

Summer Meals for Your Children

Did you know that many communities provide meals free to children in low income areas during the summer when schools are closed?

The Summer Food Service Program provides nutritious meals to all children aged 18 and younger at participating feeding sites. These meals provide essential nutrients for active, growing kids. To participate in this program all kids have to do is show up at an open feeding site. These sites are run in parks, schools, playgrounds, community centers and other locations.
