course Assessments—ECAs (which have replaced statewide Graduation Qualifying Exams). The NWEA-MAP is a standardized, nationally normed achievement test that measures student academic progress made between two administrations in the school year, one in the fall (September), and one in the spring (May). The IDOE's ECAs are given when a student completes Algebra I, English 10, and Biology. Hope Academy's school counselor administers all academic testing in accordance to state and national guidelines.

Recovery Measures

With the recovery school movement in its adolescence, few standardized recovery engagement and progress measures have been developed. Hope Academy is taking the leadership among recovery schools in assembling a package of measures that gauge key areas of the student's life that are inherently involved in the recovery process (called operations measures—i.e., how the student operates), as well as assembling measures that demonstrate the level of student engagement with recovery along with success and failure. These measures include:

- one of the few nationally normed measures which assesses students' general recovery, sobriety, and behavioral health needs (Global Appraisal of Individual Needs—Short Screener, GAIN-SS)
- a nationally normed developmental measure appraising students' developmental strengths and vulnerabilities (Attitude & Behaviors Survey, Search Institute ABS);
- a computerized emotional intelligence and management test that measures how well the student perceives and uses his/her emotions to promote attention, problem solving , and personal adjustment (Mayer, Salovey, Caruso, Emotional Intelligence Test, MSCEIT)
- relational/attachment inventories that portray how the student establishes and maintains relationships (Experiences in Close Relationships-Revised, ECR-R; & Parent Bonding Instrument, PBI)
- two spirituality questionnaires that measure the student's attraction/repulsion to spirituality—a key factor in 12-step meeting attendance, getting and maintaining a recovery sponsor, and working a personal recovery program--(Loving Controlling Higher Power/God Scales, LCHP/G Scales; & Parent Spirituality Questionnaire)

The School Counselor, Clinical Specialist and Recovery Coach will administer all recovery oriented tests, screens, questionnaires, surveys, and scales. Parents and students may request a schedule of all testing.

Confidentiality and Access to Individual Results

All test results are confidential and will only be accessed by faculty and staff on a need-to-know basis for the provision of educational and recovery services to the student. Parents and students alike are welcomed to request a meeting through the School Principal to review the results—the review may also involve the School Counselor, Clinical Specialist, and Recovery Coach.

Aggregated and Anonymous Results

This data will be aggregated in anonymous form and used for official reports, studies, grant requests, public and professional presentations, as well as use for school board approved research (conducted within state and federal ethical guidelines). Recovery data is being gathered in cooperation with Indiana Wesleyan University's departments of Psychology and Addictions Studies, which will use the aggregated data (along with other sources) to establish data pool norms from which current and future data will be compared.

PLATO EXPECTATIONS AND GUIDELINES

1. Each student's Plato progress will be monitored by their in-class Plato instructor. ONLY YOUR ASSIGNED LAB TEACHER WILL UNLOCK TESTS, AND ONLY DURING YOUR ASSIGNED LAB.

2. If a student completes a Plato course before the end of the semester, the Plato instructor will forward the student's final grade (via an email or Plato's grade report printout) to the school counselor for transcript recording and grade tracking updates.

3. Students who finish a course before the end of the semester MUST CONTINUE TO RE-READ TUTORIALS AND IMPROVE GRADES ON MASTERY TESTS. ONCE IMPROVEMENT IS NO LONGER POSSIBLE, THE FINAL GRADE WILL BE RECORDED ON THE TRANSCRIPT, AND THE STUDENT, LAB TEACHER, AND GUIDANCE COUNSELOR WILL DETERMINE THE STUDENT'S COURSE OF ACTION FOR THE REST OF THE SEMESTER.

4. Students who fail to achieve the following minimum standards will not receive credit for the course:

    a. Students must complete (100%) of the Mastery Tests in order to receive a credit.
    b. Students must receive at least a 70% GRADE (not completion) in the overall course to receive a credit.
    c. Students must complete all discussion activities (located at the beginning of each unit) to receive credit for the course.
    Students DO NOT have to complete offline activities

5. Students may use any notes/activities/practice problems on Plato assessments. Students are expected to take notes in order to achieve success on tests. Tests will not be unlocked until students show notes to the instructor.

