I was hired in January 2015. My mentor left in May 2015. For the next school year, I was able to connect with several teachers who served like mentors.

Each week I was able to sit with other special education staff and discuss professional development and other questions about my job.

My mentor teacher taught the same level of classes. She worked with me to help me learn the best ways to plan for block classes. She was my sounding board for classroom management issues.
