

Senior Student Building Audits

Mooreville Schools are Making it Happen!

WE ARE Mooreville Schools located in Mooreville, Indiana. Mooreville Schools is a small suburban school district in Morgan County. We work with over 4,500 students, and employ over 300. Our school corporation is home to: Mooreville High School, Paul Hadley Middle School, Neil Armstrong Elementary School, Newby Elementary School, North Madison Elementary School, Northwood Elementary School, and Waverly Elementary School.

OUR STUDENTS & FAMILIES are supportive and proud of the safety efforts and precautions that are in place for all Mooreville Schools. Working with our senior students, and local agencies, we are able to audit all school buildings for fire; intruders; natural weather disasters; safe schools; and much more.

OUR PROMISING PRACTICE is training a group of thirty-five senior students to audit each of our schools. These students look at a variety of safety and security protocols to make sure each building is following their safety plan and that buildings are secure throughout the day.

OUR STEPS are the students have a one-day training in the fall. Students listen to guest speakers, such as: Mooreville Fire Department; Morgan County Sheriff's Department; Mooreville Schools' staff; and community members. Students are trained on what to look for and how to conduct an audit. Students are placed on audit teams and go to schools around our district to observe and interview students and staff. They also have a checklist of items to look for throughout the building. Administrative observation teams are formed to observe the students and audit what is being conducted. After the one-day audit, students write a narrative for the school they were assigned to audit and give the narrative to the School Safety Specialist and building administrator to review. At the conclusion of the audit, there is a debriefing on what was observed and possible practices that need to be changed or altered.

IN OUR OWN WORDS "Senior Audits allow us to get the viewpoints of safety and security from our students with whom most have been in our school system since Kindergarten. These students know our procedures and how to react in a certain situation. We value the thoughts and ideas of our students who team up with us to ensure our buildings are safe and secure at all times."
Rex Cook, Mooreville Schools Safety Specialist

For more information about our school or corporation, email: rex.cook@moorevilleschools.org visit our website: <http://www.moorevilleschools.org>