6. DO NOT Use the internet to search for answers for any Plato assessment. This is considered cheating. In fact, if any other web browser or web browser tab is open, and is not part of a PLATO assignment, it will also be considered cheating.
    a. One infraction will result in a zero on the assessment with parent notification. The test cannot be retaken.
    b. Any further infraction will result in a withdrawal/fail in the Plato course.

Students will:

1. Turn in any cell phone or similar electronic device. If a student is caught on any such device, it will be considered cheating ,and the student will lose credit for that assignment/test. Students will not receive credit for assignment/tests under these circumstances.
2. Work on all PLATO during school hours ONLY and ONLY during the assigned class time in the PLATO lab. Teachers will be monitoring login/use time to ensure work is being completed during assigned times. If students are working on assignments outside of class time or the PLATO lab, any work completed will be lost and a grade of 0 will be entered. All tests will be locked initially. Students will notify the Plato instructor when he/she is ready to take a test. If a student does not finish a test during class time, the test will be re-locked until the next time the student has a Plato lab.
3. Budget time wisely. Students will not receive extensions for incomplete Plato courses. Staff will assist students to make sure they are on track to finish before the end of the semester. All coursework must be finished by the assigned due date.

4. Receive a progress report that indicates the percentage of the course that has been completed. IF, BY THE END OF THE FIRST (6-WEEK) GRADING PERIOD, A STUDENT HAS NOT REACHED 33% IN ALL PLATO CLASSES, STUDENT WILL MEET WITH THE GUIDANCE COUNSELOR TO SET UP A CALENDAR TO CATCH UP ON MATERIAL. PARENTS WILL ALSO BE NOTIFIED, AND IF NECESSARY, EXTRA SUPPORTS WILL BE UTILIZED IN CLASS TO MAINTAIN ON-TASK BEHAVIOR.

CSP APPENDIX E: ENROLLMENT POLICY

Hope Academy Enrollment Process

We have created a school environment that is focused on recovery and academic success. Enrolling in Hope Academy can be a life-changing experience for parents and students. Our enrollment process ensures students and parents will have the necessary information to make an informed decision.

Get started today:

1. Fill out the Initial Enrollment Application. If you have any questions while filling out your enrollment application, please email Linda Gagyi (lgagyi@fairbankscd.org) or call (317) 572-9356. Once we review your application, we will contact you to set up an interview.
2. Interview. We want to learn about you, and we want you to learn about us. During this time, we ask that you be honest and open. Hope Academy is a very nonjudgmental environment. Our priority is to best serve each student. Together, we will decide if Hope is the right fit for your family. If it is, we will ask you to complete the rest of the enrollment packet.
3. Enrollment Packet. Fill out a packet with further enrollment information including waivers, health information, demographic information, academic information and a parking permit application. You and your student will need to read the student handbook and sign off that you understand all rules and regulations that come with attending Hope Academy.
4. Academic Transfer Records. Please be sure to return the Academic Transfer of Records form to Deb Leser as soon as possible so that we may request academic records from your previous school in a timely manner. The process of transferring records generally takes 1-3 days, so the sooner we receive records, the sooner we can schedule a new student.
5. Get Ready for Hope. There is usually a waiting period of 1-5 days before a student is scheduled and ready to start school at Hope Academy. The length of the wait depends on how quickly records are requested and sent from the previous school. Once we have transcripts and other pertinent academic information, we will contact you with a schedule and start date.

Effective Date: 7/08	Supersedes: 3/06

POLICY

A fire in a school is a serious threat to safety. Therefore, any person who discovers smoke or fire, no matter how small or insignificant, must immediately remove people from danger, pull the nearest fire alarm and implement the fire plan.

I. General Information

1. Fire alarm pull stations and portable fire extinguishers are located throughout the building.
2. An automatic sprinkler system is connected to the fire alarm system.
3. There are ceiling-mounted smoke and heat detectors located throughout the building
4. When activated, the fire alarm system automatically transmits an alarm to a monitoring service. Unless notified to the contrary, the monitoring company will immediately notify the fire department of the alarm details.

II. Fire Extinguisher

To use a Class A-B-C fire extinguisher: P-A-S-S

1. Pull the pin in the handle.

2. Aim the hose at the base of the flames.
3. Squeeze the lever in the handle to activate the dry chemical discharge.
4. Keep the canister in an upright position and slowly sweep the discharge across the base of the flames to cover all of the burning material and thus smother the fire.
5. The dry chemical extinguisher has a smothering effect on fires and the chemical dust in the air can also make it difficult to breathe. Therefore, never discharge an A-B-C extinguisher towards other people and, after putting out a fire with a dry chemical extinguisher, make sure people stay clear of that area, particularly people with respiratory problems.

III. Fire Alarm System Operation

1. When an alarm pull station or automatic fire detection device senses fire/smoke, a loud buzzer will sound to notify personnel of a fire. Wall-mounted visual alarms will begin flashing in synchronization with the audio alarms.
2. In the event the alarm system is not functioning, the person first noting the fire should access the overhead paging system and announce: "Code Red" and the location of the fire three times.

IV. Procedure

R - Rescue
A- Alarm
C- Contain
E- Extinguish or evacuate

1. Assemble all students and staff and proceed to the evacuation site located by the marquee in the end of the parking lot and complete a head count.
2. Staff should check all rooms, closets, bathrooms to ensure that everyone is accounted for.
3. Close doors and turn off lights.
4. Do not assemble patients in classrooms or other areas within the building that do not have an exit to the outside.
5. Never assume that students, staff, or visitors are safe until there is absolute confirmation of the fact they are secure.
6. Staff and students are to slowly and quietly proceed through the hall way and out the door into the parking lot where another head count will be taken.
7. Staff and students are to wait for further instructions from the School Director/designee or Fire Department personnel.
8. If students are out of the classroom, a designated staff member locates the students and brings them to the assembly site and/or uses the school "walkie-talkies" to notify staff of the relocation.

VI. Notification of all clear

1. The School Director/Principal/designee or Fire Department Personnel will declare an all clear when it is safe for staff and students to return to their areas. During evacuation, all personnel will remain outside the building until the all clear is given.

PROCEDURE
I. Abrasions
A. Caused by rubbing or scraping off the outer layer of skin or mucous membrane.
1. Thorough cleaning with soap and water;

3. Topical antibiotics are optional (Check for allergies).
II. Lacerations
A. Incised wounds and puncture wounds- usually produced by blunt, sharp instruments or falls against sharp objects.
1. If bleeding is not severe, wash with soap and water;
2. Apply a sterile compression dressing;
3. If bleeding is severe, apply pressure with a sterile dressing, elevate the injured site and transfer to emergency room.
III. Electric Shock
A. Injury resulting from the passage of electric current through the body.
1. Separate the individual from the current source;
Cutting off the current by turning off the switch or unplugging the appliance, OR Removing the person from the contact with the current.
DO NOT TOUCH THE PERSON. Use cloth, leather belt, or some other insulating material.
2. Initiate CPR if needed;
3. Dial 911.
IV. Contusions
A. A bruise; the act of bruising. Damage to the soft tissue resulting in swelling and discoloration of the involved tissues.
1. Immobilize the affected area;
2. For severe contusions to the extremities, elevate and apply snug elastic bandage;
3. Transfer to emergency room if indicated.

V. Investigation of Foreign Objects

A. Contrary to popular belief, unless actual obstruction or danger of perforation is present, foreign bodies in the respiratory and alimentary tracts do not represent urgent danger.

1. If obstructed airway (the individual cannot talk, respiratory distress, or cyanosis) perform Heimlich maneuver and/or CPR;
2. Dial 911;
3. Try to determine size, shape, nature, and number of object(s) ingested;
4. Transfer to emergency room.

V. Suspected Joint Injuries and Suspected Fractures

1. DO NOT remove the injured individual unless there are enough people to support the joints on either side of the injury;
2. Immobilize and elevate the affected joint;
3. Apply cold compress, if tolerated;
4. Dial 911;
5. Transfer to emergency room.

VI. Diabetic Coma/Insulin Shock

A. The signs and symptoms of these two medical conditions are similar, and often it is difficult to determine which physiological condition is responsible for the affected individual's present status.

1. Give juice with sugar and observe for an improvement in clinical status in 5-10 minutes;
2. Review individual's history of eating, exercise, last insulin dosage, possibility of infection, and onset of symptoms;
3. Transfer to emergency room.

VII. Anaphylaxis or Anaphylactic Shock

A. Usually develops within a few seconds or minutes after exposure to the allergen, but may be delayed for a few hours. This condition can be rapidly fatal despite treatment attempts. The individual may complain of a sense of uneasiness, then become agitated and flushed. Palpitations, paresthesia, pruritus, throbbing in the ear, coughing, sneezing, and dyspnea are other typical complaints. The signs and symptoms of shock may develop within one to two (1-2) minutes.

1. Position the affected individual to avoid aspiration of vomitus and secretions.
2. Trained staff member will prepare and administer EpiPen 0.3mg per manufacturer directions.
3. Dial 911 for EMS.
4. Maintain an airway and cardiac function. Perform CPR if indicated.
5. If injected allergen is responsible, place a tourniquet above the injection site to minimize systemic effect.

VIII. Cardiac/Respiratory Arrest

1. Initiate CPR or perform Heimlich maneuver if airway blockage is suspected;
2. Dial 911;

IX. Over-dosage

A. Accidental or Intentional

1. Try to determine when, how much, and what was taken
2. Call 911/Notify Principal or designee.
3. Start CPR if patient is unresponsive and/or has slow, shallow, or no breathing is present-it is best practice to place patient on back and on hard surface prior to starting CPR.
4. Narcan will be prepared and administered as an intranasal spray by a trained staff member-follow the kit instructions for preparing the medication.
5. If the initial dose of Narcan is ineffective a second dose may be given 2-3 minutes after the first dose.
6. If the second dose of Narcan is ineffective the patient could be experiencing a different medical emergency. Continue to provide the patient CPR and any other supportive measures within the staff member's scope of practice until EMS arrives.

Hope Academy
Policy and Procedure

Policy Number: H 7	Title of Policy: Severe Weather Plan	Page 1 of 2
Effective Date:	Supersedes:

7/11	7/08

POLICY
It is Hope Academy's policy to monitor severe weather to protect the students, staff and visitors that are in the building during severe weather.

PROCEDURE
L. Severe Weather Plan
1. Severe Weather conditions (or the potential for same) can be considered in the following four (4) categories:
   a. Thunderstorm Watch
   b. Thunderstorm Warning
   c. Tornado Watch
   d. Tornado Warning
2. Warnings of severe or potentially severe weather conditions will be issued by the National Weather Service (NWS) Station KEC-74 (162.55MHz).
3. These messages may be received via outdoor sirens emitting a three to five (3-5) minute steady sound, weather-alert radios, regular radios, television sets and/or via the Internet. If an alert is broadcast, listen for information and instructions. The regular radio should be turned to WIBC FM 93.1 (operates 24 hours a day). TV sets should be turned to Channels 6, 8 or 13.

II. Tornadoes
Tornadoes can occur in Indiana during any month of the year and at any hour of the day or night. They occur most frequently during the months of April and June, during late afternoon and early evening hours. Severe weather can approach from any direction. However, tornadoes generally approach from a southwesterly direction. The following will be procedures for tornado warnings:
1. Warning to students, visitors, and staff will be made via the Public Address (PA) System.
2. The school secretary/designee will page the warning.
3 In order to eliminate confusion, a standard announcement will be made:

ATTENTION:
The National Weather Service has issued a tornado warning effective immediately for this area. All students and staff assemble in your assigned areas and await further instructions.

(REPEAT THE MESSAGE THREE [3] TIMES)

4. Upon receiving the warning, teachers assemble all students, staff and visitors and proceed to their designated shelter area. Once assembled, a head count will be taken.
5. Students/staff are to stand/sit on the floor with backs against the walls.
6. Weather-Alert Radios will remain on the "weather" setting.
7. Students and staff will wait for an "all clear" from the NWS or further instructions from the School Director/Principal/designee.

8. If students are out of the classroom, a designated staff member locates the students and quickly brings them to the safe area or uses the group text on personal cell phones to notify staff of the relocation.

V. BUILDING DAMAGE

1. If the building is damaged to a point that resumption of normal activities is not possible, students will be sent home.
2. If injuries have been sustained, those injured will be transported to the nearest hospital for treatment.

VI. NOTIFICATION OF PARENTS/RESPONSIBLE PARTIES

1. If students are to be sent home, a designated school staff member will notify parents/responsible parties.

2. If injured students are sent to a hospital, a designated school staff member will notify parents/responsible parties.

2. Designated school staff will maintain a list of when and with whom/how the student left the school
